PM IN RETROSPECT; ARTICLES PAGES 5, 16

Next week Lester Bowles Pearson brings to a close his lengthy public career, which includes 20 years in the House of Commons, the last five as prime minister. On Page 16 today is a review of Mr. Pearson's life and times, which create a controversial discussion about his place in Canadian history. On Page 5 is an assessment of his achievements, by special writer George Bain.

Pennell Resigns From Cabinet

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Solicitor-General Larry Pennell has resigned from the cabinet effective today, Prime Minister Pearson announced to reporters.

Mr. Pearson also said after a cabinet meeting that he and Liberal Leader Trudeau have agreed that Mr. Trudeau will take over as prime minister on Monday.

Mr. Trudeau met External Affairs Minister Martin privately in Mr. Martin's office after the cabinet meeting. Neither would say whether Mr. Martin will remain in the administration.

Former trade minister Winters told reporters he would see Mr. Trudeau later today.

Asked whether he will return to the cabinet, Mr. Winters replied: "That's up to him."

Mr. Pennell is expected to be appointed to the Ontario bench, which case he would also resign his Commons seat—Brant-ldimand in Ontario.

Mr. Pearson said he had hoped Mr. Pennell would remain in the cabinet. But he had received his letter of resignation "the other day."

FOUR VACANCIES

There now are four cabinet vacancies. Besides Mr. Pennell and Mr. Winters, State Secretary LaMarsh and Labor Minister Nicholson have resigned.

Mr. Pearson said he does not expect any other resignations.

Mr. Trudeau said he will announce his cabinet Monday.

Mr. Trudeau was again asked about his age, listed as 46 in the Parliamentary Guide and 48 in Montreal court records.

He said he believes he has never told his age to anyone. He had not supplied the information for the Parliamentary Guide.

Mr. Trudeau added that he does not correct errors in the newspapers unless they are important. His age wasn't important.

"I think I know my age," he said.

LAST FOR PEARSON

Today's cabinet meeting was probably the last presided over by Mr. Pearson, though the prime minister said there might be another with him in the chair.

Mr. Pearson said the cabinet discussed the Ottawa-Paris-Quebec tangle about Canadian representation, if any, at an international education conference in Paris opening Monday.

Jules Leger, Canadian ambassador to France who has been here since Saturday, said he has talked with Mr. Trudeau about the situation.

Mr. Trudeau said the present problem is not an exact parallel with that of Gabon in February.

Canada suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon when that French-speaking nation in Africa bypassed Ottawa and sent a direct invitation to Quebec for the first session of the education conference. Quebec accepted and has been notified by Paris of the second session beginning Monday.

Mr. Trudeau said he is not planning to create the post of deputy prime minister when he forms his cabinet next week.

Did he expect to have one in his cabinet? he was asked prior to the cabinet meeting.

"No," he replied.

The new Liberal leader said he was still in the "juggling process" of cabinet-making and no slots have been filled yet.

He will continue to see ministerial prospects in coming days, including Mr. Winters.

There have been several reports in the past week that Mr. Winters, who came second in the leadership race, was

CANADIAN CHARGED

Attache Acted As 'Spy Tower'

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet government today accused a Canadian and five United States military attaches of overstepping the line between legal activity and "open espionage".

The Canadian, described in the government newspaper Izvestia as a lookout man for three of the Americans, was identified as Wing Commander J. V. Watson, the Canadian air attache here.

The Canadian and U.S. embassies rejected the charges as unfounded, denying that the attaches had done anything wrong.

Charges d'affaires of the two embassies were called separately to the Soviet foreign ministry today and the charges presented to them.

However, there was no immediate indication that the Soviet government would declare the attaches persona non grata—unwanted persons—and expel them from Russia.

The U.S. embassy responded with a charge that the Soviet Union on several occasions violated the diplomatic immunity of American military attaches in Moscow. It said the violations ranged "from minor, such as short detention, to various serious ones involving prolonged detention, forcible search and seizing of personal property."

The charges, as detailed in Izvestia, implied spying at a military base in Soviet White Russia and a shipyard in Leningrad.

The newspaper accused U.S. assistant army attaches Lt.-Col. Hugo M. Watson and Lt.-Col. Gerhard L. Jacobson of slipping into a closed area near Borisov, in Soviet White Russia, and taking notes "of an intelligence character."

Assistant U.S. naval attaches Cmdr. Robert Hamer, Lt.-Cmdr. Ralph N. Channel and marine Lt.-Col. Wayne Richards were accused of photographing a Leningrad shipyard, with the assistance of Wing Commander Watson.

TAKING WALK

Watson told a reporter the group was walking down a street when a Soviet policeman stopped them, asked for identification and detained them in conversation for about an hour. They were not taking photos at the time, Watson said, and were not considering it. He also said they were unaware they were in a sensitive area.

Izvestia says the Leningrad incident occurred April 8 and

Gov't Would Head Off Teachers' Politicking

Trustee Cheers Federation's Stand

The militant attitude of teachers attending the annual convention in Penticton has delighted Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn.

"I wish our association (the B.C. School Trustees) was as militant," he said this morning. "I am delighted with their attitude and action. The government will have to listen to 18,000 of them."

Mr. Bunn said he had sent a telegram of congratulations to the convention.

"This is the only way to go about it," he said. "It is time to get tough. I just wish the trustees would take similar action in support of the teachers' stand."

PENTICTON (CP) — Education Minister Leslie Peterson indicated Tuesday the British Columbia government would act if the B.C. Teachers Federation opposes new legislation on a partisan political basis.

He said in an interview at the federation's convention, where delegates passed a resolution backing a $57,000 campaign of opposition to new school financing legislation:

"We could not compel every teacher to join a federation which used part of its dues money for political purposes. We'd have to change that legislation."

The minister indicated he would not object if the federation took action in a broad political sense—by striving for better education. But action could not be on a partisan basis.

The resolution, moved by Ray Wunderlich of the Greater Victoria Teachers Association, calls for a lobby of the legislature in 1969 to discuss education financing and a public relations campaign before the next general election in the province.

At issue is Bill 86, which revamps school financing program. It was criticized by BCTF delegates as "anti-education," giving the minister too much power and giving teachers no role.

FAULTS CONCEDED

Mr. Peterson conceded faults might show up in the legislation but critical teachers have "misguided foresight."

"What has been overlooked is that in the new formula we're increasing the foundation level to practically full basic costs," the minister told a news conference.

"There has been a $40,000,000 increase in the budget this year. Is that slashing?"

The BCTF resolution also calls for the "right" of the federation to be involved in decisions on school construction.

Mr. Peterson said major responsibility for decisions on schools and their uses must rest with his department and school boards. This policy had not changed since the new legislation was brought in.

Mr. Peterson said the new financing formula will result in more equality of educational opportunity throughout B.C.

"The old financial formula couldn't be readily adapted to today's costs and still encourage economy. Some of the school districts were not getting good values for their money under it."

Mr. Peterson held the news conference after attending a delegates dinner at the convention. He was invited to speak at the dinner but declined on grounds of short notice.

The resolution, given overwhelming support, approves a $3-a-head levy on the more than 19,000 members of the BCTF to finance the campaign against the Schools Act amendments.

He said a ceiling on school construction costs—of $15,000 for each elementary school classroom and $22,000 for secondary classrooms—is temporary.

"The $15,000 level is a bit tight," he said, "but we are receiving tenders below that."

Earlier, delegates were told construction of elementary schools in Vancouver costs between $32,000 and $39,000 a room.

THANT ENTERS SITE TALKS

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — UN Secretary General Thant is in contact with Hanoi, presumably to help select a site for preliminary peace talks, his spokesman said today. Thant, widely suggested as a possible third party to seek agreement on a site, discussed the situation at length with U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg Tuesday, the spokesman said.

LONDON (UPI) — Third power intervention is expected to try to break the deadlock over the choice of a site for Vietnam peace talks between Hanoi and Washington, informed sources here said today.

U.S. Blamed For Impasse On Location

HANOI (CP) — The official Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan demands that the United States agree promptly to meet in Warsaw, and protests against intensified raiding of North Vietnam.

If the United States "obstinately refuses to accept" either Phnom Penh, Cambodia, or Warsaw, Poland, as a meeting site, it would "demonstrate its deceitfulness and bear entire responsibility," the party daily says.

Commenting on President Johnson's statement in Honolulu Monday that it had been "two long weeks since I restricted our bombing and urged North Vietnam to come to the conference table," Nhan Dan says this amounted to "intimidation" and betrayed the bombing curtailment as "a manoeuvre."

Ford, Auto Union Resume Negotiations

TORONTO (CP) — Talks aimed at ending a strike by more than 11,000 members of the United Auto Workers against Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. resumed today.

Following the 10:30 a.m. walkout at five Ford plants Tuesday, negotiations resumed at 6 p.m. but were broken off at 2 this morning.

A union spokesman said that despite hopes of an early settlement, no plans have been made to arrange local meetings for ratification of a new contract.

"We're not making any definite plans yet, because we have issues to win and we are going stay here until we do," he said.

Anti-Springer Riots Renewed

BERLIN (UPI) — Radical left-wing students who have staged violent demonstrations in 11 West German cities today pledged more of the same to tumble the anti-communist publishing empire of press lord Axel Springer.

While Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger held an emergency meeting with his cabinet in Bonn, Frank Wolff and other leaders of the Socialist German udents Federation (SDS) met i Frankfurt to express deep regret over the first fatality of the riots, a press photographer.

STARFIGHTER TOLL HITS 40

BONN (Reuters)—The West German Air Force lost its 40th Starfighter pilot in a crash near Munich today, the defence ministry said.

It was the 80th Starfighter to crash since the American-designed supersonic aircraft went into service with the military forces in 1961.

Warning To Hanoi

WASHINGTON (UPI, — Secretary of State Dean Rusk today warned Hanoi not to lose its chance for Vietnam peace talks by continuing to indulge in propaganda or miscalculating the American resolve.

Rusk, in a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, cautioned at the same time that the American public should realize when peace talks start, there would be grave consequences if the administration "let anything go by default.

WIRE BRIEFS

4 Slain in Texas

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI) — Four persons were found dead along a two-mile stretch of highway today in what the Texas department of public safety called apparent mass murder. Two children, one shot and one stabbed, were found alive but in critical condition and officers said a seventh person was missing. Officers put road blocks throughout the area.

Poor Law Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Attorney-General Ramsey Clark warned today orders to police to shoot rioters could lead to "a very dangerous escalation" of racial violence in American cities.

"I do not believe that the use of deadly force by law enforcement officers is permissible except in self-defence or when it is necessary to protect the lives of others," Clark said.

Phone Strike Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the Communications Workers of America said today "it is now too late" to avoid a nationwide strike Thursday against the Bell Telephone System in the United States.

"The strike is on," Joseph A. Beirne said. "The point for averting the strike has passed."

5 Killed In Riot At Prison

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Five prisoners were killed and 80 persons injured early today when guards at North Carolina Central Prison fired on a crowd of about 500 demonstrating prisoners.

Five of the injured were guards, the others prisoners.

State Correction Commissioner V. Lee Bounds said the riot erupted shortly after 1:30 a.m. when the prisoners set fire to a small building in a yard of the maximum-security facility and "began throwing lighted torches at unarmed custodial officers."

About 45 state highway patrolmen and 50 Raleigh policemen responded to the prison's emergency call for support for prison guards.

Prisoners had staged a sit-down strike in the yard Tuesday and presented a list of grievances to Commissioner Bounds, who said he refused to negotiate with the prisoners.

"I talk to inmates daily, but I do not yield to inmate demands that I do anything," Bounds said afterward.

He said the demonstrators were confined to an open yard by custodial officers armed with chemical Mace and nightsticks.

WEAPONS HOME MADE

After the building was set fire, Bounds reported, the prisoners—many of them armed with homemade weapons and torches—began to advance on the guards on the grounds.

"They began throwing lighted torches on the unarmed custodial officers, and the armed custodial officers began opening fire," Bounds said.

Armed guards stationed on the walls of the 75-year-old structure in Raleigh fired down on the crowd with shotguns.

Bounds said the five guards injured in the brief battle received minor wounds from rico-

BY PARK IN TALKS WITH JOHNSON

Strong U.S. Commitment Sought

HONOLULU (UPI) — President Johnson today sought to assure President Chung Hee Park of South Korea that the quest for peace in Vietnam will not mean a U.S. retreat from Communism in Asia.

Chief aim of the meeting between the two presidents was for Johnson to explain the recent U.S. peace offensive. But it was obvious that Park was deeply concerned about winning a stronger U.S. commitment to defend, not only South Korea, but also other Asian nations threatened with Communist aggression.

U.S. officials have indicated before the meeting that "Park has his own problems at home." They conceded the Asian leader would need more than casual convincing that the U.S. is not about to weaken its stand against Communist aggression.

More specifically, Park is concerned about a possible renewal of aggression by North Korea this spring and the U.S. reaction to it.

U.S. officials have indicated that the latest incident in Korea pointed to the possibility of a step-up in aggression by North Korea.

Park has made it very clear that if the U.S. dilutes its efforts against Communism in Asia he may be forced to pull South Korea's troops out of Vietnam to protect their homeland.

South Korea, with 50,000 troops, is the largest U.S. ally in Vietnam.

In a statement issued before his arrival Tuesday night, Park warned, "There is a limit to concessions and patience" in the attempts to get North Vietnam to come to the peace table. The South Korean leader said the U.S. actions to attract Hanoi into negotiations were "very useful," but he reminded the U.S. that the allied troops in South Vietnam were there to combat Communist aggression.

Seagull Bigger Than Boat Boy Tells Rescuers

TORONTO (CP) — One of the scary things for a 10-year-old adrift on Lake Ontario is the big seagull who goes along for the ride.

David Blackmore was rescued from a rubber dinghy early Tuesday after drifting away from the Toronto waterfront the night before.

He said today:

'A big seagull rode on the boat with me. . . Its wings were bigger than the boat and I was afraid it was going to peck me. It flew away and then came back again."

Released from hospital after a rapid recovery from his freezing ordeal in the five-foot rubber dinghy, David told a reporter:

"I was really scared and I prayed. I thought I was gone. I thought of my mother and my father and my bed at home and I wished I was there."

DRIFTED SEVEN MILES

He was carried seven miles from the spot at an east-central beach where he found the abandoned dinghy and set out for a ride. Despite his efforts with an oar, the wind and currents carried him out into the lake.

With dawn he regained hope.

"I could see four big tanks on shore and I felt sure someone would find me.

"I was frozen because water got into the boat every time I switched from one side to the other to paddle."

David's rescue was attributed by harbor police to the detailed knowledge of the lake's currents of Lt.-Cmdr. A. A. F. Hodge, captain of the research vessel Port Dauphine.

The ship set out in darkness from its Belleville base and was close by the boy after dawn Monday. He was picked out of the ice-covered dinghy by the crew.

the Borisov case was one day later.

The Soviet foreign ministry complained to the U.S. embassy last August that Jacobson had conducted other activities "incompatible with his diplomatic status" in the city of Chuguyev, Izvestia says. It did not elaborate.

Izvestia said Matson and Jacobson penetrated a military base near Borisov in Byelorussia April 9 aboard a local bus. It declared all passengers on the bus were warned to get off if they did not have special passes.

USED BAD LANGUAGE

When the bus was stopped for a document check, Izvestia said, the two attaches swore at the Soviet soldiers and then said they did not speak Russian.

Written notes "of an espionage charter" were found on them, it added.

The newspaper said Jacobson was involved in a similar incident in August in Chuguyev in the Ukraine, but gave no details. It said the Soviet foreign ministry protested to the U.S. embassy at that time.

The newspaper charged that the three U.S. naval attaches and Watson took illegal photographs in Leningrad shipyard April 8.

The three Americans used the tall Canadian officer as an "observation tower" to spy out suitable objects for photographing over fences and walls, it said.

The Kremlin organ said they also swore at shipyard security officials and refused to hand over their film. It said the four were involved in previous "suspicious outings" but gave no details.

"It seems to us it is time that certain military attaches learned to see the frontier between activities permitted by their status and open espionage," the newspaper said.

The incident was the second involving Canadian military attaches in Communist countries this year.

On Jan. 4 the Canadian deputy military attache in Warsaw, Lt.-Col. Kenneth J. Jefferson of Regina, was arrested and held 11 hours for allegedly carrying out espionage activities in company with an American diplomat.

Col Jefferson was outside Poland on vacation when accusations against him were made by the Polish government Jan. 11. He did not return to Warsaw.

Canada accused Poland of violating Col. Jefferson's diplomatic status in the incident.

The external affairs department declined immediate comment on the Watson case.

The defence department said Wing Cmdr. Watson is a 45-year-old native of Lansing, Ont., who was posted to Moscow in July, 1967.

Noting Izvestia's reference to his height, the department said he stands five feet, 11 inches.

Col. Jefferson now is stationed at Halifax, the spokesman said.

The external affairs spokesman said Col. Jefferson had not been sent back to Warsaw because of the interpretation the Polish authorities had placed on the incident—with which the Canadian government did not agree.

It had been decided in the interests of Polish-Canadian relations and in the interest of the officer himself that he should not go back.

The Jefferson incident also involved allegation of picture-taking in a restricted area. The Canadian government insisted that the area involved was not restricted and that there were no signs prohibiting photography.

Guilty Pleas In Theft From Cafe

Two men pleaded guilty today to charges resulting from the theft of a cash register from Canton Chinese Food, 1815 Fort, early April 14.

Alexander Wilks, 30, of 1612 Richmond, pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft. Joseph Badour, 29, of the same address, pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods.

Sgt. Gordon Bennett said he found the missing cash register in their apartment early today.

Court was told Wilks broke into the store by "cheating" the lock on a rear door. When he could not open the register, he took it to the apartment where Badour helped force it.

The pair split the $50 loot.

Magistrate Ostler remanded Wilks to April 24 for presentence report and Badour to Friday for sentence.

Hunt Pressed For Escaped Prisoners

Local police forces are still searching for two prisoners who fled the William Head minimum security prison Sunday night.

Checks at airports and ferry terminals have turned up no sign of Delmar Ferguson, 24, serving a three-year term for manslaughter, and Norman Cottrell, 24, serving two-year term for criminal negligence causing bodily harm.

Ferguson is described as five feet eight inches, 155 pounds, light brown hair, blue eyes, with letters DLF tattooed on his right wrist.

cheting shot and prisoners' weapons. Some of the injured prisoners, he said, were reported in critical condition at the prison hospital. Three men were taken to a Raleigh hospital when the prison hospital was filled to capacity.

TAKES RESPONSIBILITY

"The order to fire was given by the major at the yard," Bounds said, "but instructions on when to fire had been issued by me.

"The officers were told to fire at any time the inmates offered a show of deadly force to our personnel in the yard."

When the guards opened fire, Bounds said, "it effectively broke up the demonstration."

"The inmates now are confined to their cells, and we have complete control of the prison."

The 1,000-capacity prison is the only maximum-security unit in North Carolina, which has other facilities for confinement of about 9,000 prisoners.

Three of the prisoners killed in the outbreak were serving sentences for crimes of violence.

seeking the post of deputy prime minister as well as an expanded trade portfolio in the new cabinet.

FRIENDLY MEETING

Sources close to Mr. Winters said he had issued no ultimatum to Mr. Trudeau and that the two men had a very friendly meeting last week.

Mr. Trudeau indicated he was puzzled by the deputy prime minister speculation.

"I don't know where it came from — certainly not from Mr. Winters or myself," he added.

All ministers were guarded about their cabinet prospects.

Indian Affairs and Northern Development Minister Arthur Laing is quite content to remain in his present job but that is entirely up to Mr. Trudeau.

"In this business, if you're a good solider, you do as you're told," said Mr. Laing.

FURTHER TALKS

Mr. Hellyer said questions about cabinet posts should properly be put to the new leader. His own future was still under discussion and he will have further talks with Mr. Trudeau later this week.

Mr. Winters is reported to be miffed over the suggestions that he is "demanding" the post of deputy prime minister because he has made no such demands.

He also expressed his "great concern" over the reports that appeared to make him out to be a "self-seeker." A source close to Mr. Winters said that he was disturbed over such reports "because he is not in politics as a matter of self interest" and is quite prepared to return to private business.

BEST FOR PARTY

Mr. Winters told friends on his return to Ottawa that the course to be decided will be the decision of the prime minister and presumably Mr. Trudeau will decide what is best for the Liberal Party.

If the prime minister-designate decides there is no place in the cabinet for Mr. Winters it is understood the trade minister will return quite happily to private life. But if Mr. Trudeau thinks it would be better for the Liberal party for Mr. Winters to continue in the cabinet and he has a role in which Mr. Winters can "make a useful contribution", he is prepared to stay on in Ottawa.

DENIES RUMOR

In other events, Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet said he is carrying on and will contest the next general election as the Liberal member for Manitoba's St. Boniface constituency.

Mr. Teillet flatly denied rumors that he had submitted his resignation from the cabinet.

The Manitoba Liberal said the rumors that he had "resigned" had apparently stemmed from a "speculative" broadcast made by a Toronto political commentator. He said they had no foundation whatsoever.

U.S. BID $2.6 MILLION

Resort Claims London Span

LONDON (AP) — London Bridge is finally falling down—and the Americans are picking up the pieces.

The City of London Corporation announced the sale of the bridge to an American bidder Tuesday night and said the purchaser would be revealed later this week.

In Lake Havasu City, Ariz., a spokesman for the McCulloch Corp., a bidder for the bridge, said a news conference was called to announce that the firm won the bid.

But the spokesman, Frederick Schumacher, director of McCulloch's Lake Havasu City development, said, "If we don't win the bid, we'll just all have breakfast" at the news conference.

The price was estimated unofficially at $2,600,000. Schumacher said it would cost about $260,000 to ship the 10,000 tons of granite to Arizona.

GOES TO RESORT

McCulloch planned to rebuild the bridge at Lake Havasu City, a resort on the Colorado River.

The 136-year-old bridge joins the liners Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth and sundry churches and castles on the transatlantic journey.

"How much for Buckingham Palace?" asked one Briton of the monument drain.

A London Bridge has spanned the Thames in one form or another since Roman times 2,000 years ago. It has been falling down for centuries in the popular nursery rhyme.

The present bridge, built in 1831 and one of 12 across the Thames in London, is too narrow for today's heavy traffic. A wider bridge will replace it.

Returns to Post

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador William Heath, who was recalled to Washington last month for "consultations" on worsening U.S.-Swedish relations over Vietnam, returned to his post today. The airport was partly sealed off by police to prevent any outbreak of anti-American demonstrations. However, no demonstrators were visible and there were no incidents.

AIR CANADA CHIEF MAY RETIRE IN JUNE

OTTAWA — Gordon McGregor, president of Air Canada, will step down at the end of May or sometime in June, it was learned in government circles today.

The names of three men are being mentioned prominently as possible successors.

They are: John Baldwin, deputy minister of transport, Rodney McIsaac, in Winnipeg, and Herbert Seagrim, executive vice-president of Air Canada.

The Air Canada president reached 65 years of age in the fall of 1966. He has had one extension of office.

The job is reported to carry a yearly salary in the vicinity of $60,000.

Mr. Baldwin was, at one time, believed in line for the presidency of the new Canadian Transportation Commission. However his former minister, J. W. Pickersgill was appointed to that position.

The deputy minister is well regarded within Air Canada. He has been deputy minister since 1954.

Mr. McIsaac, 40, is president of Rodell Limited. He holds director posts in several other companies. He is a member of the board of directors of Air Canada.

Fighting Tempo Warms Near Saigon, Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting accelerated in South Vietnam Tuesday and today with 45 combined forces soldiers and at least 56 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese reported killed in clashes around Saigon and Khe Sanh.

The U.S. marines on the Khe Sanh front took their heaviest casualties in two weeks—17 killed and 35 wounded—when a marine patrol attacked North Vietnamese bunkers four miles south-southwest of the U.S. base in the northwest corner of the country.

An estimated 40 North Vietnamese hit the marine combat patrol with mortars and rockets and then laid down intense small arms fire. U.S. fighter-bombers and artillery pounded the bunkers until the North Vietnamese escaped about midnight.

At least seven North Vietnamese were reported killed.

ATTACKS RENEWED

North Vietnamese artillery attacks on the Khe Sanh base, which subsided after the siege was lifted April 5, also have increased this week.

To the south, combined forces troops pushing through jungles and rice paddies reported six sharp clashes within 35 miles of Saigon. It was one of the busiest days so far in Operation Complete Victory, the 100,000-man sweep which began April 8.

South Vietnamese troops with U.S. air support fought for an hour with a Viet Cong force 16 miles northwest of the city. Twenty-six Viet Cong bodies were found and one government soldier was reported wounded.

TIPPED as North Vietnam's peace negotiator is Xuan Thuy, 55, former foreign minister, who was reappointed to the North Viet cabinet Tuesday.

Bridge Girders Collapse Into Street, 3 Killed

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Investigations were under way today to learn why a bridge under construction for an expressway collapsed Tuesday, killing three men. Eight others were injured.

Sixteen steel girders weighing more than 200 tons fell into a street below.

A tank truck loaded with gasoline exploded and burst into flames when one of the 15-ton beams struck it.

One of those killed was Frederick J. Barletta Sr., 54, president of Barletta Construction Co. of Boston, which held an $8,250,000 contract to construct a 1.2-mile section of the expressway.

One of the investigations into the accident is being conducted by the McGarrahan Co. of Cambridge, Mass., a subcontractor erecting the girders.

CAR FLATTENED

Besides Barletta, the dead included Leo C. Snyder, 22, a tire repair man caught in a pickup truck, and Carmine Festa, whose sedan was flattened by one of the beams.

Festa's wife, Georgianna, was taken to hospital.

Barletta was killed trying to free the Festas.

Richard Clark, 40, driver of the tank truck, said "I'm an awfully lucky man" because he escaped with burns of the face and hands.

"I heard an awful rumbling like real loud thunder," he said. "The cab was engulfed in flames and the driver's door was jammed.

"So I rolled out the passenger door, right through the flames."

CHILD DIES IN FLAMES

SURREY (CP) — Dorothy Holzfoester, 6, was killed Tuesday when fire ripped through an old farm building. Police say the girl, believed to have been playing with matches with sister Theresa, 7, was trapped in an old chicken coop on her father's farm.

A Heritage to Save

SINCE ALL CANADIANS share equally in ownership of the country's national parks, the latest proposal to settle the dispute over the status of townsites in Banff, Jasper, Lake Louise and Waterton parks is of national concern. The fact that these mountain recreational preserves constitute some 80 per cent of all Canada's national parklands must intensify concern that they be properly looked after both in the name of present-day Canadians and for posterity.

These four parks have been under almost continuous siege for more than four years by commercial interests seeking to develop them for profit. Now the province of Alberta has stepped into the act by offering municipal status to the park towns and contiguous recreation areas as a means of settling the dispute. A unanimous resolution of the Alberta legislature called on the provincial government to negotiate an agreement with Ottawa to transfer jurisdiction of the towns, highways cutting through the parks, and satellite areas such as ski resorts to the province.

Mr. Edgar Gerhart, the Alberta minister of municipal affairs, speaking to the resolution, stated that the province would strictly control development and would avoid any "Coney Island" atmosphere. He suggested that town lands now held under 42-year leases would be sold to residents and they, in turn, would then be responsible for financial support of the towns which are at present subsidized up to 60 per cent by the federal government.

Nothing has been said publicly by Ottawa as to the federal reaction to Alberta's proposal, but the fact that Mr. Gerhart felt called on the other day to reject an apparent Ottawa suggestion of a swap of other Alberta lands for the townsites indicates that the idea is under active consideration.

Perhaps a take-over of the towns by the province would end the squabbling by residents and tourist attraction promoters with the National Parks Service. But would this solution be in the best interest of all the Canadians who now are the owners of the townsites?

What most definitely must be kept in mind is that despite the assurances of Mr. Gerhart as to strict control of development, there is no guarantee that some future provincial government might be less strict and that the honky-tonk atmosphere the Parks Service has fought against would be permitted. The statement of an Alberta tourist industry spokesman who favors the Alberta proposal is ominous. "The struggle between the conservationists, those who favor the wilderness concept," he said, "and the tourist-minded promoters, has cost the nation millions of dollars in tourist revenues." Mr. Gerhart says that "Federal policy favors the wilderness concept, with no recreational services to speak of . . . extremely limited commercial use and so on . . . Alberta could give the federal government the kind of 'wilderness concept' it wants."

Somehow these statements sound more like dollars talking than park conservation ideals. It would seem imperative that Ottawa's response to the Alberta offer be brought into the open for the widest possible public scrutiny before Canadians discover that the vital centres of their best national parks have been sold out from under them.

The Steelmen

THE United States steel industry, fearful of the consequences of increased competition from foreign producers, has mounted an effort to have Congress impose quotas on steel imports. The industry's campaign may have set off repercussions which it did not expect, however, judging from the hearings into the matter conducted by the Senate anti-trust sub-committee.

One of the first things the hearing was told, by economists who have specialized in studies of the German and Japanese steel industries, was that imposition of American quotas would almost inevitably lead to the re-emergence of foreign steel cartels. This, the witnesses said, would be the only way that allocations could be handled, and the irony of this would be that American quotas would thus nullify all the postwar efforts to break up the steel cartels which had dominated both German and Japanese industry for decades.

One of the witnesses, Dr. Egon Sohmen, professor of economics at the Saar University in West Germany, went further and suggested that it was the fact that the American steel industry behaved like a cartel which had made it non-competitive in world markets and vulnerable to foreign imports. In the United States, he said, steel prices were "almost completely rigid" from 1955 through 1966—at which point they began to rise due to armaments demand. In Europe, by contrast, prices were "remarkably flexible" with the result that mills there continued to operate at capacity during the period while American mills operated at less than two-thirds capacity. On the price structure, Dr. Sohmen singled out the period 1960 through 1963 and noted that while American steel producers held their export price to $126 a ton, European prices fell from $147 to $93 a ton, thus cutting the United States out of a once-lucrative trade.

Dr. Sohmen also gave the subcommittee food for thought when he suggested that one reason the American steel industry may be in trouble is not economic but sociological. "The most convincing interpretation of uncompetitive behavior in the industry," he said, "is the tradition of loyalty to the industry as a whole . . ."

Reports of the hearing indicate that the senators were skeptical about the steel quota program and its alleged benefits to the American industry. It may have been a valuable seminar on the usefulness of real competition in keeping industry healthy; and perhaps Dr. Sohmen's sociological interpretation of noncompetitive behavior could be applied beyond steelmaking and beyond the United States border.

Stones and Glass Houses

DR. DAVID SUZUKI, associate professor of zoology at the University of British Columbia, has supplied an uncomfortable reminder to people of this province and this country who may be inclined to sit in judgment on the United States as the result of the race problem there. "The latent bigotry in Canada," he says, "is not nearly so obvious as that in the United States but the personal bigotry here is very real."

Dr. Suzuki is in a position to speak. He remembers being forced to leave British Columbia with 20,000 other Japanese Canadians during the Second World War and he says that even now there are areas "where it is impossible for me, or any other colored person, to buy land." The outstanding young scientist also draws attention to the position of the Indian in our communities: "We are all aware of the plight of the Canadian Indians—but what do we do about it?"

It is easy enough to argue that the conditions here are less severe than in many other countries. Of course they are — but principally because of population figures rather than essential broad-mindedness. We are in no position to throw stones.

". . . in other words . . . we are exercising a talking pause . . ."

THE TEST AHEAD — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

A Great PM or a Classic Tragedy?

JUST before the Liberal convention I quoted a wise man as saying that if Pierre Elliott Trudeau could make himself party leader then Canada was no longer the nation we had usually imagined. This surmise has been confirmed, in part anyway. The nation of the grey myths and cliches would not have chosen a man of Mr. Trudeau's unconventional type. The English-speaking majority would not have permitted the choice of a French Canadian from the minority at a time of serious racial tension. One doubts indeed, that this could have happened in any other nation thus strained by its duality.

Hutchison

Canada evidently is more mature and adventurous than most natives and foreigners had supposed.

But Mr. Trudeau's arrival indicates more than the nation's growing tolerance. It indicates a deep, organic change on many different fronts. If there had been no change he could not have arrived. In 14 previous choices, the last as late as ten years ago, no man remotely resembling him in mind, manner or lack of experience was ever considered.

First True Intellectual

He is the first true intellectual and philosopher to head a Canadian government, with a new style exclusively his own — solitary, introspective, almost disembodied and corporeal. He looks less like the popular image of Canada than any man you can think of. He looks, on the screen, rather like a brooding Hamlet, but there are faint, ironic echoes of the grave digger's earthy humor.

It is much too early, however, to say, as some of his admirers claim, that he represents a complete transformation of the Canadian psyche. Keeping things in proportion, we should remember that he was opposed by nearly half the Liberal party and must now oppose the entire Conservative party.

The change, whatever it means, has only begun and involves only a part of the nation, so far. The yeast is working but it has yet to leaven the whole loaf and may never leaven it in Mr. Trudeau's vision of the "just" society. Judged by his social aspirations, as by his heredity, Mr. Trudeau belongs to a minority in the nation as in Parliament. That hard mathematical fact must govern his political future, for some time at least.

After the glittering vision come the dull realities; after the style, the substance not yet revealed; after the convention cheers, the solitude and the loneliness of power. Having viewed the heavens and the wheeling stars, the philosopher must return to earth, go home and pay the household grocery bills.

Bills Must Be Paid

That, precisely, is Mr. Trudeau's problem. The bills of the "just" society must be paid, and by taxpayers already tired of taxes. The scholar of the classroom and the text book must make himself a practical man of business. This drastic transformation will require all the resources of an intellect the most brilliant we have found in politics since Arthur Meighen.

One hopes that Mr. Trudeau will have luck as well as brilliance where the unfortunate Meighen had none but even these assets will not be enough for successful leadership. Few successful leaders of men, the world over, are intellectuals or thinkers. They are operators, doers and interpreters of other men's ideas.

Clearly Mr. Trudeau has his own ideas, not derivative and secondhand but original in himself, but ideas alone cannot make him an accepted national leader. He also needs a certain nameless quality that men will follow. Does Mr. Trudeau possess it? He possessed sufficient magnetism of a strange, pensive sort to make a convention follow him, but a nation cannot be captured as easily as a family gathering or partisans all united, in the pinch, by a single appetite for power.

However things turn out, in Mr. Trudeau's success or failure, we must accommodate ourselves not merely to a new type of leader but to a new method of leadership. On the other hand, Mr. Trudeau must accommodate himself to a people who had no vote in choosing him, who want him to succeed, who have never seen his like before and do not know him yet.

The real question surrounding this mysterious person is whether he can come to terms with a nation so totally unlike him in his thought, his training and his privileged circumstances. And, in reverse, can the nation come to terms with a man who may well be a genius but is still a stranger?

No Easy Accommodation

This mutual accommodation will not be easy or quick on either side. It is easy, of course, for any leader with Mr. Trudeau's brains to sit down among other reasonable men, analyze a problem, extrapolate the figures and devise a solution. He has done so already in his bold reforms as minister of justice. But as prime minister he must deal with a cabinet, a caucus, a Parliament and a public not always reasonable, often quite unreasonable, sometimes hysterical, driven by ignorance or prejudice and thinking with their blood.

In this daily scramble a prime minister cannot be only a philosopher, inventing ideas, a teacher improving the nation's mind or a physician healing its wounds. Occasionally he must also be a butcher. Between the tasks of healing and butchery he must seem to suffer fools gladly and that, I suspect, will be Mr. Trudeau's most harrowing trial.

Above all, he must be aware, as his followers will seldom be, of the limits placed on his hopes and plans by the nation's actual means, by the shifting climate of the world, by the international money markets, by the recurring accidents beyond his control and by the eternal cussedness of things.

Tough Enough?

All these imponderables doubtless are familiar to Mr. Trudeau in theory. Is he inwardly tough enough to survive them in practice? I think so.

Admittedly I do not know him well and find him hard to know but nine years ago, when he was an obscure professor and could talk freely, I spent a long afternoon on his shady Montreal veranda and listened to a very tough guy, perhaps the toughest, in intellect, I had ever met. Though he talks now with an almost unnatural calm and gentleness, I would guess that the iron is still there behind the new public pose, the spring coiled, the mind ready for the leap.

We shall soon see that leap in one direction or another. Here is a man, I fancy, who must end as a great prime minister or as a classic tragedy like Meighen and, either way, as the undisputed boss of his government. With Mr. Trudeau it will be make or break.

Letters to the Editor

Secular Anthem

The Times last Tuesday carried a news item in which Canon Graeme Baker and Rev. John Watson criticized the suggestion of the Humanist Fellowship of Victoria re a change in our National anthem "O Canada." In the reported criticism several controversial statements are made.

As I understand it, the "official" change is altering one line to "God keep our land glorious and free." The Humanist amendment is that the line be "To keep our land glorious and free."

A reading of the whole O Canada anthem shows that it is completely secular. As such, it has been sung for many years by the religious and non-religious with sincerity and approval. "O Canada" (Weir version) is entirely secular. Let us keep it so.—W.W.

Improper Levity

Among such factual headlines in your April 9th paper "50,000 Join March to Honour Luther King", "Trudeau Holds Talks with Cabinet Rivals", "Peace Talks Sites Debated", is one which states "Shots Bring 1000 Smiles". The one below it, also brief and to a factual point says "Killings, Lootings Continue."

We have heard some blame for the spread of violence imputed to the "news media" in recent months, and it would seem that your headline writer tries to do his bit. Or did the wire services report the "1000 Smiles" headlined on page one of your paper?

Efforts to distil the essence of news in headlines are commendable, but bias or improper levity can be poison. I submit that your headline about the 1000 smiles does not provide even a hint of a country ravaged by war, its menfolk divided by opposing army recruitment and debased by fear and graft which are multiplied by enforced foreign influences and ingredients.—J. H. Ford, 1318 Hampshire.

Wonderful Institution

After a lengthy period in the Gorge Road Hospital, it is a real pleasure to pay tribute to the work of that wonderful institution.

All patients, old and young, were the recipients of constant care, help, encouragement and kindness.—Mrs. O. Ritchie.

Looking Back

From the Times, April 17, 1908.

"Notice—this tree belongs to and adds value to the adjoining property. The owner will protect it with firearms, if necessary."

This is the notice on a tree which stands in the street, just outside the curb, opposite the residence of Fred. W. Jones, Rockland Avenue.

Mr. Jones posted the notice to prevent the destruction of the tree by the city in making of the new roadway on Rockland Avenue.

Fight and Negotiate?

By JOSEPH ALSOP

From Danang, South Vietnam

HERE is the headquarters of I Corps and all over South Vietnam, United States and allied commanders and their analysts and operations officers are now debating a rather simple question: Will Hanoi follow its own book, which calls for seeking "victory" at all costs, in the sense of trying for a striking, psychologically transforming success on the battlefield, before any serious negotiations can begin?

Alsop

The question does not apply, of course, to the stage of talks about talking. The Hanoi bosses' immediate aim is to see whether President Johnson can be hornswoggled into abandoning the vital bombing of the North Vietnamese panhandle without an adequate quid pro quo.

Proof of Effectiveness

If the president and his intelligence advisors want solid proof of the importance of the northern bombing, they need only glance at the ludicrously inadequate rate of enemy artillery fire at Khe Sanh and along the DMZ during January, February and March. The artillery tubes were there. All the positions along the DMZ from the crucial Cuaviet River supply line westwards to Khe Sanh itself were, and are, exposed and vulnerable.

If the enemy could have maintained a militarily normal rate of fire — say 7,000 to 10,000 rounds a day instead of under 300 on average — a success in the north might perhaps have balanced the failure of the Tet offensive. So the president and Gov. Averell Harriman will make weak concessions on this point at their own dire peril, not to mention the peril of American men in the field.

Looking further ahead, the problem is quite different. The U.S. commanders intend to follow the enemy's own program of "fighting while negotiating." This is all the more important because of the numerous indications that the Hanoi leaders are preparing another go-for-broke effort like the Tet offensive aimed to attain a "victory" in the special sense set forth above.

Stocking Up

These indications are particularly strong here in I Corps, above all in the two most northerly provinces above the strategic Haivan Pass. The Ashau Valley has been transformed into a major fortified area and stockage point for supply. Great numbers of North Vietnamese engineers have been used to make a truck road through the jungle, route 547-A, from the Ashau to the vicinity of Hue.

In the two northern provinces or on their fringes, moreover, the enemy already has four North Vietnamese regular divisions, plus the equivalent in North Vietnamese independent regiments of perhaps another division and a half. He is further given the ultimate capability of investing two additional division-equivalents from the North Vietnamese home army.

If he chooses, therefore, he can send these additional division-equivalents to maintain pressure on the DMZ. And he can slide south toward Hue what remains of the two divisions formerly employed at Khe Sanh.

Theoretical Capability

He can then, in theory at least, mount another attack on Hue in the strength of four divisions-plus, while maintaining some pressure in the rest of the two province areas. This could also be combined, again in theory, with an attack on Kontum or Pleiku by the regiments of the B-3 front on the Cambodian border, plus a desperation assault on Saigon with all the remnants of enemy strength in III Corps.

Yet the first question is whether the enemy is any longer realistically capable of attempting this kind of sanguinary gamble that his documents predict, despite all his busy, quite visible preparations. In February, he lost around 48,000 men in killed and cripplingly wounded; in March, his losses passed 22,000 men, although he was seeking to avoid combat during most of the month; and in the short first week of April, his losses totalled at least 5,000 men. Multiply these fugures by 10 to get the American equivalents with the very different U.S. population base and you will see how terrible the hemorrhage of enemy losses has been.

Replacement Problem

In March, to be sure, Hanoi made a record infiltration effort; but even if the number of infiltrators is as high as 15,000, they will barely pay the bill for the February losses in I Corps alone. No wonder, then, that there are reports from all over South Vietnam of VC villages being stripped of their guerrillas; of 12-year-old boys being press-ganged; of VC women cadre being armed, to flesh out the depleted fighting units.

That is one-half of the coin. The other half is the obvious fact that the American and allied forces are not going to sit in passive quiet while the enemy preparations go forward. There will be spoiling operations. There will be major offensive efforts. So one looks from the stern facts of the enemy situation to the stern injunctions of the enemy's book, and no final answer emerges, either about the next round here, or about the negotiating prospects in the future.

Transplant Serum Is Promising

By SUE MASTERMAN

THE HAGUE—A new serum which prevents the human body from rejecting transplanted organs is being developed in Holland. The Dutch government has offered to pay the full cost of the research.

The new serum should be ready for general use at the end of 1969, and the formula will be made available to any hospital at the world that can use it. Holland is leading the world in the moment in the development of this serum. International barriers have fallen, and other countries that are trying to find the same serum are sending the results of their research to Holland so that it can be developed as soon as possible.

One of the biggest problems in the transplantations of a kidney, a liver, a heart or even a piece of skin from one human body to another is that the body which receives the transplant automatically rejects it.

The human body defends itself by rejecting anything which should not be there. If an infection enters the blood stream, then the body automatically fights it by creating special blood cells which destroy the bacteria. There is an automatic attack on anything which does not belong and which does not have a chemical structure which matches the body which it enters.

This is one of the reasons why a kidney can more easily be transplanted if it comes from a close relative, and the ideal donor for a transplanted organ is the identical twin of the person who is to receive it.

In successful transplants which have been carried out this rejection has been suppressed by various methods. Massive doeses of radiation and chemicals have been tried, but the side-effects have sometimes defeated the whole purpose. When the body ceases to reject the transplant, then it also ceases to fight infection, and the slightest cold or chill can be fatal.

●

There is also a time element involved. The initial rejection can be avoided, but it is always possible that years after the transplant has taken place it can still be rejected.

The serum, known as ALS (anti-lymphocyte serum) already exists in a form which can be used for animals. Experimental transplantations of many organs including the heart have been carried out without a sign of any rejection.

The basic process by which the serum is created is the injection of human blood cells into the bloodstream of a horse. The horse's blood rejects the human blood, and from the chemicals then present in the blood of the horse the serum can be derived.

This can then be introduced into fresh supplies of human blood which can then be used for normal blood transfusions in transplant operations.

Congress has passed an act making it illegal to discriminate in housing but it won't do much to help the majority of American Negroes who are so poverty stricken that they haven't the means to move out of the ghettoes. The burning of huge Negro slum areas in major American cities, like Newark, New Jersey, above, seems to make little sense to white people since the flames leave many Negroes without homes. It can only be seen as an act of utter despair.

Rights Act Won't Aid Most Ghetto Negroes

By WILLIAM RASPBERRY

WASHINGTON — So they passed the Civil Rights Act of 1968, and now it is illegal to discriminate against Negroes in the sale and rental of some housing.

Passage of the measure, which seemed extremely doubtful until the Congress reacted last week to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., can be considered some sort of civil rights victory, I suppose.

But don't expect much dancing in the ghetto streets.

The District of Columbia adopted an even more stringent ordinance more than four years ago. The result has been that Negroes of means have been able to find houses here and there west of Rock Creek Park. Middle-class Negroes have found it easier to move into luxury high-rises downtown and along Connecticut Avenue.

But like the law passed last week, it has meant virtually nothing to the low-income or no-income Soul Brother who is struggling to make ends meet. And he is the chief victim of America's racial problem.

This has been an extremely hard fact to drive home. But most civil rights progress—legislative and otherwise— in the past decade has chiefly benefited middle-class Negroes. Governmental agencies, embarrassed at having it discovered that their upper ranks are too heavily white, have moved lately to upgrade Negroes.

So black GS-9s, who weren't hurting all that badly to begin with, are now GS-11s and GS-13s. But the Soul Brother whose miseducation, defeatism and police record kept him from finding any steady work at all is scarcely any better off now than he was a dozen years ago.

Some Lucky

Negroes who were lucky enough not to have that last spark of ambition stamped out, who had the means and the encouragement to go on to college, were willing and able to move into the better jobs in industry and government when they became available.

But the black man who had been so frustrated by the system that he gave up believing in the rewards of hard work and application wasn't able to walk through those quietly opened doors. Too often now, he doesn't even want to.

And so it is with open housing. Many Negroes have become so mistrustful of white-dominated society that a large majority of them have no desire at all to live in an integrated neighborhood. They almost certainly don't want the suburbs.

Many suburbanites, of course, don't believe that. Thus it has been extremely difficult to get suburban jurisdictions to pass fair-housing laws. And where they have passed, they frequently are challenged and overturned.

A good many nice, sweet suburban housewives who consider themselves racially enlightened get flustered with embarrassment when the subject of open-housing comes up. They see the justice of it, of course, but there is in the suburbs a powerful taboo against open housing, and many decent sorts out there are afraid to violate it.

Afraid to Death

I'm not talking now about the property-rights advocates who use this specious argument to mask their anti-Negro attitudes. I mean the good people who, nonetheless, are afraid to death to risk offending their former neighbors by selling to a Negro.

They don't screen would-be purchasers for religious scruples, politics or morals, of course, but they don't want to have fingers pointed at them as the ones who let the colored folk into the neighborhood.

Some suburbanites seem to harbor a real fear that once their subdivision is integrated, the dam will be broken and all the stereotyped poor, loud-talking, loose-living black folks from the projects and tenements will come flooding into Wistful Vista, turning it overnight into a split-level slum.

Feel Better

It may make Mr. and Mrs. Suburbanite feel better to point out that if integration does come their way it will come in the person of Negroes who are their educational, cultural and economic peers.

This may be of some solace to white suburbanites, but it is none at all to the poor blacks in the central city's overcrowded slums.

The best the slum-dweller can expect from last week's congressional beneficence is that a few middle-class Negroes will move to the suburbs and permit the central city residents to expand, domino-like, into their vacated homes. That isn't much to look forward to.

None of this should be read to mean that the Civil Rights Act should not have been passed. It is merely recognition that its benefits accrue chiefly to those Negroes who least need help.

Open-housing legislation can take on a symbolic meaning for poor blacks when it is defeated, since its defeat makes it official that blacks aren't wanted. But passage of open-housing laws doesn't begin to get down to where the problem is.

'Veni, Vidi, Vici' Sure, But What For?

By ART STOTT

When Julius Caesar was writing the script for one of the best image-making jobs of history, he coined the phrase, "Veni, vidi, vici." It was a neat, three-word wrap-up of the technique he ascribed to Julius Caesar. "I came, I saw, I conquered"—just like that. Never mind the details of how he arrived on the scene, the reconnoitering he had to do or the costs of the battle involved. And when he had "venied, vidied and vicied," the hunk of real estate thereabouts became Roman territory and stayed that way for some time to come.

Stott

War, in those days, could be made a relatively profitable business. To the victor went the spoils. He hung onto them until somebody with more muscle came along and took them away. So it had been for centuries. So it continued for a few hundred years into the Christian era.

In this century the fact has been borne in upon humanity that nobody really wins a war. Everybody loses, including the outfit that licked the enemy. It, following peace, has had to help put the vanquished back on his feet. The concept has been developed, of course, that "our" side—and the "our" refers to almost any of the nations involved—was fighting for a principle which had to be vindicated.

★ ★ ★

The issue comes to mind as the United States prepares to turn Iwo Jima back to the Japanese, along with other islands, the Bonins and Volcanoes included.

Iwo Jima, for those of a younger generation who never read the heartbreaking daily accounts of fighting there in 1945, and who haven't seen the various moving pictures centred on it, has been singled out for dramatic treatment not only for the heroism displayed but for the costs of the fighting. Among the Japanese defenders, 22,000 were killed or captured. American casualties totalled 21,000 including 4,500 killed.

The Marines could paraphrase and expand Caesar. They came, they saw, they conquered and 20-odd years later, they gave it back. There are countless points which could be made for the battles on Iwo Jima—perhaps the most significant thing being that the United States was attacked by Japan, fought back and had to make sacrifices which are part of the price of victory in order to defend a way of life.

There are further arguments for the return of the islands to Japan—the most conventional being that the Japanese have now developed to a point where they can re-assume administration without threat to the Western world, and anyhow Iwo isn't needed in the current defence calculations of the United States.

The transfer makes good practical sense. The Japanese are our friends again, as they were a few years before Pearl Harbor. This is a relationship we can at least hope will be lasting.

In terms of jurisdiction, as it relates to that battleground and other islands, we are back where we were 30 years ago. But to get there, five miles of volcanic upheaval running from a half-mile to 2½ miles in width, has been drenched in blood.

A new generation has grown up on this continent and presumably in Japan to which the patriotic fervor of the Iwo Jima fighting is something they read about, hear about from their elders or see recaptured on film. Some among them must wonder what was accomplished in the fury and death of Iwo Jima. Was a principle vindicated? Was survival of the kind of life they cherish assured? Has North American democracy, or the type of living in Japan, inproved as a result of the sacrifice?

The questions surge up as a generation which knew that fighting contemplates what some call "peaceniks" and "hippies" here and now. No doubt the "peaceniks" and "hippies" sorrow for the fallen of whom they have heard, but they have some logic on their side when they ask the purpose of it all.

For the record of the old do-it-yourself image-maker, maybe it's fortunate Mr. Caesar was writing for a public 2,000 years ago. "Veni, vidi, vici" has lost a lot of its appeal. But it wore well for centuries.

Record Shows Lester Pearson Was Effective Political Leader

By GEORGE BAIN
The Globe and Mail

OTTAWA—The frequently told story, that Lester B. Pearson has been an amateur in politics, a duffer beside John Diefenbaker, is pure myth.

The myth, in fact, owes a lot to Diefenbaker himself. Pearson's first major venture in the House after he became Opposition Leader — he had succeeded Louis St. Laurent in January, 1953 — was a disaster.

That was when he suggested, in effect, that the Conservatives take themselves off the stage and hand power back to people who knew how to govern; Diefenbaker cut him to ribbons for that and underrated him ever after.

As Pearson himself said ruefully last December when he announced that he would be retiring, he had nowhere to go but up from there. He did.

The somewhat obscured fact is that Pearson led an extremely effective Opposition. The Diefenbaker government did not fall entirely of its own weight; it was brought down.

Right Decisions Were Often His

Men who were part of that Liberal Opposition, and were Pearson's supposed superiors as political strategists, acknowledge that the right decisions more often than not were his.

The landslide victory of the Conservatives in 1958 helped foster the idea that Pearson made an ineffectual politician. But if the politics of the whole period from 1957 onward are looked at, 1958 can be seen to have been the departure from the norm, which was for the major parties to be in balance. But for that one election, John Diefenbaker had no majority, either.

As Opposition Leader, Pearson did what an opposition leader is supposed to do: he got his party back into power without delay. That he was able to do it in so short a time, even allowing for the assistance given him by the Conservatives themselves, amounted to a political miracle.

Liberals Have Been Untidy

In power, the Liberals under Pearson have been untidy. There is near unanimity among persons who have worked with him that he is a first-class political strategist; he has an intuitive feeling for the public mood (intuitive because he has not maintained a wide acquaintanceship outside political circles which would keep him in touch) and he has a sense of the future.

There is nearly equal unanimity on the point that he is a poor tactician. Tactical errors, errors of the moment, slips that might have been avoided, and hesitations in matters concerning people, have given the Pearson governments their untidy look.

But the dominating fact is that Pearson usually has got where he has been going. This has been true both in the cabinet and in the House of Commons. The route often has been roundabout. In cabinet, he has brought up matters, pressed them to the point where resistance has been met, backed off, come back a month later on another tack.

In Parliament, the record refutes the allegation of ineffectuality—the flag, the rounding out of the social security program, the removal of constituency redrawing from partisan hands to an impartial commission, unification of the services, and a good deal more, was not achieved by a government which, in addition to lacking a majority, lacked a leader.

Pearson has not been a man who has invested his own prestige deeply in his colleagues. This may have been the defense mechanism of a man concerned to preserve his popularity and his place in history, or the necessary tactic of the leader of a minority government, who knew that his government could survive knocks to ministers but not to its head.

In either case, it can be illustrated.

Gordon Went To the Defence

Guy Favreau was Pearson's dearest friend in the cabinet and yet, when Favreau was in travail in the House over the Rivard business, it was left to Walter Gordon to spring most nobly to his defense by saying that if Favreau were to be driven from office, he, Gordon, would not be happy to remain.

And, when it was recalled to Pearson that Favreau had warned him ahead of time that there was a nasty case brewing, it was only after some delay and at the urging of three persons that the Prime Minister publicly acknowledged that he had, in fact, been told.

Walter Gordon, another close friend, was sacrificed when the 1965 election failed to produce a majority.

A Clean-Out After Election

He was allowed to take the blame for having advised the Prime Minister to call the election, although the actual decision to call it wasn't, in the end, his. And, in fact, there was a wholesale clean-out of the Prime Minister's close advisers after that unsatisfactory election, suggesting an effort to see the failure attributed elsewhere.

If he has at times been ruthless where his own prestige, or the prestige of the prime ministership, has been endangered, Pearson has also lacked ruthlessness in dealing with even inadmissible people where it has not.

PRIME MINISTER PEARSON
. . . nowhere to go but up

It has been his way to duck unpleasantness where it could be ducked, and, on frequent occasions when the circumstances have called for him to tell a petitioner that he couldn't have what he wanted, Pearson has been known to so fudge the issue that the man went away thinking that hope remained alive. His appointments to the Senate, which have been blatantly political, have been so mainly because of his unwillingness to say no to political hacks.

The new politics really haven't been all that evident. Yet, that makes small change alongside the achievements and, if it is a failing to want to be liked, at least it is an engaging one.

It is one of the things that several people who have been close to Pearson have remarked on and it is one of the truest things about the man.

Among the 70-year-olds of this country—he will be 71 next Tuesday—he must be among the youngest. That isn't a matter of physical appearance, although it's that, too, but a matter of attitude.

Responsiveness to ideas is part of it, as a man 25 years his junior was saying recently. In his association with the Prime Minister he was never aware of the generation between them.

The same man also spoke of Pearson's resilience. He has been able—he hasn't lacked opportunities—to bounce back after having been clobbered.

Kept Humor And Perspective

That quality of being able to preserve both his perspective and his sense of humor, and to handle a load of responsibilities without being borne down by them, is part of it. If it is a trick that can be learned, it will not be the least part of his legacy to his successor if he tells him how it is done.

There are not that many public men, if you look around, who have managed it as well.

'POLITICAL AUTHORITY WEAKENS

LONDON (AP) — The United States never has been stronger militarily yet American political authority in the world has diminished, an authoritative British study group reported Tuesday.

The Institute for Strategic Studies said "the growing divorce" between American power and authority was the most striking development of 1967. U.S. military power is likely to become stronger still, it said.

"The United States in 1967 was richer and more powerful and perhaps more uncertain of herself than at any time since World War II," the institute said in its Strategic Survey 1967, a review of the world's military and political status.

It said the U.S. "can concentrate a greater weight of men and supplies within a few hundred miles of China's borders than China can, and her increase in tactical air power is dramatic.

"Yet she made very little headway either in promoting the pacification of South Vietnam or in weakening the resistance of North Vietnam, a much smaller power than China."

WON'T TAKE RISKS

The institute also said the Soviet Union soon may reach parity with the United States in land-based missile launchers but predicted both the Soviets and the Americans would be increasingly unwilling to risk a confrontation.

The review said the Russians anti-ballistic missile defences, or ABM remain modest, the Soviet military leadership is clearly divided about their usefulness and their 1967 development was extremely slow.

It went on:

"In contrast, deployment of strategic offensive missiles went on at an impressive pace. Completion of silos begun in previous years brought the ICBM force to 720, doubling the numbers available at the end of 1966 and raising the Soviet force to almost three-quarters the number of its American land based ICBM equivalent."

"An additional 300 silos were reported to be in various stages of construction at the close of 1967: their completion during the next 12 to 18 months may bring the Soviet ICBM force up to numerical parity in launchers with the United States—for the first time since the advent of the so-called missile age."

Teachers Honor Ex-President, Two Reporters

PENTICTON (CP) — Thomas Chalmers, a Burnaby school principal who has been active in the field of curriculum development, was awarded the British Columbia Teachers Federation's highest honor, the Fergusson Memorial Award at the annual banquet Tuesday night.

Mr. Chalmers was BCTF president in 1948.

Special awards were presented to two newspaper men. Wilfred Bennett of The Province and William Stavdal of the Victoria Colonist, for their efforts in reporting in the field of education.

The Charlesworth Award, for an outstanding teacher training student, son or daughter of a teacher, went to Mary Saunders of Merrit.

170 Chinese Killed in Riots

MOSCOW (Reuters) — More than 170 persons were killed in recent battles between supporters and opponents of Mao Tse-tung, Chinese Communist party chairman, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

Tass quoted posters in Peking as saying that at least 100 persons were killed in battles in the port city of Dairen on the Gulf of Chuhlk.

Seventy more were killed in Shensi province April 12, when soldiers clashed with opponents of Mao's cultural revolution and other combatants died during fighting in Schechwan province, the news agency said.

Gas Companies Clash at NEB Hearing

OTTAWA (CP) — Union Gas Co. conceded today that supplies of natural gas it proposes to import from the United States will cost its 300,000 Ontario customers more than alternative gas from Alberta.

But Union President Fred Palin told a National Energy Board hearing an assured supply from several sources is more important than the difference in price.

He set the difference at "two and a fraction cents" per 1,000 cubic feet delivery to customers.

Union Gas Co. is asking the board to approve a 20-year contract to import increasing volumes of gas from Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co., reaching an annual volume of 60,500,000,000 cubic feet in the seventh year of the contract.

PIPE LINE OPPOSED

The application is strenously opposed by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., which argues that its existing Alberta-Ontario pipeline and new facilities running south of the Great Lakes can supply Union's needs.

What promises to be a long hearing opened this morning with sharp exchanges between Union and Trans-Canada lawyers indicating it will also be a tense one.

The base rate for gas under the new Panhandle-Union contract is 38.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, with provision for increases if prices in the state of Michigan go up.

Mr. Palin said under questioning by Trans-Canada counsel that Panhandle is currently applying to U.S. authorities for a 10-per-cent increase in Michigan, which would affect the stated base price for the import contract.

Union Gas has been receiving gas from Panhandle since 1947 through a dual pipeline under the Detroit River at Windsor.

Volume during the last two years has been 23,500,000,000 cubic feet a year, including 8,000,000,000 cubic feet under an emergency contract necessary because western Canadian gas was not available from Trans-Canada, Union Gas' prime supplier.

Mr. Palin also conceded under cross-examination that Panhandle's gas has a lower energy content than Alberta gas, but he said there is little difference.

SAYS PENALTY IMPOSED

George Finlayson, Trans-Canada lawyer, said both gases are priced by volume alone and if it takes more Panhandle gas than Trans-Canada gas to produce the same energy, Union Gas is imposing "a penalty to your consumers."

"That may or may not be the case," Mr. Palin replied.

Earlier, Union Gas lawyer Arthur Pattillo objected to the filing of interventions by the Canadian Petroleum Association and other parties without supporting oral testimony.

He charged that Trans-Canada had "beat the bushes" to get people to send letters, telegrams and briefs to the board. Board Chairman W. D. Howland reserved decision on whether to make the unsupported documents part of the record of the hearing.

Wounded Man Faces Charge

BURNABY, B.C. (CP) — Jack Pitton, 21, shot and wounded by a guard as he climbed over a fence at Oakalla prison Monday, was charged Tuesday with escaping custody. Found in a yard near the prison, he underwent four hours surgery and was in fair condition Tuesday.

'POOR MARCH' STARTING IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The mainstream of the "poor people's march" on Washington planned by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. will be launched in Memphis, his successor said Tuesday.

"They will all gather here in this place where Martin Luther King was assassinated and here begin that long trek to Washington, D.C.," Rev. Ralph Abernathy told a press conference.

The march originally was to have started April 22, but was postponed after King was shot April 4.

The southern leg of the march will originate in Memphis, Abernathy said, and will be led by the staff of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference he now heads.

FINANCIAL GROUPS TAKE ACTION

Grabs, Mergers Worry Britain

By JOHN LeBLANC

LONDON (CP) — New "Marquis of Queensbury rules" to cool down the more predatory aspects of British business takeovers have not slowed up a deluge of grabs and mergers that started rolling last year.

Awed financial men labelled 1967 "the year of the takeover" because companies worth £1,000,000,000 (about $2,600,000,000) were consolidated. But already the figures for the current year have more than doubled that.

Latest unofficial totals for big deals run to £2,113,000,000 (about $5,493,800,000), which does not include a host of minor takeovers and mopping-up operations from last year. No letup is in sight.

Until about three weeks ago takeovers were governed by a five-year-old set of so-called Queensbury rules whose influence was reminiscent of its bare-knuckle namesake.

Colossal brawling over companies—with the baffled little shareholdder often taking it on the chin—became so boisterous that finally Prime Minister Wilson stepped in and told the financial city to tighten up the rules, or else.

Under the prodding of the Bank of England, the city's leading financial groups have set up a voluntary, self-policing system of regulating takeover bids.

Some of the bad old practices that have gone out the window include mystery buying of shares, silence of company directors when stock moves peculiarly and sales of assets or big blocks of stock to stave off a bid.

Now, all deals by a bidder or any of its associates must be disclosed within 24 hours. Another provision is that all shareholders must be paid the same price, which should keep the little fellows from holding the bag again.

DEALING MOUNTS

Meanwhile, action in the marketplace continues brisk and, presumably, above board. A major deal brewing at the moment is the Rank Organization's £9,000,000 (about $23,000,000) try for Cambridge Instruments, which is rejecting it.

The most fought-over company currently is a large timber group, Gabriel Wade and English, which has been fending off timber merchant Montague L. Meyer for six weeks. Textile giant Courtaulds has been the most active firm in the new year, gobbling up eight companies before the government told it any more bids would have to be submitted to the board of trade, a government department.

And late Tuesday the biggest of the post-Queensbury bids was disclosed—a £60,000,000 (almost $156,000,000) offer by giant Unilever (soaps, margarine) for Smith and Nephew, one of Britain's largest toilet goods makers.

B.C. PULP WORKERS

50c Hourly Hike Goal of Union

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada Tuesday became the second forest industry union to seek a 50-cent hourly wage boost this year in British Columbia.

The union, which represents 3,000 workers, announced the figure in its newspaper. The same amount is sought by the 26,000 coastal workers of the International Woodworkers of America.

The PPWC represents pulp mill employees at Castlegar, Crofton, Woodfibre, Prince Rupert, Nanaimo and Gold River.

The union's other demands include a guarantee of 144 hours pay in any four - week cycle, a reduction in working hours, improved vacations and a strengthened seniority clause.

SICK PAY PLAN

It is also seeking a union-administered sick pay scheme, financed by employers at the rate of five cents a man-hour worked and a pooled auto insurance plan with payroll deductions.

Two other pulp unions, the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the United Papermakers and Paperworkers have not completed their goals.

The two unions, which have a membership of 7,000, have announced, however, they will recommend locals approve a guaranteed annual wage demand. The two unions bargain jointly.

Negotiations with the PPWC are scheduled to start in Vancouver May 6. Talks involving the other two unions are due to begin May 21. Current contracts end in June.

Current standard base rates in the industry are $2.94 an hour for laborers and $3.94 for mechanics.

OTTAWA TALKS

Nfld. Fish Industry Bids for Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials of the floundering Newfoundland fishing industry meet Fisheries Minister Robichaud here today to outline their bid for vitally-needed federal support.

Mr. Robichaud, in an interview Tuesday, termed the meeting important but was non-commital when asked for reaction to a proposal that his government introduce a support price for fish similar to that paid on many farm products.

"I'm not prepared to say that the answer to their problems is price support."

Newfoundland fishery officials made the proposal in a 15-page brief they circulated among officials here and in their home province.

Mr. Robichaud said the main purpose of today's meeting is "to allow them to discuss this brief with me."

REPORT TO CABINET

"Following our talks I will report to the cabinet."

He said it is unlikely any immediate decisions will be announced. However, he expected early cabinet consideration of the situation.

The most serious problem confronting the Newfoundland industry, and other parts of the Atlantic Provinces, appears to be in the quick-frozen fish sector which has gradually been replacing the traditional salt-cured, sun-dried cod process.

The crux of the problem is the ever-stiffer competition for Canadian fish in the U.S. market —which absorbs some 70 per cent of all Canadian fish exports —from East and West Germany, Russia, Poland and other countries whose catch is subsidized by government.

Alberta Leases Sale Brings $30 Million

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta received $15,431,700 Tuesday as bids were accepted on Crown petroleum and natural gas leases in the first quarterly sale of the year.

The bidding brought the 1968 total to $30,309,390, compared with $32,014,960 received by April 19 last year.

Sixty-five parcels of land for lease were located in the productive Rainbow Lake region, 400 miles northwest of Edmonton. The second largest total, 27 parcels, was in the Zama Lake area north of Rainbow Lake. In all, there were 207 parcels up for lease.

Long Strike Has Cost IWA $3 Million

VANCOUVER (CP)—A strike by woodworkers in the British Columbia southern interior is costing the International Wood workers of America about $100,000 a week, says Syd Thompson, president of the IWA's 7,000-member Vancouver local.

Mr. Thompson told a Vancouver Labor Council meeting Tuesday night the strike, which started last Oct. 4, has cost the union about $3,000,000 so far, but the IWA can hold out for another six months.

About 5,000 IWA men are on strike in support of demands for wage parity with the union's 26,000-member coast divisions. Until Oct. 4 the southern interior IWA men were getting $2.26 hourly compared with the coast rate of $2.76.

"We're a big enough organization to last long if the employers want to play it that way," said Mr. Thompson. "The weekly cost was higher in the early part of the strike, but we're in our seventh month and it's levelled off now."

He said the provincial government could end the strike if it wanted to.

"In 1966, when there was a strike on the coast, the government had an election on the agenda," the IWA executive said "Premier Bennett laid the wood on all concerned and brought an acceptable settlement.

"He could do the same thing in this one any time he wants and we could have an honorable settlement."

Mr. Thompson said that in the case of the southern interior strike the government has done "exactly the opposite — cabinet ministers have said that with economic conditions as they are, the operators can't afford to pay parity."

Marcetta, Blackburn Put End to Long Night

Stars, Flyers Extend Series to Seven Games

By The Canadian Press

Tuesday was a long night in the National Hockey League's Western Division, but Milan Marcetta and Don Blackburn—a pair of forwards who once toiled in Victoria — were awake.

Marcetta scored at 9:11 of the first overtime period to give Minnesota North Stars a 4-3 victory over Los Angeles Kings and Blackburn watched as his weak shot eluded goaltender Glenn Hall to give Philadelphia Flyers a 2-1 victory over St. Louis Blues after 11:18 of a second overtime period.

The two overtime goals sent the Stanley Cup quarter-final series into seventh and deciding games Thursday night.

Both series are deadlocked at three games apiece in the best-of-seven competition and Philadelphia and Los Angeles both have home ice advantage for the finals Thursday.

In Minneapolis, Marcetta scored the winner as the North Stars were swarming the Kings goal following a shot from Bill Goldsworthy at the point.

The goal capped a Minnesota rally which saw the North Stars wipe out a 3-1 Los Angeles lead with two goals in the third period.

WALL VICTIMIZED

The North Stars opened the scoring with 8:05 gone in the opening period when Mike McMahon stole a pass from Bob Wall and went in alone to beat goalie Wayne Rutledge.

Then Doug Robinson tied it for the Kings at 11:12, taking a passout from Howie Menard behind the Minnesota goal.

Real Lemieux broke the tie for Los Angeles with a 45-foot slapshot at 1:45 of the second period and Brent Hughes put the Kings in front 3-1 less than two minutes later when he beat Maniago on a breakaway.

The North Stars stormed back to tie it in the third period as Goldsworthy knocked in a rebound of Billy Plager's shot from the point. McCord hit the left corner of the cage later in the period with a 10-foot shot as the North Stars rushed the net.

The Blues had the edge through most of the St. Louis-Philadelphia game after Gerry Melnyk broke through goalie Bernie Parent for a power-play goal at 18:06 of the first period.

EXCITING RALLY

Andre Lacroix of Philadelphia sent the game into overtime, scoring on a desperation shot with 15 seconds left in regulation play. He tied the game 1-1 after the Flyers pulled Parent for an offensive advantage.

Interviewed in the dressing rooms after the respective games, the losing coaches offered few excuses.

Coach Red Kelly of Los Angeles said:

"You're only going to get so many chances in a game, and if you blow them. . . .

"Maniago made great saves on Terry Gray and Bill Flett in the third period when it still was 3-1 for us. He was great."

Coach Wren Blair of Minnesota was deliriously happy and ready to invade Los Angeles for the seventh game.

"We had to force the attack in the third period. If we didn't it was oblivion.

"I told our guys we might as well lose 10-2 if we're going to lose. I told them there's 20 minutes left, and if we lost, we lose as a team. Then, we're out, but we're out together.

"The significant thing is that we came back to win, and it was great for our home fans. Even if we lose now, we've showed them something."

BAFFLING GOAL

In St. Louis, Philadelphia coach Keith Allen admitted Blackburn's shot baffled him.

"I just couldn't believe it," he said. "I can't even make a good comment on it. I don't know how it got in. They said in the Flyer's dressing room that it hit a defenceman's stick, but I don't know."

Coach Scotty Bowman of St. Louis said Blackburn's shot hit Ray Fortin's stick "and changed direction in front of Hall."

The Philadelphia player slapped the puck near the blueline and apparently it touched Fortin's stick. Fortin was just inside the blueline and as the puck passed him Hall seemed to have trouble reacting to a change in direction and stood helplessly as the puck went by him.

"I didn't think the puck was going to go in," admitted Blackburn. "It wasn't a good shot. It just changed direction and went in."

In the first sudden-death overtime, Philadelphia broke in on Hall three times, but each time he deflected the shots. The Flyers had 14 shots on goal while goalie Bernie Parent of Philadelphia 15.

Without Luck, That Goodness Gone to Waste

CHICAGO (CP)—Coach Emile Francis, of New York Rangers, just hung his head.

No excuses. His Rangers had just blown a 2-0 lead in games to lose 4-2 to Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League quarter-final series.

But he felt his Rangers, who fell 4-1 Tuesday night in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series, lost everything Sunday on a garbage goal.

Francis pinned the series and the game on Sunday night's contest when rookie Bob Schmautz scored on a long, bouncing goal from centre ice that eluded goalie Ed Giacomin and went in to give the Hawks a 2-1 victory and a 3-2 edge in games with home ice Tuesday night.

Schmautz said at the time he was just trying to get the puck in the Ranger zone during a line change and didn't even see the winning tally.

"That goal really killed us," said Francis Tuesday night. "We outplayed them in that game and I thought we should have won it.

"If we had, even if we had lost here, we could have returned home for the seventh game.

"It's funny—sometimes it's better to be lucky than good."

The Hawks were both lucky and good Tuesday night as Bobby Hull, the perennial goal-scoring leader of the Black Hawks, turned playmaker to lead Chicago to its victory.

He set up goals by Chico Maki (the winner) and Pit Martin.

Stan Mikita and defenceman Doug Jarrett got the other Chicago goals.

Goalie, Penalty-Killers Sparkled

Billy Reay, Chicago coach, put his finger on the penalty-killing of Eric Nesterenko, Maki, Hull and Mikita for the victory. The Hawks penalty-killing units held off the Rangers three times in the second period.

"Give those penalty killers credit for keeping us in the game in that second period and add to it that Doug Jarrett played his best game of the year for us."

Reay also heaped praise on goalie Denis DeJordy who held the fort for the Hawks after a listless second period.

DeJordy had nothing to say after the game except "everybody played well."

Francis, however, was a little more explicit, praising DeJordy and Hull.

"Although the Hawks were dragging after the first period, that Hull came up with the big play—twice—and that gave them a big lift.

"Up until then we had shifted our checking lines around to slow them down and it worked well, but then Hull makes a quick move and he kills you. Our guy (Ron Stewart) didn't stop checking him, it's just that Hull made a better play."

Chicago now meets Montreal Thursday night in the first game of the Stanley Cup semi-final series at Montreal. The Canadiens, first in the Eastern standings, eliminated Boston Bruins in four straight games.

TURNS PLAYMAKER

Tuesday night, Hull was all over the ice. He didn't score a goal but his playmaking helped Hawks break a 1-1 tie in the second period on Maki's goal.

Hull also engineered the Hawks insurance with a perfect backhand pass to Martin at 2:39 of the final period.

Mikita scored the final Hawks goal on a solo effort with less than four minutes to play in the game.

The loose play which marked most of the series was evident again Tuesday night. Chicago went ahead at 5:59 of the first period when Jarrett pounded the puck past Giacomin.

A last-minute starter because of injuries, Wharram took a pass from Mikita on the faceoff and fed Jarrett perfectly in front of the net.

New York tied it early in the second period when Chicago captain Pierre Pilote, trying to clear the puck, tossed a pass onto Gilbert's stick. The New York player responded by whipping his fifth goal of the series beyond DeJordy's outstretched foot.

COUTTS, McLAREN AND O'KEEFES . . . . . HONORED AT CELEBRITY DINNER

DOUG FLETCHER MAN OF YEAR

—Times Photos by Irving Strickland.

PROUD PARENT, Mrs. T. D. McLaren accepted athlete-of-year trophy on behalf of son Bob, then took in words of congratulations from Dr. Bob Osborne.

ATTENTIVE guest, golf great Stan Leonard was among head table speakers at Victoria's first Sports Celebrity Dinner.

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Mayor Hugh Stephen admitted he had help in acquiring the background information on Victoria's "Sportsman of the Year".

But it would be almost impossible, he said, to accurately measure "the total impact into the lives of thousands of citizens" who have been guided, aided, directed and influenced by the sportsman's 57 years of service to Victoria.

The man of the hour Tuesday was Doug Fletcher—Victoria's Sportsman of the Year.

Fletcher arrived from England in 1911 and has been either a participant, official or organizer in the city's sports scene ever since.

The 76-year-old patriarch of city sports drew the top honor and a standing ovation at the first Sports Celebrity dinner at the Empress Hotel.

STOOD TALL

Stricken with a coronary last week, Fletcher had to be reminded by his daughter, Dorothy, and his wife, Ethel Maude, that he was not supposed to stand and acknowledge the ovation.

He made a move, then grudgingly settled back.

Still, the venerable sportsman stood tallest amid an assemblage of big people in the sports world.

The honored included Mary Coutts, the vivacious Claremont teacher-basketball player voted Victoria's outstanding female athlete; Bob McLaren, the male athlete of the year, and Victoria O'Keefes, picked as the team of the year.

PEARKES HONORED

McLaren, attending university at Oregon, was not able to be present. Mayor Fred Hawes of Oak Bay presented the trophy to Bob's mother, Mrs. T. D. (Catherine) McLaren.

Also missing was another venerable "sport" — Lieut.-Gov. George Pearkes. The Victoria Cross winner and avid sports fan was honored with a special award by the Victoria Sports Council.

Deputy provincial secretary Laurie Wallace presented the trophy to Mrs. Pearkes.

The dinner, sponsored jointly by the Sports Council and the Saanich Kiwanis Club, has to be considered a success.

It attracted a turnout of about 250 to the Empress Hotel ballroom and success was buoyed, considerably, by a distinguished head table.

STRONG 'TEAM'

The sports lineup was staunchly supported by all civic leaders in the Greater Victoria area—Mayors Stephen, Hawes, Ray Bryant, Hugh Curtis and Gordon Lee.

Guest speaker Annis Stukus proved an excellent orator along with footballer Wayne Harris, golfer Stan Leonard, Canadian Sports Council president Bob Osborne and baseball's sharp-witted Lew Matlin.

Other head table and special guests included B.C. Hall-of-Famers Norm Baker, Doug Peden, Dave Turner, Archie McKinnon and George Andrews; John Kootnekoff, Nancy Hill, Fred Usher and Dick Ellis.

Andy Stephen was master of ceremonies.

TKO'd IN FIFTH

Willie Failed To Fizz Cokes

DALLAS (AP)—Curtis Cokes used Willie Ludick's unorthodox style to his advantage and beat the South African steel fitter on a fifth-round technical knockout in the fourth defence of his world's welterweight boxing championship Tuesday night.

Then he said he would take a rest until about June and also that he didn't have anybody in mind at this time for another title fight.

Percy Pugh of New Orleans, rated No. 2 by the World Boxing Association, was here to challenge Cokes.

Ludick, a 26-year-old brawler, had little chance with the sharp-punching Cokes, who started out with his familiar counter-punching with his left.

But the left-handed Ludick presented a perfect target for Cokes' right. The champion used his right more than any time in his career and it was a steaming right in the fifth that put Ludick on the downward trail.

Ludick took the automatic eight-count at the insistence of referee Lew Eskin, but he still was groggy when Cokes was at him with lefts and rights that battered him into the ropes. Eskin stopped the scheduled 15-round fight at 34 seconds of the fifth round.

Cokes opened a cut over Ludick's right eye with one of his lightning lefts in the second round and the South African bled the rest of the way. Cokes also opened another cut just below the first cut and cracked the skin by the side of Ludick's nose. Ludick also had a cut on top of his head.

Cokes led by a wide margin in the four rounds. The judges and referee had it 40-35, 40-36 and 40-35 and The Associated Press scored it 40-36 under the 10-point must system.

Cokes, 31 in June, has been campaigning 11 years. His record now reads 53 victories, eight losses and two draws.

Ludick has a record of 27 victories and three losses.

Fine Levy Incenses Philadelphia's Poile

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ed Snider, chairman of the board of the Philadelphia Flyers, said Tuesday he would not accept the resignation of General Manager Bud Poile under any conditions.

Poile had indicated he would resign his post because of fines levied by National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell after a fight Saturday in Philadelphia between the Flyers and the St. Louis Blues.

Snider commented, "I've concluded a meeting of four hours with Bud Poile at which I have informed him under no circumstances will the Philadelphia Flyers accept his resignation.

"We are in complete agreement with Poile's concern on the fines levied against our Coach Keith Allen and the players and share his feeling that these fines were unreasonable," Snider added.

Campbell had slapped both teams with a total of $3,800 in fines after a series of fights erupted into a general brawl Saturday.

'Frisco Cuffs Boxing Club

SAN FRANCISCO — Latin All-Stars soccer team, which represented San Francisco in the last Kennedy Cup playoffs, handed a 6-0 defeat to London Boxing Club over the weekend.

Although badly outclassed, Boxers managed to give a good account of themselves with George Pakos playing a standout game. Halftime score stood at 4-0.

Canucks Down Texans

HOUSTON (CP-AP) — Harry Fauquier of Toronto and Mike Belkin of Vancouver both won first-round matches Tuesday in the River Oaks tennis tournament. Fauquier defeated Ronnie Fisher of Houston 6-4, 6-3, while Belkin beat Tico Carrero, also of Houston, 6-3, 6-4.

MAURICE CRITICAL . . . . . . OF CANADIENS' MOVES

Rocket's Ghost Rattles Pocket

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens management steadfastly refuses to become embroiled in a feud with former star Maurice (Rocket) Richard despite the latter's published attacks on the club through his column in a French-language weekly.

Richard, who graced the club's roster for 18 seasons, has taken issue with the fact his younger brother Henri has seen only sporadic action in the final stages of the regular season and in Canadiens victory in four straight games over Boston Bruins in Stanley Cup play.

The Rocket, who retired eight seasons ago, wrote in a column—said by his friends to be ghost-written—that "the Canadiens management royally disgusted me in making my brother Henri warm the bench."

In his column The Comments of Maurice Richard, the former hockey star said his attack was not made simply because "Henri is my brother."

"It's simply because it's enough to disgust anyone. In any case I don't understand it."

The attack in Dimanche Matin was directed at general manager Sam Pollock and coach Toe Blake.

Obviously embarrassed by all the fuss, Henri parries all questions on the subject with a curt: "No comment."

Coach Blake says the incident has been a source of embarrassment for Henri, but allows that the younger Richard is not responsible for what his older brother says or writes.

"We had a long talk about it," Blake says. "We ended up in complete agreement.

"He's a pro and he knows the coach plays it the best way he can. Hell, I'd play my own grandmother or bench her to win a game and Henri knows this."

Briles' Logic Much Better Than Addition

By The Associated Press

Two plus 10 equals 12 to mathematicians and baseball statisticians, but not to Nelson Briles. Not when money is involved, he says.

"I haven't won 12 straight games," insisted the St. Louis hurler, who captured his last 10 decisions in 1967 and ran his record to 2-0 this year by pitching the Cardinals past Atlanta Braves 6-2 Tuesday night.

"It's just two in a row. I already got paid for last season."

Two or 12, Briles' logic failed to impress the Braves as much as his fast ball that stopped the home club with only two unearned runs for eight innings before Joe Hoerner pitched the ninth.

The world champion Cardinals moved back into a tie for first place with idle Houston Astros at 5-1.

Lower in the standings, Los Angeles Dodgers did some hitting for a change and powered past Philadelphia Phillies 5-3 in a night game after Cincinnati Reds outlasted Chicago Cubs 9-8 in the afternoon in the only National League games scheduled.

6-0 LEAD

Briles held a 6-0 lead for 6 2-3 innings before catcher Tim McCarver dropped a foul pop and Hank Aaron and Felipe Alou followed with run-scoring singles. It was not enough to overcome Orlando Cepeda's four hits and three runs batted in and a homer by Mike Shannon off loser Tony Cloninger.

Only a blister on his index finger, the result of throwing his fast ball, kept Briles from finishing.

"I don't like to think about losing at all," Briles said. "All I think about is winning 20 games like any other pitcher."

Mike Kekich, who just turned 23, might also be dreaming of 20 some day, but right now his mind is on No. 1, his first major league victory.

CHECKS PHILLIES

The left-handed Dodger rookie, who lost to Philadelphia in his only other league start in June, 1965, had the Phillies blanked for seven innings before two singles knocked him out at the start of the eighth. Richie Allen singled in two runs off Phil Regan before Hank Agurre put out the fire after a sacrifice fly by Tony Gonzales.

However, the Dodgers, shut out three times this season, had broken loose earlier for a 5-0 lead as Wes Parker, Zoilo Versalles and Willie Davis doubled in runs.

Cincinnati had to come from behind after the Cubs scored seven times in the third inning for a 7-5 lead. Lee May climaxed the comeback with his fourth hit.

In the American League, Boston Red Sox raised the pennant in their home park for the first time in 21 years but Detroit Tigers came in and lowered the boom.

Tigers wrecked the defending champs' home opener, 9-2.

In other games, Oakland Athletics defeated New York Yankees 4-3 on Floyd Robinson's two-run pinch homer in the ninth and Cleveland Indians topped Chicago White Sox 3-1 on Tony Horton's two-run shot in the seventh.

Goalby Declines Challenge Match

NEW YORK (AP) — Masters golf champion Bob Goalby has turned down a bid for an 18-hole match with Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo to be shown on national television, a promoter said Tuesday.

"There was considerable sponsor interest and we believe there would have been no problem getting a TV network to stage the match on prime time," John Ross of Golf Promotions said.

"De Vicenzo agreed to the match, Goalby declined."

BOWLER OF WEEK

Joining list of award winners in Times 'Bowler-of-the-Week' contest for fourth successive year is Don Corbett, who captured men's fivepin honors in 26th week of 27-week competition. Don came through with 894 total with games of 342, 234 and 318 at Gibson's Recreations in Mixed Classics League.

Palmer, Goalby To Hit England

LONDON (AP) — Bob Goalby has accepted an invitation to play in the fifth world match play golf tournament at Wentworth in October. Arnold Palmer will defend his title and invitations will go to the winners of the U.S. and British Opens.

St. Louis Stops Vancouver Climb

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Norb Porgjeba scored a goal in the 55th minute Tuesday night to lead St. Louis Stars to their first victory in the North American Soccer League—a 2-1 win over Vancouver Royals.

It was the first loss in four starts for the Royals. St. Louis is now 1-1.

Casey Frankiewicz scored the first goal for St. Louis during the second minute of the first half. Bob Cram evened the score for the Royals with a penalty shot in the 32nd minute.

Meanwhile in Vancouver, radio station CJOR announced it will carry play-by-play broadcasts of all Vancouver games during the remainder of the season.

The broadcasts will start with Saturday's game between the Royals and Detroit Cougars at Detroit.

ANNABELLE INJURED IN SPILL

TORONTO (CP) — Annabelle, one of the most unlikely horses ever entered in the Kentucky Derby, fell today and may have to be destroyed.

Owner Paul Rimstead said the flop-eared horse, subject of a concentrated public relations campaign earlier this year, "went down during a workout at Woodbine racetrack and suffered a possible broken pelvis."

He said Annabelle veered to miss another horse which cut in front of her. Rider Jim Santha, her trainer, was unhurt.

Annabelle, winless in four starts as a two-year-old, was quoted at odds of 5,000-to-1 in the winter book on the Derby.

EDMONTON (CP) — Penticton Broncos outshot Edmonton Movers by a wide margin Tuesday, defeated Edmonton 5-2 and took a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven Western semi-final series leading to junior hockey's Memorial Cup.

Broncos fired 40 shots at the Movers' Lynall Kopp and allowed Edmonton only 27 shots on Wally Denault.

Although outshot 21-11 in the first period, Edmonton scored the only goal and led 1-0 after one period. Penticton scored twice in the second for a 2-1 lead going into the third period.

Ken Conner scored twice for the winners, with singles coming from George Watson, Wayne Schaab and Eddie Hays. Harvey Kirkland and Don Darling scored for Edmonton.

There were 18 penalties in the game, 10 to Penticton.

The winner of the Penticton—Edmonton series will meet the winner of the Estevan-Westfort series for the right to represent the west in the Memorial Cup final.

TRAINER SUSPENDED . . . . . AT WASHINGTON

Differences on Ironing Board

SEATTLE (AP) — Athletic director Jim Owens said Tuesday he has put trainer Bob Peterson on probation, agreed to the formation of an advisory committee and is searching for a Negro coach in an effort to improve relations between his staff and the University of Washington's black athletes.

Owens made the announcement at a news conference which was attended by track star Dave Dupree and basketball standout Dave Carr as representatives of the 14 Negro athletes.

Owens said the actions were the result of recommendations from a special faculty committee appointed at his request by Dr. Charles Odegaard, university president.

He said the committee felt that discriminatory acts had occurred within the athletic department but this was not taken by the director as implication of deliberate intent.

The athletes had complained to the president of discrimination by coaches and of uncomplimentary remarks by Peterson.

He said he also plans to form a student advisory committee which will include black athletes, plus six members appointed by the athletic director.

A PROFILE

Unusual Career 'Just Happened' To Make Pearson a Prime Minister

By CARMAN CUMMING

OTTAWA (CP) — Mike Pearson wanted to be a pilot but smashed up early in his training during the First World War.

Later he quit law school to work in a packing plant, operating a sausage machine. He worked up to junior clerk in the fertilizer branch, but he didn't really like the job so he moved on.

Eventually—by chance or a series of chances—he became prime minister of Canada.

And at the age of 70 his extraordinary career reached a climax in an Ottawa convention hall this month as the Liberal party gave him an emotional farewell.

Along the way, there were any number of turning points where Lester Bowles Pearson might have headed in a radically different direction.

He might have been a Chicago executive or the head of a history department. He could have ended his career as a well-respected diplomat.

With a slightly different configuration of the stars, he might have been the first—or second — secretary-general of the United Nations, or the secretary-general of NATO.

"When I look back on my career, the most amazing thing is that things just happened," he once said.

As the various things happened, Mr. Pearson met them with a grin, a joke—usually at his own expense—and an effort to improve things.

"I wish I could have done better," he said as he accepted the party's farewell tribute.

"Perhaps I am fortunate that I have not done worse."

PORTRAIT OF PEARSON BY KARSH

Major Crises

His career—two decades as a civil servant and diplomat and another two as a politician—spanned hundreds of conference tables and dozens of world crises from Ethiopia to Vietnam.

More than any other man he formed and symbolized the Canadian style of quiet diplomacy in the post-war years.

And because it was quiet, much of the story of his years in international diplomacy is still to be told.

But there was a succession of public high points:

As a diplomat, he helped to found the UN, NATO, the Colombo Plan.

He was chairman of the UN committee that led to the creation of the state of Israel.

As president of the UN General Assembly in 1953, he helped avert the spread of the Korean War into Communist China.

As external affairs minister, he had a major part in creation of the UN Emergency Force in the Suez crisis of 1956, an achievement that won him the Nobel Peace Prize.

As Liberal leader for 10 years, he brought his party out of opposition to five years of power, though always in a minority position.

Had Low Points

His career also had its low points; his years as Liberal leader were marked by a fairly steady stream of criticism for Pearson the politician, mingled with admiration for Pearson the diplomat and Pearson the man.

Cartoonists usually portrayed him as a harried little figure, fuddled and bemused by a surge of events beyond his control.

At times, especially in a rash of scandals that hurt his government in its early years, the caricature seemed well-founded.

He was never much of an orator, speaking with a slight lisp and tending to shake his head to emphasize points in a way that delighted imitators.

But in the end, if there was one thing about him that Ottawa agreed on, it was that Mr. Pearson had never let the pomp and circumstance of office go to his head.

Never Vindictive

He never used the weight and aura of his office to add to himself or cut down others.

Even his anger was the open, red-faced, human kind, never cold and vindictive.

In private conversation he put people at ease, listened to what they said and never seemed to work at projecting an image. He never lost his ability to laugh at himself.

As a professional conciliator, he worked a lifetime to perfect his techniques: the quick joke to ease a tense moment, the careful weighing of what was negotiable and what wasn't, the seizing of an area of agreement that could mean a move forward.

Some said he was too nice, lacking the combativeness and killer instinct of the true leader.

NDP MP Colin Cameron painted him that way in a 1966 Commons debate.

"The sad part of it is that most of the worst mistakes and bumblings of our prime minister stem from his amiable, human qualities—qualities that unfortunately the leader of a country cannot afford," he said.

"In fact, I should like to put it in blunt, rude terms that a prime minister has to be capable on occasion of being a bastard.

"It is unfortunate that our prime minister is unable to be that particular sort of person."

A constant theme of complaint during his years as prime minister was that the country needed a younger, more dynamic man.

With Patience

Mr. Pearson himself believed that a leader of that kind could wreck the country. He felt the times called for careful conciliation of the French-English antagonisms.

And if there is a second near-unanimous verdict on his performance, it is that he handled the Quebec problem with patience and left it better than he found it.

Even Real Caouette, the Creditiste leader, said Mr. Pearson had been "one of the greatest or the greatest factor in improving understanding and respect between the races."

Journalist-historian Bruce Hutchison commented:

'If a truce between the two Canadian cultures is at last negotiable, Pearson more than any other man has made it so."

By nature, he tended to see the worth of an opponent's argument— sometimes to the dismay of more partisan colleagues.

"I have not the divine certitude that I am always right or that I, alone, have been called to save the nation," he said in a 1966 speech.

Privately, when he was engaged in a balancing act, he made no effort to pretend otherwise.

Once, while balancing between the economic views of cabinet ministers Walter Gordon and Mitchell Sharp, he made a speech which he later described as "my Walter Sharp speech."

Rarely Betrayed

In off-record sessions with reporters he was amazingly frank, and his trust was rarely betrayed.

Curiously, a view often expressed in the Parliamentary Press Gallery was that he was a better prime minister than his public image suggested.

Mr. Pearson himself seldom complained, but his wife, Maryon, gave the reporters back a bit of their own in a 1966 interview.

"The newspapers are always at the poor old prime minister—it seems he can never do anything right," she said.

"Sometimes I think how marvellous it would be to get all the newspaper editors together to form a cabinet and see how they could run the country."

Mrs. Pearson made the comment while her husband was bringing off one of the last big international coups of his career.

Bridged Rift

It was in London at the Commonwealth summit meeting on Rhodesia in September of 1966, where he was credited with bridging a rift between African and Asian members and the "old white" group.

Mr. Pearson later said the negotiations were the most emotional and difficult of his career, but to reporters looking on he appeared casual almost to the point of being offhanded.

IN UNIFORM IN EGYPT AT 19

At a point when the conference seemed to be falling apart, he predicted easily that agreement would be reached. It was—on the basis of a communique drawn up by Mr. Pearson.

Commentators frequently puzzled over the contrast between Mr. Pearson's deftness and stature abroad and his troubles at home, but late in his career Canadians themselves had a chance to see the diplomat in action.

This was at the constitutional conference in Ottawa last February, which was televised almost in full. Mr. Pearson's part in smoothing the rough places was unanimously applauded.

Prime Minister Pearson is spending his final week in office. Today he presided over a cabinet meeting. He will retire next week and turn over leadership of the government to Pierre Trudeau.

For a man who spent much of his life in the diplomatic world of London and Washington, Mr. Pearson's tastes and enjoyments tend to be simple.

He likes to fish or tramp in the woods of his Harrington Lake summer home in the Gatineau Hills of Quebec, or to play with his eight grandchildren.

He enjoys spy novels—along with heavier biography and military history—and watches hockey and baseball games on television.

He has cheerfully admitted a weakness for pies and candies that makes weight-watching difficult.

"Periodically, I go on a diet, but unfortunately all the things I like to eat are not on any diet I've ever seen," he told one interviewer.

Keen on Sport

The zest for sports traced back to his childhood in a succession of Ontario towns and cities where his father was a Methodist minster. He was the second of three sons and was born in Newtonbrook on April 23, 1897. His father played baseball and passed on his enthusiasm.

He also sent his sons to the church's Victoria College in the University of Toronto, where Lester Pearson encountered his first major turning of the road.

Much later he recalled it this way:

"I was sitting in the library in 1915, studying a Latin poet, and all of a sudden I thought: 'War can't be this bad.' So I walked out and enlisted."

He was 17 at the time and he went overseas the same year, as a stretcher-bearer in a hospital unit, first to England, then to Egypt and on to Salonika in Greece.

He spent a miserable 1½ years there, later recalling:

Won Commission

"I lost most of my friends. . . . You got to the point where you just assumed there was no other world, resigned either to being invalided home or ending your life there."

In 1917, as a corporal, he was assigned to officer training school in England. He got his commission and then transferred to the Royal Flying Corps for his unspectacular air career.

At that time the life expectancy of a wartime pilot was brutally short, but circumstances conspired to keep him out of action.

Makng a solo flght—after 90 minutes of flight instruction—he was coming in to land his Graham White "box-kite" when he saw a high wire looming up.

He tried to lift over it, stalled and crashed. His injuries were not serious and after a week in hospital he was out again. But then he was hit by a London bus in a blackout. He spent another month in hospital and was invalided home in April, 1918.

He was rejected for the Canadian expeditionary force sent to Siberia to fight the Bolsheviks, and instead spent the remainder of the war as a ground instructor in aerial navigation.

Gained Nickname

He had gained at least two things from the war: The nickname Mike and the desire to study at Oxford—a desire that was to surface a few years later.

First he completed his degree in history at Toronto, tried law school for a few weeks and then gave it up for a crack at the business world.

He went to work for Armour and Co., where an uncle was an executive, first confronting the sausage machine in a Hamilton plant and later going to Chicago as a clerk.

He stuck at it 18 months before deciding to go back to university.

In another turning point, he received a Massey Foundation fellowship for two years' study at Oxford that earned him a place on the University of Toronto's history faculty.

Along the way he also kept up his interest in sports—semi-pro baseball at Guelph, Ont., basketball and football at the University of Toronto, rugger, hockey and lacrosse at Oxford.

He was a defenceman on Britain's Olympic hockey team in 1922 and after his return to the Toronto faculty he coached both football and hockey teams.

In 1925 he married one of his students, Maryon Moody, daughter of a Winnipeg doctor, and they set up housekeeping in a Toronto flat.

Turning Point

But the following year another turning point came when he and his wife were doing research in Ottawa and he met O. D. Skelton, the organizing genius of the fledgling external affairs department.

Dr. Skelton invited him to sit for the department's exams and he did so in 1928, emerging at the top of a group on about 60.

His first few years in the department were taken up with a series of domestic studies mixed with an occasional trip abroad for his first taste of international diplomacy.

In 1927 and 1929 his two children were born: Geoffrey, later to become a diplomat, and Patricia, now the wife of a Toronto doctor.

Mr. Pearson's crucial middle years as a diplomat were spent in a succession of increasingly important posts in the basic triangle of Canadian diplomacy: London, Ottawa and Washington.

He went to London in 1935, working there under Vincent Massey and Georges P. Vanier, later to become Canada's first and second native-born governors-general.

Ordered Home

He was still in London for the first two years of the war but in mid-1941 was ordered back to Ottawa as assistant undersecretary of state.

Within a year he was sent to Washington where he was minister-counsellor, minister and finally ambassador.

It was in Washington, in his late 40s, that Mr. Pearson began to emerge with a clear public image.

A blue polka-dot bow tie was his trademark and a dislike of diplomatic stuffiness was a main featire.

He took part in a succession of conferences planning the post-war structure, and had a hand in drafting the United Nations Charter at the San Francisco founding conference.

He turned down a chance to be first director-general of the UN's Food and Agriculture Organization and shut off another possible road.

In the fall of 1946 he returned to Ottawa to the department's top post, undersecretary of state, and quickly came under pressure to move over to the political side.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King urged him to go into politics—on one occasion during a carriage ride through the Bois de Boulogne in Paris—but Mr. Pearson turned him down.

Accepted Bid

But in 1948, when Louis St. Laurent succeeded Mr. King and urged Mr. Pearson to fill his old job of external affairs minister, Mr. Pearson accepted.

On the day he was sworn in, reporters asked when he had become a Liberal, and he replied: "Today."

Later, as prime minister, Mr. Pearson frankly admited that he would rather have been UN secretary-general, a job twice denied him by Russian opposition.

The first time was at the General Assembly session of 1946 in London, when Norway's Trygve Lie was chosen. The second was in New York in 1953 when Dag Hammarskjold was picked.

External Affairs Minister Martin revealed years later that on the second occasion, 10 of 11 Security Council members had indicated a preference for Mr. Pearson. Only the Russians had turned him down.

In 1952 he was asked to become secretary-general of NATO but decided against it.

Despite his prominent role in NATO, Mr. Pearson was one of the first Western statesmen to try to build East-West bridges.

Visited Russia

He visited Russia in 1955, and his reactions from the trip were reflected in his Nobel acceptance speech two years later:

"Our policy and diplomacy —as the two sides in the cold war face each other—are becoming as rigid and defensive as the trench warfare of 40 years ago, when two sides dug in, dug deeper, and lived in their ditches. . . .

"It is essential that we avoid this kind of dangerous stalemate in international policy today. . . ."

One of the disappointments of his term as prime minister was that he was not able to restore normal relations with Communist China.

The year 1956 was a climactic one both for Mr. Pearson and for Canadian foreign policy as Canada turned against Britain and France for their backing of the Israeli invasion of Egypt.

Mr. Pearson, balancing between the anger of the United States and Canada's two mother countries, put forward the UN Emergency Force proposal that dampened the crisis and set a new pattern in international action.

Thunderstruck

Typically, he was astounded when a reporter phoned him to say that he had won the Nobel prize for his efforts.

"Gosh," he said. "I'm thunderstruck and overwhelmed."

The award helped make him a shoo-in for the Liberal leadership at the party's 1958 convention, held in the wake of its 1957 electoral defeat and Mr. St. Laurent's retirement.

But his debut as party leader was a near-disaster.

John Diefenbaker held power with a minority Conservative government at the time, and Mr. Pearson proposed that he should resign to permit the Liberals to take over without an election.

The idea was all but booted out of the Commons, and Mr. Diefenbaker in rebuttal left the Liberals battered and bleeding.

MEMBER OF OXFORD LACROSSE TEAM

A few weeks later Mr. Diefenbaker called a snap election and crushed the Liberals, reducing them to 48 seats compared with 105 after the 1957 election.

From there, Mr. Pearson began a slow rebuilding job that climaxed with the election of 1962, when the Conservatives were reduced to a minority position, and 1963, when the Liberals edged into power.

Embarrassments

Again there were immediate embarrassments: A "60 days of decision" that went awry and an ambitious budget that had to be partly dismantled under pressure from the business world.

In 1964 there was the Rivard scandal, when an executive assistant was accused of working on behalf of Lucien Rivard, a convicted narcotics smuggler.

In another case of alleged influence-peddling, Mr. Pearson demanded the resignation of a minister without portfolio, Yvon Dupuis.

The scandals had a part in denying Mr. Pearson the majority he sought in the November, 1965, election.

But the biggest furore of all was still to come the following year when his justice minister, Lucien Cardin, dropped the word "Munsinger" in a Commons debate and unleashed a torrent of scandal surrounding Gerda Munsinger and her relations with former Conservative cabinet members.

The scandals left a bad taste and overshadowed an array of significant legislative achievements during the five Pearson years.

There were a number of social welfare programs: the Canada Pension Plan, medical care insurance, the old age income supplement and reduction of the qualifying age for old-age pensions.

There was basic redrafting of the Bank Act, the Broadcast Act and the Transport Act, and the start of a major revision of the Criminal Code.

There was a new flag, an official anthem, and creation of the Order of Canada.

There were new divorce laws and new laws tightly restricting capital punishment—which in effect was abandoned during Mr. Pearson's tenure.

Massive Study

There was the massive study of French-English relations in the bilingualism and biculturalism royal commission, and the stepping up of bilingualism in Ottawa.

There were the Columbia River Treaty, independent redistribution of electoral districts, creation of departments of industry and of consumer and corporate affairs, the establishment of the Company of Young Canadians and of a series of development funds.

Climaxing the five years, there was the celebration of Centennial Year and the success of Expo.

Mr. Pearson had generally been expected to step down when Centennial Year was through, and he announced his plans to do so on Dec. 14.

He said he planned to retire to his "rose-covered cottage" in Rockcliffe in suburban Ottawa and do some writing and lecturing. He exchanged a few jokes with reporters and then wound up:

"Well—c'est la vie."

Cool Reception To Rights Plan

MONTREAL (CP) — Marc Lalonde, policy adviser to Prime Minister Pearson, said Tuesday Ontario is reluctant to agree to a proposal by the federal government to incorporate a human rights charter into the constitution because it fears the move means "republicanism coming in by the back door."

Mr. Lalonde said part of the Ontario government's hesitation is based on the assumption that "entrenchment of a human rights charter in a repatriated constitution is somehow an introduction of the American system."

He was speaking at a meeting of a Montreal-area branch of the Quebec Liberal Federation along with Jerome Choquette, member of the Quebec legislature for Montreal-Outremont.

Mr. Lalonde said five provinces — Ontario, British Columbia, Quebec, Alberta and Manitoba—have expressed reservations concerning the government's proposal enunciated at the recent federal-provincial constitutional conference in Ottawa.

Both he and Mr. Choquette agreed that the Canadian constitution should include a charter of human rights that would clearly define and protect the rights of all Canadians.

ESTABLISH CHARTER

Mr. Choquette said this would be the "ideal," but until it is done, Quebec should establish its own charter for inclusion in the province's constitution.

Mr. Lalonde said he sees no objection to Quebec doing this. There would be "no contradiction" between separate federal and provincial charters, although it might be "superfluous."

At the constitutional conference, Quebec proposed that the Canadian constitution guarantee "collective rights" such as minority rights, but "private rights" were to be left to provincial charters.

Mr. Choquette suggested that Quebec adopt a human rights charter as an immediate goal. In the long term, after constitutional problems were sorted out, the proposed federal charter could transcend all provincial charters.

He also said that having to refer to "a foreign parliament"—the British—to make changes in the Canadian constitution is "humiliating."

Mr. Lalonde said members of the British Parliament, would gladly give up their right to ratify amendments to the British North America Act, Canada's constitution, but "we must not wait for a repatriation formu" to start making the amendments."

Exchange Gunfire

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)— Jordanian and Israeli troops exchanged machinegun fire across the Jordan River Tuesday night, a Jordanian military spokesman said today. The spokesman said no Jordanians were injured but Israeli helicopters landed on the Israeli-held side, presumably to take away wounded.

Garbage Deal Late but Cheered

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis's 1,300 garbage collectors return to their jobs today after settlement of a labor dispute that brought Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to the city where he was killed.

Ahead of the strikers, 98 per cent of them Negroes, was the mammoth job of clearing streets and vacant lots of refuse accumulated during the 65-day walkout.

All sides cheered Tuesday's agreement, described as a "memorandum of understanding" rather than a formal contract, although some Negro leaders suggested that it came far too late. Others pledged that a battle here for "equality and justice" had just begun.

Under the pact, sanitation workers, now making from $1.65 to $2.10 an hour, will get a 10-cent hourly pay increase May 1 and another five cents an hour Sept. 1, along with union recognition and dues checkoffs.

Negro Councilman J. O. Patterson Jr. said this was substantially the same formula approved by the city council only two weeks after the strike began, before some members reversed their positions.

"Seven weeks ago, we agreed to the main issues almost identical to those before us today," Patterson said. "And then a majority of the council changed its mind . . . refused to take any action on this matter and a lot of hell broke out across the city and across the nation.

"We could have avoided all this, including the death of Dr. King," he said.

Professional Killer Hired To Slay King?

By PAUL VALENTINE
The Washington Post

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — There is growing speculation among Memphis police detectives that the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King's assassin was a disinterested professional killer — not a racist ideologue — who left an elaborate trail of phoney clues to confuse his pursuers.

They won't say who they think hired the killer or why, but the evidence, they say, points to a well-paid professional job.

Frank C. Holloman, director of fire and police, has maintained a stony silence on progress of the April 4 murder investigation, as has his chief of detectives, William Huston. But sources in the department indicate that the "hired killer" theory is gaining momentum.

One notion is that the killer began his preparations six or eight months ago by dissolving his real identity and manufacturing a new personality known as "Eric Starpo Galt, 36, unemployed merchant marine."

Surrounding himself with phoney credentials, he waited patiently in various cities for the right opportunity to fulfill his assignment.

In Birmingham, where Galt once lived, Jefferson County Sheriff Mel Bailey said he believes the assassin originally may have planned to kill King in the Alabama city.

Bailey, who threw a protective net around King when he was in Birmingham last October to serve five days in jail, said he thinks a conspiracy existed to murder the civil rights leader. The sheriff said his theory is only conjecture, but that "it is based on the evidence uncovered so far in the case."

Galt, who has been identified by fellow boarders in a rooming house in Birmingham as being the same man shown in FBI sketches of the suspected assassin, lived in the city when King was serving his jail term, Bailey said.

The right opportunity came April 4 in Memphis. Dr. King had arrived the day before, and both television and local newspapers had announced the motel and room number where Dr. King was staying.

North Korea Denies Charges

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea denied today U.S. charges it was responsible for an ambush which killed two American and two South Korean soldiers near the Panmunjom truce village Sunday.

The North Korean Central news agency accused the United States of increasing military provocations in an effort to touch off another Korean war.

"We do not want war, but are never afraid of it," the official news agency said.

WATER TUNNEL DRILLERS MEET . . . ON TARGET

'Shake the Hand That Shook Mountain'

On Dec. 19, 1964, hard-rock miners drove the first few feet into opposite sides of a Sooke mountain.

Today, some 1,300 days and 28,700 feet later, work crews were able to reach across the last few feet of rubble and shake hands.

The Sooke water tunnel, three years and close to four months in the drilling, was complete.

Or at least the first big phase, the punching of the eight-foot hole through a mountain to tap the waters of Sooke Lake, was complete.

Chief water commissioner Ron Upward, at the tunnel site this morning for the final blast-through, said it will be another 18 months before the tunnel had a concrete lining and is able to bring a fresh water supply in enough volume to serve the needs of 500,000 persons.

FULL SHIFTS

The tunnel is partially lined with concrete now. With the miners finished with drilling and blasting, concrete lining equipment will be able to work on full shifts in order to meet the late 1969 early 1970 deadline for completion.

In the meantime the tunnel could be used on an emergency basis should Greater Victoria hit a drought period.

To date the five mile pipeline through the mountain has cost $3,100,000. Another $2,500,000 will be required to complete the project.

So far all financing has been done from revenue raised from water sales and Mr. Upland has long advocated the same policy be followed for the next 18 months.

The tunnel, which will replace the old pipeline snaking 27.5 miles through the Sooke Hills, will link the Greater Victoria water system with 3.7 billion gallons of water stored in Sooke Lake.

In conjunction with completion of the tunnel the Sooke Lake dam will be raised to almost double the water storage area.

22 FEET DAILY

Miners working in the tunnel averaged 22.1 feet a day during the entire operation and were halted by only one serious accident.

Little more than a year ago a miner struck a partial stick of blasting powder with a drill and lost an eye in the explosion.

Mr. Upward praised the surveyors who guided the tunnel to its meeting point.

"We have had survey teams on the job for the past two years," Mr. Upward said. "The fact that when the tunnel joined it was not more than six inches out at the meeting point speaks well for their efforts."

Plan Big N-Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The largest nuclear blast ever detonated in the United States is set for April 24 in the ground at Phaute Mesa, part of the Nevada test site about 100 miles northwest of Las Vegas. The Atomic Energy Commission said Tuesday the blast may be felt up to 250 miles away but would be contained in a 3,800-foot-deep vertical shaft. The radiation will be confined below the surface, the AEC said.

BIRTH CONTROL APPEAL HEARD

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver group says the Ten Commandments might be written to include the warning, "Do not bring unwanted children into the world."

The Children's Aid Society of Vancouver made the suggestion today in a submission to the federal royal commission on the status of women.

The society, claiming that one out of eight babies in British Columbia is born out of wedlock, made a plea today for public birth control.

It said in a brief to the seven commissioners that in 1967 there were 1,450 Vancouver women who came to the society to ask for aid in caring for their illegitimate children last year.

The agency also said it had "strong majority support" among its members for a "wide liberalization of the abortion laws."

Mrs. Mickey Beagle, organizer for the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union of Vancouver, said in a brief that a highly-skilled female fish filleter in B.C. can expect to make three cents less an hour than an experienced male general worker.

BEST EXAMPLE

This is only one example of "outright discrimination" against women, she said.

Mrs. Beagle said the fishermen's union had made an extensive study of working conditions for women and found equal pay laws have helped raise wages for female school teachers and federal employees.

"But we find the legislation had little, if any, effect for women who work in offices, industry and manufacture outside of government."

The union called for an elimination of the standards which set arbitrary divisions between what should be women's and what is men's work. It also asked for government supervision and enforcement of equal pay laws.

In a personal presentation, Iva Conboy said it is time women started fighting the "subservient mental attitudes" that help keep women in "an inferior state."

One of these attitudes was expressed in the tradition that says a woman's father must "give" the bride to another man in marriage.

"If the female is now emancipated, why continue treating her as chattel by giving her away at marriage?" she asked.

It was time women stopped adopting their husbands' names or allowing society to label them Miss or Mrs. "as if marriage was the sole object."

The commission will sit in Vancouver two days before moving on to other western points.

Royal Commission In 'Dream World'

By BRUCE YEMEN

Victoria women were praised Tuesday for getting "right down to the good bedrock of human needs" as the Royal Commission on the Status of Women held its first public hearing.

Commission chairman Anne Francis said she was "quite pleased and excited" after the 3½ hour meeting which included 45 minutes of audience participation.

The women who took part were "extraordinarily sincere," she said.

Among them were Mrs. Kay Dixon, a 57-year-old grandmother and a member of the Victoria Low Income Group who said the well-dressed commissioners lived in "a dream world" as far as the average welfare mother is concerned.

"Ladies like you are out of our realm," she told commissioner Lola Lange, a farm unionist from Alberta.

Low income mothers couldn't afford a babysitter to come down to the hearings," she said.

In any case most of them would feel too lacking in poise and education to speak up in such company, she said, and to them the issues being discussed were just "talk, talk, talk."

TEACHER ON WELFARE

Mrs. Dixon, a substitute teacher now on welfare, said later a poor woman should have been appointed to the commission.

"I think the commission means well but you just have to be poor to understand what it means to freeze or starve or get TB," she said.

The need for children's day-care centres to help working women was stressed by 78-year-old Ruth Elliott, founder of the Canadian Mothercraft Society and a maiden grandmother of seven through two adoptions.

Regional colleges where "dedicated girls could receive basic training in home management and care" are a "deep need" along with day nurseries," she said.

Commissioner Lange said many of the people who telephoned the commissioners in a successful trial of phone-in comments had also pointed out the need for better day-care facilities.

Newspaper reporter Nancy Brown, who described herself as a deserted mother of five children, said it was almost impossible for her to get a mortgage loan without a male guarantor even when earning a good salary.

CREDIT DENIED

Gasoline credit cards, bank loans and other forms of credit are also denied to deserted wives, she said, making life difficult.

Even with a court order against a husband to provide support, the authorities make little or no effort to find the husband, she said.

Mrs. Brown was among several at the meeting who spoke in response to requests by commissioners for people to comment on specific problems that had come up.

An unidentified woman said that women immigrants to Canada who come here with their husbands get the impression they are "just a shirt-tail, a piece of luggage" because the immigration form demands extensive information about the man and almost none about the woman.

She said the impression "is different after you get here, of course."

In a brief to the commission, Hilda J. Marshall of Victoria urged more protection for young girls or women suffering at the hands of parents.

FREE AT 21

She urged that a young woman reaching the age of 21 be legally freed of all "filial responsibilities and obligations."

Throughout the meeting there was support for the idea that the commission will serve a real need, contrary to the views of some Canadians who greeted its formation with derision.

But the chairman at one point raised the question of whether women shouldn't be careful when they demand political representation simply as women.

She asked the women present ponder whether they really want to be considered as a group, especially in regard to the public service.

"Surely men represent us just as well as women if they are good people," she said, asking if the excellence of the job being done weren't the real issue.

The seven commissioners — including two men — hurried from the meeting to begin preparations for a two-day stop in Vancouver beginning today.

About 75 spectators — mostly older women — attended the hearing in the Empress Hotel. A number came in for a few minutes during lunch hour.

OTTAWA - BOUND is Henry Edward Johal, 12, of 595 O'Connell Place. The Burnside pupil will represent Victoria school safety patrols as one of 12 B.C. delegates to National School Safety Patrol Jamboree, sponsored by B.C. Automobile Association.

Morals Conviction

A 22-year-old man was found guilty Tuesday of contributing to delinquency involving a 15-year-old girl.

Paul Hoshal, 2184 Bartlett, was remanded to April 23 for pre-sentence report.

FOR SAME WORK

Hospital Formula: Woman + $104 = Man

Female nursing assistants in B.C. hospitals make $100 less a month than male orderlies although both do similar work, the royal commission on the status of women was told Tuesday.

In a brief to the commission's first public hearing, the Victoria Registered Nurses' Association, said both orderlies and nursing assistants mop floors, clean bathrooms and empty garbage.

In many cases the female workers had greater responsibilities since they also do work in patients' rooms that male orderlies do not do.

But registered nursing assistants made starting wages of $260 a month while orderlies begin at $364.50.

This happened despite federal and provincial equal pay acts which stipulate no employer may pay women less than men for doing the same type of work.

"Employers continually evade this issue by giving a different name to two positions although the job descriptions are identical," the nurses' association said.

The nurses also said that working mothers should be able to deduct the cost of hiring housekeepers — or babysitters from their income taxes.

In B.C. unmarried ministers could deduct the cost of hiring a housekeeper but a widow or divorced woman who has to work to support her children can not.

This is unjust discrimination against women," the nurses said.

Pair Jailed 60 Days Each In Hotel Fraud

Two men were sentenced Tuesday to two months each in jail after they pleaded guilty to obtaining lodgings by fraud.

Police said Pierre Cloutier and Jurgen Finster left the Gorge Motel, 7 Gorge West, April 8, owing $60 for a two-week stay.

They checked into the Red Lion Inn March 12 and slipped out the back way the following morning owing $25.

Court was told the pair, both convicted of breaking and entering in 1965, stayed in a vacant building on Cloverdale after they left the Red Lion.

IT GLOWS IN DARK

Psychedelic Fence Bothers Neighbors

VANCOUVER (P) — As Arthur Cowwie explains it, he needed a garden fence because he has a small daughter.

He started building it. But parts of it were over the four-foot maximum height set down by zoning bylaws.

The city's technical planning board asked 10 property owners if they objected to the height and eight of them said they did.

After fruitless appeals to planners, the 33-year-old landscape architect cut the fence down to size.

The fence now carries a sign explaining that, in its present condition, it complies with Bylaw 3575, section 10, subsection 7.

But its present condition is giving Mr. Cowie's neighbors heartburn.

He invited a dozen fellow planning students at University of British Columbia to help him paint it.

They did: In a mishmash of psychedelic patterns in red, yellow, blue and green phosphorescent paint, studded with inner tubes and old shoes.

The whole thing glows in the dark.

Apartment Bids Rejected

Three bids for apartments in Saanich were rejected by council Tuesday night.

The planned locations were at 3992 Gordon Head Road, 3860 Cadboro Bay Road and the southeast corner of Quadra and Union.

Also rejected was an application for a dental clinic at 3651 Quadra.

Public hearings will be held on an expansion of Growers Wine south to Hulford in the Lake Hill district and a registered egg grading station for Claremont Poultry on Claremont Road.

Thieves Work Fast

LONDON (AP)—Fast-working thieves stole $67,200 from a parked armored car Tuesday while the guards were picking up cash from a store. The thieves unlocked the car's rear door and its inner security door, took out several bags of coins and notes, relocked the outer door and escaped. It all took five minutes.

NOVICE HOLDS PERFECT HAND AT CRIBBAGE

A second Victorian has broken to 3,248,700 to one odds against a perfect, 29-point hand in cribbage.

The latest perfect hand reported to The Times, played Saturday by a 20-year-old novice at the game.

David Duke, 2827 Reta Road, was playing at the home of Joseph Pedneault, 2837 Heath, when he held the hand.

A cribbage player for only a month, he skunked his partner, Mr. Pedneault, in the game.

Monday night Ben Lidemark played the same hand at the Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans' Association weekly tournament.

LITTLE BUZZERS

Woman Stung By Neighbor's Beekeeping

Bees are a beast to at least one family on Obed Avenue in Saanich.

Mrs. J. A. Loucks, 380 Obed, said after three years of telephoning the municipal hall she was trying a letter to "see if I do better."

She didn't, because — council was told Tuesday night—there is nothing in the present animals bylaw about bees.

She complained of bees swarming three or four times a year from 363 Davida Avenue.

They spoiled washing and there were days when children couldn't go out and play.

Development officer Joseph Barber-Starkey said there are six hives and two or three chickens being kept on the property.

While keeping of chickens is a non-conforming use (which could not be extended beyond their lives, he said) there is nothing about bees in the bylaw.

One alderman suggested she contact the provincial apiarist and council agreed to take no action.

Five Pay Fines For Driving While Impaired

Five men were fined in central court Tuesday when they pleaded guilty to impaired driving over the weekend.

Merle Buck, 2832 Bryn-Mau, was fined $400 after police said they apprehended him when they observed him driving on Goldstream Road Saturday with a flat rear tire.

Philip Charles, 7 Cooper Road, was fined $400 after police reported he drove his car into the ditch near his home Sunday.

Istvan Laszlo, 1104 Gerda, was fined $350 after police observed him driving in an erratic manner on Finlayson Saturday.

Jerry Shelefontiuk, of Duncan, was fined $350 after he was apprehended by RCMP on the Trans-Canada Highway Saturday. He was also fined $25 for driving without insurance while a minor.

James Campbell, 627 Hood Lane, was fined $400 after police observed him driving in an erratic manner on the Trans-Canada Highway early Sunday.

Magistrate Ostler suspended the drivers' licences of all five.

Man Held

VANCOUVER (CP)—City police Tuesday night arrested a 29-year-old man wanted by Edmonton police in a $1,500 holdup March 29 in which three rounds were fired from a shotgun. He was not identified.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1968—PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

Eventually, our society is going to be forced into taking a long, critical look at itself, and from this examination, at least one reform will, I hope, result.

This is a ukase which would chase mothers of young children out of industry and commerce, and back home where they belong.

Just how much harm the absentee mother has done to the fabric of our civilization no impartial commission has so far set out to discover.

But when the tale is told, I expect we'll find that she's responsible for a list of crimes that begins with the alienation of children and includes the spiritual if not physical emasculation of the male.

I'm fully aware that mine is a harsh and terribly stuffy viewpoint, but I didn't arrive at it lightly, and will not be persuaded out of it. I've seen too many nine-to-five orphans, and too many husbands who have been conned out of their birthright by a sensible-seeming, 'Just until we've paid for the new furniture, dear'.

We get children around our place who never in their young lives have tasted honest, fresh-baked bread hot from an oven. We've also had those who were excited and happy—for a while—because their mothers had gone to work.

Listen to one of them, a few months after the event:

"We thought that things would be a lot more fun with the extra money coming in. But when she comes home she's too tired to do anything or go anywhere with us."

There are also the hours before the working mother comes home, but after the kids are out of school. Those periods when no mother, and often no adult is in charge, are trouble-breeders ... and no point in blaming the teacher who can only substitute so far for the absentee parent.

There are mothers who have to work outside the home, and these deserve both help and sympathy. But the others, the keepers up with the Joneses who sell their families short for a few extra dollars, will never get a good word from me.

The rivermen who know and respect the strong, fast Cowichan have issued a plain warning to amateur boatmen, and we can hope these will heed it.

But even though that stream has added four more lives to its lengthy list, I expect that still others will insist on betting their strength and skill against its wicked current.

It is worth noting, however, that several dozen fast-water fans of a different sort challenged the Cowichan last weekend, and emerged from it none the worse for wear.

They were strong swimmers, they knew precisely what they were about, and they were wearing the most effective life preserver man has yet devised for himself.

This is the skin-divers' neoprene wet suit.

"A man in a wet suit floats like a cork," says Scuba Shop proprietor Frank White Sr. "In fact he needs a lead belt before he can make himself sink. The suit gives him a huge safety factor. He never gets water-logged, he's protected from the cold, and he's a lot safer from the snags that may hook into a life-jacket."

If there's anyone who feels he absolutely must try his luck on a spring-high river, I hope he will heed Mr. White's advice. It could save his life.

While lunching on indifferent omelette and slushed potatoes in a cute little restaurant that should do better, we fell into conversation with a mainland couple who asked a plaintive question.

"If Victoria really wants to attract visitors, why are practically all your restaurants closed on holidays?"

The reason, as I understand it, is that a good many proprietors are unwilling to pay their staffs overtime plus time off for holiday work.

The tourists arrived here on Good Friday morning, and prowled hither and yon in the downtown sector in search of a meal. Finally, when they were about ready to decide that food had gone out of style in these parts, a good chap directed them to the Dominion Hotel, where they enjoyed a fine lunch.

EYE-OPENING experience for tiny bear cub was finding himself in Duncan Zoo in care of Mrs. Tosca Oyen instead of with his mother. Cub was one of two huddled by their mother when a logger felled the tree that was their den. Mother fled, killing one cub in her haste. Survivor has never seen another bear—his eyes just opened, which puts his age at about seven weeks. He may reach 600 pounds at maturity in about three years. But he'll have to find someone else to nuzzle then, says Mrs. Oyen. (Photo by Dave Hancock, Island View Wildlife Research Centre.)

MORE WOES STRIKE SCHOOL

Plans for the proposed new Victoria West School have run into a new snag, Trustee Ted Wood reported to Greater Victoria School Board Tuesday.

He said plans had to be redrawn in order to meet the provincial requirement that cost not exceed $15,000 per classroom.

But even then the department of education rejected them.

Latest request is for removal of a hall and storage room for wet weather clothing to make room for another classroom.

In Mr. Wood's opinion the changes are "administratively impossible" and the $15,000 limit is not feasible.

School board representatives hope to meet provincial officials again within a week to attempt a solution.

New Postings For Teachers

Four appointments were announced today by Greater Victoria school board.

Effective Sept. 1, Elved Davies, now principal at Lampson elementary, will become principal of the larger Oaklands elementary.

Robert Tubman, now at Central Junior Secondary School, will take over at Dean Heights Occupational School, the old Richmond School.

Donald Falker, now at Frank Hobbs elementary, will become an administrative assistant at school board headquarters.

And within the next month, H. A. Fraser, administrator for a local car firm, will become the new assistant secretary-treasurer to the school board.

DRUG KITS GO QUICKLY

Parental interest in Greater Victoria school board drug information kits has cleaned out initial supplies.

District superintendent Joseph Chell today said 480 kits have been sent out to inquiring parents so far and 200 more have been requested. They will go out by the end of the week.

Parents may receive the collection on pamphlets by telephoning the board at 385-1411. They deal with marijuana and other aspects of drug use and trafficking.

Patients the Real Winners In Mayors' Blood Battle

Victoria won the Red Cross corpuscle contest Tuesday.

Or it was a tie with Saanich? Nobody's too certain.

Big winners of course were the hospital patients who need blood transfusions. The one-day blood-letting race headed up by Mayor Hugh Stephen and Mayor Hugh Curtis yielded 262 pints.

Red Cross officials said the final tally showed 121 donors gave Victoria addresses while 103 came from Saanich. Oak Bay produced only 21 donors and Esquimalt had a scant representation of 17.

Where the doubt comes in — officials say an undetermined number of visitors to the area were listed as Victoria donors. There was a suggestion that the Saanich mayor might claim a foul and ask for a judicial inquiry, but this could not be confirmed.

Mayor Curtis and Mayor Stephen bled for the cause simultaneously on adjoining beds, complaining that the crowd of interested onlookers were hovering "like a flock of vultures."

The mobile clinic was to visit Colquitz Jail today and a further public clinic will be held at Red Cross House tonight at 6:30.

Conciliator Tackles Coast Dispute

A conciliation officer was appointed today in the contract dispute between 28,000 B.C. coast woodworkers and 126 companies.

Appointment of Jack Sherlock of Victoria involves negotiations between the International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations.

Talks between both sides broke down March 26 and the union applied for a labor department conciliation officer April 1.

Last Wednesday the IWA sent a telegram to the labor department protesting the delay and requesting an immediate appointment.

The IWA is seeking a 50-cent hourly wage increase in a one-year contract on the present basic rate of $2.76 an hour plus other items.

Hospital Staffs To Vote Soon On New Contract

Hospital workers in British Columbia will begin voting shortly on a proposed new contract with their employers.

No details of the agreement are being released by the B.C. Hospitals' Association, representing 58 hospitals, and the 6,500-member Hospital Employees Union.

The proposal was agreed upon by negotiating committees for both sides after they met labor department conciliator Jack Sherlock.

A union spokesman said it will take about three weeks for the proposal to be outlined to all local units and the vote held.

One of the units affected is St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria where 450 employees won a 17.3 per cent raise in a one-year contract last year.

DR. ENDICOTT

Endicott Speaks Sunday Afternoon

Rev. Dr. James Endicott, chairman of the left-wing Canadian Peace Congress and an executive member of the World Council of Peace, will visit Victoria Sunday.

He will speak at a meeting in Club Tango, 1037 View Street, at 2 p.m.

Dr. Endicott will report on an international conference on Vietnam which he attended recently in Stockholm.

For the past 20 years he has devoted most of his time to the cause of world peace. He was a United Church missionary in China for many years and is a son of Dr. James Endicott, a former moderator of the United Church of Canada.

Woman Hurt In Crash On Douglas

A woman is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today after a two-car collision at Douglas and Saanich Tuesday afternoon.

Alice Crisp, 530 Normandy, received head injuries when her car collided with a car driven south on Douglas by Leonard Grainger, 961 Lavender.

An electrical fire in the Crisp vehicle was quickly extinguished by Saanich firemen.

CHILDREN HURT

A short time later, two children were injured in an accident at Caledonia and Blanshard.

Diane McKinnon, 10, and Janet McKinnon, 13, of Richmond, were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital and released.

Police said they were passengers in a car driven east on Caledonia by Sadie McKinnon which collided with a car driven north on Blanshard by Lorne McMillan, 3851 Raymond.

Earlier Tuesday, no one was injured when a car slammed into an oak tree in Beacon Hill Park.

Police said the car, driven south through the park by Winifred Bath, 351 Ken Ave., was heavily damaged.

Damage to the tree was negligible.

NEW AUSSIE SHIP HERE ON WEEKEND

A sparkling new Australian destroyer armed for missile fleet defence as well as anti-submarine and gunnery operations will visit here this weekend.

She is the 4,500-ton $45 million Brisbane, built in the United States and commissioned at Boston, Mass. last December 16.

She arrives Friday and will remain until Monday. It is expected there will be "open house" for visitors, but times have not been announced.

Another example of her modernity — her visit here was announced not by navy channels but through a Vancouver public relations firm which also glorifies the Australian Government Trade Commission.

Brisbane's silhouette preserves the sleek lines of pre-war knife-nosed destroyers and is dominated by a superstructure reminiscent of cruisers and battleships. She is 437 feet long with a 47 foot beam and carries a complement of 20 officers and 313 other ranks.

She is one of three guided missile destroyers being provided to Australia by Defoe Shipbuilding Company of Boston.

But although the TARTAR guided missile is a U.S.-designed weapon, she carries a long range anti-sub missile designed, built and fitted in Australia.

Brisbane's speed is in excess of 30 knots, powered by geared steam turbines.

'THEY DIDN'T CARE'

River Residents Hampered Hunt

'Told Us to Get Off Their Land'

By PETE LOUDON

"Heartless" riverbank residents on the Cowichan tried to impede searchers seeking the bodies of two drowning victims Tuesday, it was claimed here today.

Richard Petersen, of Courtenay, brother and uncle of river victims John (42) and Bill (18) Petersen, said: "People kept telling us to get off their property. "Even when we told them what we were doing, they didn't care."

He said he was amazed at the cold-hearted manner of some of the river residents and surprised that they should be able to claim the banks of the popular fish river as a private preserve.

(Mr. Petersen's complaints underlined an historic controversy among sportsmen and residents in an area where campers, fishermen and picnickers have found the best reaches of the Cowichan, Koksilah and Chemainus Rivers privately owned, controlled by logging companies or Indian reserves.)

SEARCHERS PRAISED

Mr. Petersen on the other hand, was fast to praise the generosity of Cowichan and Duncan RCMP and fish and game club members who turned out to aid in the search.

"They were 100 per cent," he said.

The concentrated riverbank search for the body of Bill Petersen was called off today following the finding of the body of his father Tuesday about two miles east of Skutz Falls.

This morning, five divers from Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, headed by Lieut. Don Deane, began an underwater search in various deep pools in the same viccinity for Bill's body.

John and Bill Petersen were attempting to canoe from Skutz Falls to the river mouth at Cowichan Bay Monday when unknown tragedy overtook them.

The accident occurred less than 24 hours after the river drowning of Mrs. Joan Cook, 35, and her three-year-old daughter Helen. Dr. Norman Cook of Victoria and two other daughters survived the tipping of their boat.

Half of the Petersen's canoe was recovered from the river the same day Mr. Petersen's body was found.

John Stewart Petersen was assistant superintendent at Western Lumber Carriers here. The family lives at 3190 Glen Lake Road and is well known in the area.

Born in 1926 at Port Arthur, Mr. Petersen was an RCAF war veteran who settled here in 1945.

FORMER SCOUTMASTER

His brother said he loved hunting and fishing. He was a Mason and formerly was scoutmaster to a troop in Glen Lake. His son Bill was a grade 12 student at Belmont High School and his great ambition was to own and operate a commercial fishing boat.

Surviving are wife and mother Mrs. Elinore Petersen, four sons — John, James, Scott, Russell and one daughter Rayanne. Other family members include brothers James at Port Arthur, Harold at Flinton, Ont., sisters Helen at Red Deer and Joan in Vancouver.

Funeral arrangements or memorial services will be announced by Sands Mortuary Ltd., Colwood.

SPORTSMAN, youth worker and family man, John S. Petersen posed with second-youngest son, Scott, and dog, Rowdy, in this recent photo.

Carpenters Win 74-Cent Hourly Hike

Biggest on Record Says Council Head

By Roger Stonebanks

A pace-setting wage increase of 74 cents an hour over two years has been set by British Columbia carpenters.

The increase, described by Arnold Smith, president of the Provincial Council of Carpenters as the biggest on record, was announced Tuesday.

Both the 8,000-member United Brotherhood of Carpenters and the 118 contractors represented by the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C. have ratified the new contract.

It was the first major contract settlement in B.C. this year and was expected to be a barometer for other unions, both in and out of the construction industry, in their negotiations.

The journeyman rate of $4.14 an hour will be increased in five steps to $4.88 an hour on Nov. 1, 1969. Hours of work remain unchanged with the 7½-hour day and 37½-hour week.

$27.75 WEEKLY

In weekly terms, the increase amounts to $27.75 on the present $155.25.

Mr. Smith, in discussing the settlement, pointed out however that the average construction worker has employment for only eight months of the year.

The average based on the last two years was about 1,200 hours work compared with 1,960 hours for a person working a 40-hour week every week with three weeks off for holidays.

Spokesmen for both the union and the contractors said it was the first time in memory that agreement was reached before an existing contract ran out. Expiry of the present contract is April 30.

Journeyman wages will be increased to $4.32 on May 1, $4.38 July 1, $4.53 Nov. 1, $4.73 next May 1 and $4.88 on Nov. 1, 1969.

TRAVEL PAY UP

For metropolitan travel in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria the present four cents an hour will go to six cents on May 1 and eight cents on Nov. 1.

Vacation and statutory holiday pay, now 9.6 per cent of gross earnings, will be increased to 10 per cent next year. Apprenticeship pay in the last 18 months of the four-year term will be increased to 80 per cent, 85 per cent and 90 per cent of the journeyman rate, which is an increase of five per cent in each six-month period.

Negotiations for a new contract began last February. The union sought a 10 per cent raise in every year of a new agreement plus the seven-hour work day. Contractors offered a five per cent increase.

Boths ides declined any comment or information on negotiations until agreement was reached at the bargaining table and ratification formally announced Tuesday.

This was in marked contrast to two years ago when there was a two-month lockout over the shorter work day issue and both sides made frequent public statements.

Sentence Suspended

A youth who earlier pleaded guilty to taking a 93-cent steak from Woodward's, April 9, was given a suspended sentence today.

Antonin Cote, 21, of Vancouver, was placed on a $250 six-month good behavior bond.

Queen Scout Ceremony On Thursday

The 13th annual Queen Scout ceremonies take place Thursday at Government House.

The Queen Scout rating is the highest achievement in Scouting.

Since the Scouting badge system is being revised, only one more such ceremony is expected. In future the classification will be called "Queen's Venture".

Total of 280 Scouts from all over B.C. will take part in the ceremonies. Forty will be from the Victoria area.

The main body of Scouts will arrive from the mainland at 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

LUNCHEON

There will be a luncheon sponsored by former lieutenant-governor Frank M. Ross in the Empress Hotel at noon followed by the presentations at 2:30 p.m. by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, patron of B.C. Scouting.

Friday morning at 9:30 a.m. the mainland Scouts will leave Esquimalt aboard HMCS St. Croix for Vancouver.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you please tell me the number of kilowatts the average householder would use per month? S.S.

A. The consumption of electricity is measured in kilowatt-hours. B.C. Hydro figures the average consumption of electric power across the province is 6,000 kilowatt-hours per year, which breaks down to 500 kwh per month. But power consumption fluctuates from month to month, depending on the weather, and is usually heavier during the winter months, lighter in the summer.

Q. Could you give me an address of the Royal Albert China company in England? L.C.

A. The makers of the Royal Albert line of fine china are Thomas C. Wild and Sons, Ltd., Stoke-on-Trent, England.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Protective Helmets—Essential Equipment

By PENNY SAVER

I received a sign the other day. George the neighbor's son came walking down the street with his lacrosse stick and ball. I dread that sport. I have constant visions of that hard ball slamming into irreplacable teeth and bone. Naturally, since I am so nervous, our sons yearn to play lacrosse even more than baseball. After years of turning down their pleas, my husband and I decided that this year they would be allowed to learn—provided, of course, they were sufficiently supervised and given good instruction.

George was my first sign that the fatal season has come. Sure enough, before the day was out the boys presented themselves with the announcement that they had arranged to take lessons and could they please buy their equipment.

I was greatly relieved to hear the salesman ask if they needed approved protection helmets as well. These indispensable helmets are very similar to the ones used by young hockey players. They are made of a tough polyetheline substance that is moulded with two crests running across the top to break the force of any blow. A leather chin-strap holds it in place. An attached mouth guard adjusts both up and down and forward and back. The whole of the helmet is lined with a close-grained plastic foam to absorb any shocks. These helmets are white. I was half expecting all this protection to be expensive, and was amazed to find they cost only $3.95.

These Could Save Junior's Glasses

The younger boy wears glasses and as I was in the sports shop I saw an item I have been hoping to find for him. It is a device to hold his eye-glasses in place. These are very simple, consisting of a loop of heavy elastic. The strap is adjustable. A small loop on each end slips over the ear-piece of the glasses. It is made of a soft plastic or rubber that won't slip or mark the plastic frames. I have always been amazed that so few athletes who must wear glasses take advantage of the protection that this $1.25 device can give.

Scanning the display tables gave me a chance to find an item on my husband's list of needs. Avid fisherman that he is, he finds it difficult to keep his knife sharp. It is forever cutting fish or rope, or acting as a screw-driver or bottle-opener. He once found a handy sized whet-stone in the form of a long-rod, but it disappeared into the depths of a lake last summer. I have found him a pocket hone for 75 cents. This block of carborundum comes in a leatherette carrying case and fits easily into a pocket or bait-box.

If you would like to know where these items may be found, please call be at 382-3131.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"Well, well--if it isn't a leftover kamikaze pilot from World War II."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

All of us have days when we feel literally "tied up in knots" and very tense. This is usually due to hurry, worries or strains of some sort. Sometimes it follows a hard, pushing day. Perhaps the weight of all that must be accomplished the next day adds to the pressure.

Lowman

There are simple things you can do which will help you relax. You will find these very refreshing. Try them at the end of the day or before going to sleep at night, or at any time when you are tense and have a few minutes to spare.

Remove any binding clothing. Lie on a bed on your back. Raise your right arm up overhead in a relaxed manner. Hold it there for a few moments and then let it drop limply to the bed. Do the same thing with your left arm. Continue, alternating slowly. Do the exercise in a limp rag-doll manner.

Do the same thing with your legs. Lift the right leg, hold it up a few moments and let it flop down to the bed. Do the same with the left leg, and alternate.

Lift your hands up in front of you and shake them. Have the wrists loose and the fingers limp. You will feel as though your hands are going to fly away. Now lift your right leg and shake your foot. Have the ankle loose. Do the same thing with your left leg.

Still on your back, raise your arms up in front of you, fingers pointing toward the ceiling. Keep your elbow straight as you push up toward the ceiling with your right arm. Push as high as you can so that you feel the stretch over your back. The push comes from the shoulder, not the elbow. Do the same with your left arm and continue, alternating right and left.

Lie on the floor on your back for this one. Bend both knees and place your feet flat on the floor. Place your hands on your diaphragm, just above your tummy. Breathe in and out deeply and watch your hands move slowly up and down like a bellows.

At this point you are ready to close your eyes and completely relax. It will be a bonus if you place ice-cold pads over the lids. Music which does not have a dance beat, but is very soothing, will also help you completely let go of tension.

This is a simple sounding routine, but it works. Try it!

More relaxing exercises are discussed in my free leaflet, "Exercises for Relaxing." To obtain your copy, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Concert at Centre

A concert will be held at the Marigold Senior Citizen Centre on Thursday afternoon. The program will feature dancers from the Adeline Duncan Dance Studio and Mrs. Lindley's School of Dancing. There will also be entertainment by children of the area that will include piano and flute solos, double trombones, guitar music, piano music with man dolin accompaniment. There will also be singing by members of a kindergarten.

LADIES!!! PAGE 26

Sooner or later, that day comes, the day when a woman feels she's changing. It's not a good feeling either. And she could use a good old-fashioned medicine then.

Could be you feel a little edgy, or maybe cross. You might even have what we call hot flashes and feel sad and slightly off-balance.

Whatever you feel, we have something for the day you need a little comforting. Lydia E. Pinkham Tablets. They're made with gentle ingredients that work to give you a better sense of well-being. A sense of well-being you might lose when you start changing.

With an old-fashioned problem like this, couldn't you use an old-fashioned medicine?

A New You by Emily Wilkens

I understand that there's a current vogue regarding wearing a different wedding band for different occasions. You don't really believe this is necessary, do you?

I consider my original gold band appropriate for any outfit (not only for casual wear) as do my mother and her friends who are proud to wear theirs always.

I feel strongly about this and would appreciate your answer. —Mrs. K. P. L.

Recently a young lady wrote to me inquiring as to whether it would be appropriate to have both a diamond wedding band (to match her engagement ring) and a gold band to match her husband's ring.

Millions of women have gold rings which are the symbol of marriage the world over, but it is becoming a modern custom to have more than one band.

Young women who tend babies and keep house, I've found, often save their diamond rings and the matching band for "dress-up" while they wear their gold rings on all other occasions.

It's also entirely acceptable to keep on the gold band and simply add the engagement ring and its mate to it, forming a trio of rings for special occasions.

The question of how many wedding bands one should own is completely up to the individual—but that little gold ring is always appropriate and you are right to stick up for it—first, last and always!

NOW HEAR THIS

Is there a preparation which could help hold protruding ears back? I would welcome any help or information.—E. T.

The one effective (but temporary) solution is to use double-faced adhesive. Keep in mind, however, that with the new tousled, curlier hair styles, protruding ears can be more readily disguised without discomfort.

If the problem really disturbs you, consider the advisability of having the ears surgicaly "flattened," an operation with which many plastic surgeons are completely familiar.

DIETER'S DILEMMA

I've been attending group sessions to lose weight and so far I have taken off 25 pounds. As I lose weight my double chin is reducing slowly, too, but it's beginning to sag and look "creepy." I'm anxious to solve this problem because I now weigh 178 pounds and have considerably more to lose.—J.T.

Good luck to you on your weight-losing mission. May I however add a word of caution: Lose no more than a pound or so a week. This toning exercise could well keep the "sag" away.

Lie flat on your back on the floor or your bed. Keeping the small of your back pressed down, raise your head, pointing your chin toward the ceiling; hold to the count of 10 and return to original position. Start with 10 "chin-lifts" and work up to 20 daily.

Before exercising, apply odorless castor oil or cocoa butter to your neck and chin. Blot off after exercising.

As often as is possible, give yourself an egg white facial which helps prevent that wrinkly look. Use a fork to beat up an egg white very slightly and apply it to face and neck with a large piece of cotton. Lie down in the beauty angle (feet higher than head) for about 10 minutes. After rinsing off the mask with warm water, use a final rinse of cool water, adding a few drops of spirits of camphor.

Emily Wilkens welcomes letters, but cannot undertake to answer each one. She will use questions in her column of general interest. Address your letters to Emily Wilkens, care of this newspaper.

Share-Expenses Riders Covered

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is for that person who wrote in to say that anyone who gives others free rides to and from work on a regular basis is a "sucker" if he doesn't charge for the service.

According to my insurance man, a person who drives a car and carries regular type insurance should never accept any money from his riders for transportation, because then he can be considered a "commercial carrier," and in case of an accident the driver's liability is increased greatly.

WISER

DEAR WISER: My insurance experts tell me that if a driver accepts money from his riders on a "share-expenses" basis only, and not for profit, his liability to his riders is not increased. However, policies differ in different places, so better check yours out with your insurance man, and be sure you understand it. And if you're not satisfied, ask your lawyer to look at it to be sure you are adequately covered.

DEAR ABBY: Should a gentleman walk his date to the ladies' room? And if so, should he wait for her and escort her back to the table?

I have had dates who did, and dates who didn't and I must say I felt "pleasantly pampered" by those who did.

The reason I am asking is this. A friend of mine said if a date ever started to walk her to the ladies' room she would tell him she knew the way, and to please stay put. Who is right?

CYNTHIA

DEAR CYNTHIA: It all depends on where you are. If the place is crawling with creepy-looking characters, I can understand why you would appreciate the escort service. But in most respectable places, a lady can usually make it to the ladies' room and back on her own.

DEAR ABBBY: I howled when I read your column about padded fannies. Women of today who use the various articles are lucky they weren't born 200 years ago. The following is an excerpt of an Act of Parliament, passed in 1770:

"That all women, of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether virgins, maids or widows, that shall from and after such Act, impose upon, seduce, and betray into matrimony any of His Majesty's subjects by the scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, high-heeled shoes, bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the law in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors and that the marriage, upon conviction, shall stand null and void."

So you see, Dear Abby, there is nothing new under the sun; it pays to be a "research man."

RESEARCHER

CONFIDENTIAL TO B. L. OF B. B. H.: The answer is yes. And who said it better than Max Nordau?

"It may sound shocking, yet I must say it, we can love several individuals at one time with nearly equal tenderness, and we need not lie when we assure each of our passion."

Lines Around the Mouth

The mouth area comes in for so much attention, the quicker the lines are smoothed out and made to disappear, the younger you will look. A lotion-like substance 2nd Debut applied nightly will make the lines fill in and the skin become smooth once more. You will probably use 2nd Debut on your entire face to banish dryness, but do use a little extra care around your mouth. After applying the 2nd Debut massage very lightly, until it disappears into your skin. Your drug or dept. store has 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength and you'll find it a genuine delight to use.

A WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT

By Pat Dufour

Many of women's problems and frustrations were aired Tuesday when the Royal Commission on the Status of Women in Canada held its Victoria hearings at the Empress Hotel.

To my mind, one of the most important never came to the surface.

In all fairness it must be said the problem is not one which I think any royal commission can solve. Its roots are insiduously deep, entrenched in an Aristolean attitude which, for centuries, we have accepted as a necessary way of life.

The problem is simply stated. It's woman's reluctanee . . . and often incapability . . . of being able to see herself as 'people'.

Briefs Gave Voice to Quiet Anger

Much was said at the hearing about women's groups and the part they play in bettering the female lot. Certainly, the capable briefs of such organizations as the Victoria branch of the Registered Nurses' Association of B.C. and the Women's Institutes bore witness to this fact.

A quiet anger was evident in the way in which these briefs demanded more just interpretation of the equal work, equal pay laws, equal opportunity for female retraining programs, family centres and the need for general acceptance of housekeepers as individuals in their own right.

Nothing was said of a woman's need to shake off the deep-rooted shackles of mental inertia and take a sex-free look at life around her.

I'd be the last to argue that many of the injustices brought out at the hearing do not have a numbing effect on Canadian women's growth to full stature. But, I am also convinced that such growth, to reach healthy proportions, must begin as as individual sprouting, rather than a trans-Canada attack on the apparent enemy . . . men.

Even when the legal injustices have been righted the problem of antiquated attitudes will probably remain.

Unfortunately, those attitudes are often as deeply embedded in women as they are in the opposite sex.

Protest as we do, we women are still 'shrinking violets' when it comes to contending for the public offices which we insist we shoud share in more equitable proportions.

Providing a woman has the know-how, why should she settle for the "pink tea" and coffee party ignominity of an auxiliary when she can play an effective role in the group which it feeds?

Who'll Settle for Being a Number?

One can argue that there's strength in numbers. But, who wants to be a number?

The male species, in increasing numbers, appears anxious to assume once-feminine preserves. Longer haircuts, curls, frills and furbelows make sexes harder to distinguish on city streets.

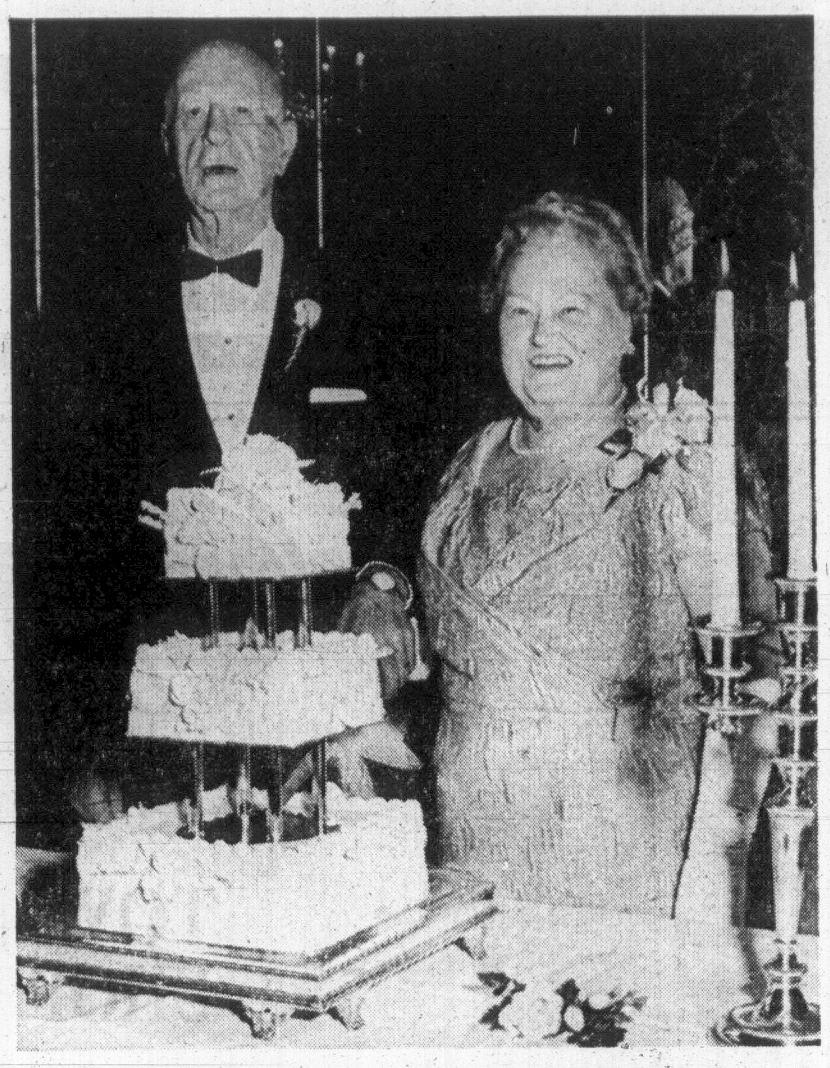
No longer is it considered unmanly to dabble in cooking, grow orchids or even sew a fine seam. Yet women hesitate to pitch the scales in reverse. The odd woman who does so with effect is usually lauded in such proportions that it is obvious she's viewed as a rather way-out exception.

It has often raised my hackles when women visitors from newly-emerging countries have visited here and smugly pointed out they have more stature than we have.

It's true, of course, the reason being that when such countries as India achieved independence, skilled brains, male or female, were at a premium, and each brain was judged and assessed as an individual unit which could contribute to that country's future.

Those women who helped create such new societies had no time to shrink within the confines of mewing over the rights of their sex. They were much too busy building a world for people.

We're fortunate that we have such a world. Let's enjoy it . . . and become people.



CELEBRATE 60 YEARS OF MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. George Sayward Brown, 3320 Weald Road, are seen cutting the cake at the reception in the Union Club, Tuesday evening, which celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary. They were married in Portland on April 15, 1908. They have two daughters, Mrs. C. W. (Doris) Wray, of Coos Bay, Ore., who celebrated her 35th wedding anniversary on the same day, and Mrs. H. A. 'INSPECTOR' WAS IN NEED OF INSPECTING

TORONTO (CP) — There are pieces of information that a woman simply shouldn't disclose.

One of them is her charge account number.

Mervin Keller, 21, of Toronto, was charged this week with fraud and in connection with a charge-account racket.

Police said that for two weeks a man posing as an "inspector" checking up on dishonest sales clerks has telephoned Toronto woman and asked for their charge accounts numbers at major department stores.

Orders were then placed against the accounts with instructions to deliver merchandize marked as gifts to an address other than the one on the customer's account.

Italian Couturiers Fail To Come Up With New Ideas

FLORENCE (AP) — Pretty clothes, beautifully made but with little impact and few new ideas, is the summing up of fashion experts viewing the fall and winter ready-to-wear designed by Italy's top stylists.

Twenty-one houses presented their collections Tuesday to buyers and fashion writers at a marathon showing in the Pitti Palace.

More than one house showed paled-down versions of the styles they had already presented in the January couture showings.

No really exciting new look emerged.

Most skirts were significantly longer; the trend now is definitely downhill. Although knees still peek shyly forth, thighs are completely covered.

The number of maxi-coats steadily increassed. They looked their best in husky travel rug plaids, in tawny fall colorings with big collars and glass leather belts.

'WASPY' LOOK

Titti Brugnoli's midcalf coats and shadowy beige and grey checks had midriff-wide belts in tan leather whittling in the waist to waspy proportions. Circular patched pockets were placed in pairs below the belt. Collars were ear-lobe high in neo-Napoleonic style.

Centinaro also went to new lengths with sportily casual coats in Donegal tweeds that were handsomely lined in leather.

The newest jump suit came from Titti Brugnoli. It was form-fitting as a leotard, knitted in a skinny rib and buttoned up to its V-neckline like a cardigan. Patch pockets were placed just above the knees.

Sarli etched his entire show in the clear-cut contrast of black and white. White-topped coats had circular skater's skirts in black. Sophisticated evening gowns and floor-length coats were in white crepe reversing to black or vice versa.

Slow-Moving Blanshard Project Knocked Again

By JIM HUME

Victoria Ald. Ian Stewart is prepared to bet that low-rental housing construction in the Rose-Blanshard area doesn't start until spring, 1969.

He made the statement Tuesday after the city's public works committee heard city manager Dennis Young report that the urban renewal program was proceeding satisfactorily.

In his report Mr. Young said he fully anticipated construction of the new housing units would commence this fall.

"I have made a standing bet that construction doesn't start until next spring," Ald. Stewart said. "I see no reason to change. As far as I am concerned, and as far as many other people in this city are concerned, I feel completely frustrated when looking at this project.

"There doesn't appear to be any direction. The city has done a lot of hard work putting this package together and I think the time has come to start asking some hard-boiled questions and started placing the blame for the delay where it should be placed."

In his report to the committee Mr. Young said the city had now acquired 95 of the 137 properties within the renewal scheme boundaries.

"Of the 42 properties remaining 12 are now being brought to completion and the remaining 30 are subject to negotiations, some of which we hope will be successful. The holdouts may require a somewhat different approach," Mr. Young said.

"I am hopeful that a start on the housing will be made this fall but much will depend on negotiations between the senior governments. Tight money could affect the progress, although I believe there is no problem on that at the federal government level."

Ald. Stewart asked if there were any plans yet for the design and construction of the proposed 180 housing units.

"No," answered Mr. Young. "This is one of the reasons for the delay. There are two proposals, one calls for architects design the other a call for proposals from contractors. There have been some experiments with the latter in Vancouver with great economic savings and that is the plan the governments will likely follow here."

"This is what I mean by lack of direction," Ald. Stewart said. "If we are still trying to figure out plans, if that decision has not yet been made, we are in no position to suggest a starting date.

"I have taken a look at some of the temporary accommodation people have been placed in, and frankly, I was not very impressed. People in this city are quite anxious about the whole project and I think we should make it quite clear where the delay lies."

He added that while the city might be having some minor problems with land acquisition the serious delays were at the senior government level.

Mr. Young answered that the scheme at present was well ahead of its two-year schedule.

"We knew it would take two years and we have only been involved for one year," he said. Mr. Young claimed that although the scheme had been on the books for five or six years, it was not until 1967 that the official papers were eventually signed.

"To have acquired all but 30 properties in that time is, I think, excellent progress.

"The new road will start this summer but will take time to complete. In fact it will probably still be under construction a year from now.

"There were three phases to this project. The replacement of North Ward School, the new road and the housing."

Pierre Is Really 48 Years Old

MONTREAL (CP) — A record of the birth of Justice Minister Trudeau in Quebec Superior Court here shows that he was born Oct. 18, 1919, and not 1921 as shown in the Parliamentary Guide.

This makes the recently-elected leader of the federal Liberals 48 years old and not 46 as shown in biographical material issued by Mr. Trudeau's organization during the leadership campaign.

The birth record in the Superior Court office shows the justice minister was given the following names at birth:

Joseph Philippe Pierre Ives Elliotte Trudeau.

This compares wih the style used by the justice minister today which is Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Mao 'Supports U.S. Negroes'

PEKING (CP) — Hundreds of thousands of Chinese workers, students and schoolchildren marched today in Peking to hail Tuesday's statement by party Chairman Mao Tse-tung backing U.S. Negroes.

The demonstrators, disciplined and in apparent good humor, marched to Tienanmen Square and the Soviet Embassy.

$800,000 FOR RECREATION

Sept. 21 Asked For Bylaw Vote

NORTH COWICHAN—The municipal recreation commission has already picked a date for the $800,000 recreation bylaw—September 21.

Ald. Dennis Hogan said Tuesday evening: "If you can't put it over in three months, you will not be able to put it over at all."

The date will be recommended to the next joint meeting with Duncan city recreation commission.

Ald. Hogan said: "Caution should be used, but too much caution could dampen people's enthusiasm."

$5,000 CUT

He reported to the municipal commission that the council's provisional recreation budget of $57,000 has been cut by $5,000.

Ald. Hogan said cuts in recreation and other spending were necessary to keep the general mill rate within bounds.

Despite cuts so far made, a six-mill increase in the rate appears likely.

Ald. Gerry Smith said the necessary mill rate for the proposed recreation bylaw will be made public at today's council meeting.

CONTROL DUST

Recreation director Earl O'Neill and municipal clerk A. Vandecasteyen will investigate if enough money is available in the recreation budget to allow the spending of about $7,000 for a terazzo rather than concrete floor at Fullers Lake ice arena.

Mr. O'Neill said terazzo would control the dust problem in summer when the arena is used for roller skating, dances and other activities.

Black Watch May 3

Annual dinner of the Black Watch Veterans Association will be held at Work Point Barracks, May 3, not May 23, as announced earlier.

Tickets may be obtained from Roy Henley, secretary-treasurer, at 652-1796.

Missing Man Praying In Woods

After being missing since March 1, Lashkari Singh Sall, 35, walked out of the woods at Lake Cowichan Tuesday and explained he had been "praying to God".

On hearing the RCMP were searching for him, Lashkari phoned them at midnight and said he had been in the woods all the time.

Lashkar is married but his family is still in India.

A reward of $200 was offered for information leading to his location. Advertisements — with his picture—were placed in British Columbia newspapers.

He was unavailable for comment this morning, having returned to his job at the Hillcrest Lumber Company at Mesachie Lake.

EX-AIRMAN TO 'MINE' OLD CHINESE TOWN

Have Ghosts Bottled Up a Fortune?

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The historic Chinese ghost town near Cumberland is about to fade away.

The 12-acre property with its ramshackle huts has been leased to Harry Lewis, of Parksville, who plans to "mine" the land for its old bottles and oriental artifacts.

The 34-year-old former air force man said today he plans to sell the bottles as collectors' items. They are much sought after, particularly in the U.S., for their shapes and colors.

He said the shacks will be torn down, except two still occupied by elderly Chinese.

•

A log cabin built in 1860 and occupied by Robert Dunsmuir, who amassed a fortune on coal mined at Cumberland, will be preserved.

Owners of the property, Weldwood of Canada, have indicated they may eventually ship the cabin to Vancouver as part of a mining museum.

Mr. Lewis said a Seattle man collected thousands of bottles from the site last year.

The bottles fetched an average price of $1.25 each.

He said the man didn't even dig for the bottles.

Many of them were thrown away by souvenir hunters searching for old china and other artifacts.

•

Some of the old medicine bottles are highly valued in the U.S. he said. One catalogue listed the price at $25 a bottle, another at $15. Other items of value are opium jars, wine jugs and water pipes.

Mr. Lewis said he planned to keep some of the artifacts for a pioneer museum which he plans to establish at Parksville.

"I'm also going to reconstruct one of the Chinese huts and furnish it with the furniture and utensils which I have picked up on the site."

He hopes the owners of the property won't ship the Dunsmuir log cabin to Vancouver.

"I think it should be moved to Parksville."

Mr. Lewis plans to sift the soil mechanically from depths varing from four to seven feet.

•

A large part of the site was once a swamp which was filled with garbage by the former inhabitants and then backfilled.

It's the garbage which is worth something today.

Mr. Lewis agreed the area should have been preserved as an historic site.

"The people around here said something should be done to preserve the ghost town, but they took no action. There were others who laughed at the idea of preserving the place."

The Chinese town blossomed after Dunsmuir discovered rich coal veins in the Cumberland district. Miners poured into the area, many from Cumberland County, England. Additional labor was brought from China and at one point 2,800 Chinese and 300 Japanese were working in the mines.

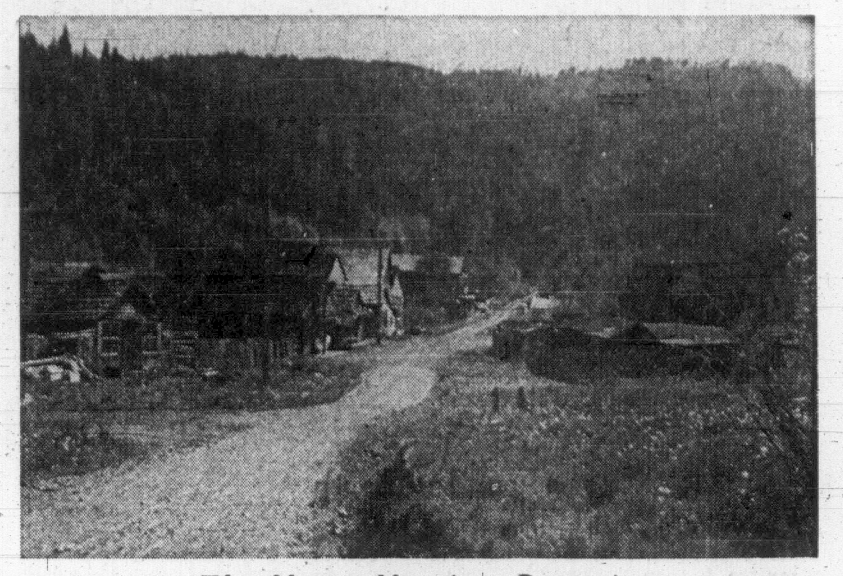
•

A big Chinatown sprung up near Union Mine. At one time it had five chop suey houses and an imposing building called the Lum Yung Club for off-duty Chinese.

The mine closed in the 1920s following two explosions, believed caused by miners smoking at work.

Chinese inhabitants gradually moved away after the closure.

The village pased into obscurity until U.S. souvenir hunters "re-discovered" it several years ago. Last summer hundreds of visitors, mostly from across the border, dug or scratched the soil's surface for artifacts.



The Happy Hunting Ground

YOUTH JAILED FOR ROBBING LIQUOR STORE

LAKE COWICHAN—William Arthur Francis, 19, of Lake Cowichan, was jailed Tuesday for breaking, entering and theft at the village liquor store March 11.

He had pleaded guilty earlier.

Francis will serve nine months' definite and nine months' indeterminate at Haney Correctional Institute.

Three other youths, who have pleaded not guilty, will face similar charges at preliminary hearings in May.

MILL RATE CUT BY NANAIMO

NANAIMO — City council has cut its mill rate by 3.3 mills to 71.2 mills.

It has also approved a budget of $4,880,000.

"This budget opens up great new fields for Nanaimo," said finance committee chairman Gertrude Hall. "I was here when the city's budget first topped $1,000,000, and it caused great excitement."

"The mill rate cut was made possible by the new hospital district taking over the annual debt payment for the hospital, and the one-mill levy for purchase of hospital equipment in 1967."

Ald. Ken Medland said the council's blacktop road program is cheaper than expected and should be finished in two months.

"Nobody will have to drive more than one or two blocks before driving on one of our new roads," he said.

YOUR HEALTH

Detective Work at Home

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I just read where a doctor said that he sees many people whose indigestion, with abdominal pain, headache or vomiting he thinks is due to allergy, but he says he does not know how to make the diagnosis. Many of my medical brethren have trouble with this problem, because at college they were never taught to solve it.

Alvarez

Even allergists sometimes do not seem to know what to do. For instance, a while ago, when a young woman, a friend of mine, began to have nausea, she went to an allergist who, following a common custom, immediately turned her over to his assistant to make 100 skin tests with foods. The, when the woman's skin reacted to some 20 foods, she was told never to eat them again. Her bill was $75. What was the woman's trouble? She had become pregnant, and in a few months she was over her nausea, and still eating everything!

★ ★ ★

This, of course, is a sad feature of much of modern medicine today; we doctors get so terribly overworked that many of us cannot take much of a history, and instead we depend on the laboratories for our diagnosis. But as I keep saying, there is no laboratory test that will tell me that my patient is dying of a broken heart.

I have written a booklet on allergy in which I show how a patient can often find the food that is upsetting his digestive tract by doing what I call home detective work. If the person's indigestion and abdominal pain come in spells, the thing to do is to keep a diary of unusual foods eaten just before a spell. After four spells, the cause of the trouble may be obvious.

★ ★ ★

If the distress comes every day, the person must go for two or three days on an "elimination diet." I use nothing but oatmeal, rice, butter and sugar, lamb (broiled) and canned pears. Then if the person is highly sensitive to some common food such as milk, onions, eggs or chocolate, he or she will immediately feel well. The symptoms caused by the offending food should go away the next day. Then the person can add one of his usual foods each day until the symptoms return, and then he will know that he must avoid that food.

I often think of a trained nurse patient of mine, who came complaining of severe headache every day. I put her on the elimination diet, and next day she had no headache and felt like a new woman. Then I had her try one new food each day. When she took her beloved coffee, there again came her miserable headache.

★ ★ ★

In the other type of case, an eminent surgeon, with normally a perfect digestion, would every so often, four hours after a meal, go into a spell of retching. By keeping a record he soon found that commonly his spells followed the eating of some fried food or a food that had been cooked on a greased pan. Eventually, with the help of his record, and some experimenting at home, he found that his trouble was due to a trace of cotton seed oil. By avoiding that, he had no more trouble.

Climbs Trees

Of all things, the little mammal is remotely related to the rhinoceros and the whopping elephant. But his features are so different from those of his giant cousins that zoologists have awarded him an animal group all his own. The rock rabbit is clased in the Order Hyracoidea. His everyday name is the hyrax. His native home is Africa, where he suns himself on the rocky slopes of Algeria, Libya and Southern Egypt. His relatives also are at home in Arabia and Syria and all the way down to rocky hillsides in South Africa. He is a sociable fellow who shares life with a colony of 50 or 60 friends and relatives. They breakfast at daybreak and dine at sundown on a vegetarian diet of leafy greenery.

The average hyrax has soft brown fur with a creamy patch in the middle of his back. He has small mousy ears and his face has a set of stiff, mousy whiskers. His tail is too small to mention. The toes on his short stubby-legs have miniature hoofs that help him scramble safely over his sunny rocks. Those strange little feet also are useful for climbing trees. When there are woods in his neighborhood, the so-called rock rabbit is quite at home high in the branches.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Mary Noonan, age 11, of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, for her question:

What is the speed of a giraffe?

This tall, long legged fellow is a very graceful strider. He can trot or canter like a horse, or walk like any other agile four-footed animal. He also can gallop like other speedy animals. Often he paces like a camel. Then he advances one side at a time—first the two right feet, then the two left feet. This pacing is a graceful gait and the giraffe seems to glide along like a ship on the waves. When a giraffe is in a hurry, he runs much too fast for a human runner to keep up with him. He has been clocked at 32 miles an hour and when pressed for time, no doubt he can speed even faster.

The giraffe lives on grassy plains strewn with spreading acacia trees. But even when speeding, he never tangles his long neck in the branches. The agile fellow twists and turns, dips his head and bends his body from side to side as he goes. When startled, he takes off with his family at top speed. They pace along, one behind another, and cresting a hill against the skyline the galloping giraffes are a handsome sight.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Walter Faber, age 11, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, for his question:

What are rock rabbits?

These little fellows, naturally, are not stone bunny statues. Neither are they made of candy. The name rock rabbit applies to a real live animal. However, it is not a scientific term and unfortunately it has become the common name of several very different animals.

We share our grassy world with dozens of different hares and rabbits and ordinary folk often confuse them. Our leaping, long-legged jackrabbit is actually a hare. So is the furry-footed snowshoe rabbit of the frozen north. The hares are not burrowing animals. Their nests are secret beds of grasses and their babies are born outdoors on the ground. They are well developed infants already equipped with furry coats and bright, wide-awake eyes. The rabbits are burrowers and their babies are born in underground nurseries. The helpless infants are born blind and bare. But after a few weeks of care they are wide awake and fully clothed for their first trip outdoors.

Our cottontails are rabbits that build their community burrows in fields and marshes. in scrubland and desert prairies. Some of them live on stony slopes and the local people often call them rock rabbits. The rock hare is a red-coated hare who makes his home in several parts of Africa. But the true rock rabbit is neither a hare or a rabbit, though he does enjoy life on the sunny slopes of rocky hillsides.

The furry fellow is about the right size and the right shape to be mistaken for a rabbit, but zoologists assure us that he is not. When they first investigated his features, they assumed him to be some kind of rodent, perhaps related to the wild, hillside guinea pigs of South America. But more detailed investigations proved this to be untrue. The furry little rock rabbit is not related to the hares or rabbits, the guinea pigs or any of the other rodents he so closely resembles.

Industrial Zone Plans Scored

Saanich Aldermen Shelve Complaints, Await Report

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Opponents of a light industrial estate in the Royal Oak district of Saanich unleashed another volley at council Tuesday night.

But despite objections from two aldermen, council filed the objections pending a report from the planning department on the proposal.

The Saanich Action Committee, a ratepayer group, said the area now zoned for light industrial use is not "by any means" fully developed and if the price of land zoned for this use is too high "that is one of the costs of doing business."

It would not be fair to force Royal Oak residents "in effect, to subsidize the businesses, that is the cheaper land made available by rezoning would be paid for to a considerable extent by the residents in the area by way of decreased property values."

The opinion that should count is the collective one of those in Saanich and particularly those directly affected, said the committee.

MORE PROBLEMS

It pointed to such problems as increased pollution of Colquitz Creek, increased truck traffic and "spoil for all time what is now a lovely area in Saanich."

John R. Turner, 4560 Viewmont, wrote council saying that entry and exit for the Eaton's warehouse was to be from Patricia Bay Highway but this was changed to Raymond on a temporary basis.

(One alderman pointed out it was the highways department which ruled out Pat Bay for access.)

He also criticized the appearance of the building in contrast to the painting displayed in the council chamber at the public hearing.

He said the promised lengthy and exhaustive discussion on the light industrial estate is "meaningless" if council can be subsequently persuaded to change its mind.

"Do you wonder that the people of this area would like frank discussions regarding the proposed industrial park and are loath to leave their fate in the hands of a council after a public hearing has been held," he said.

MANY MEETINGS

Ald. Edith Gunning, who is chairman of lands and planning committee, said the proposal for an industrial estate has not even come to her committee and there will be "many, many meetings" once it does and before it comes to a public hearing "even if it does."

Ald. Foster Isherwood said council should hear from residents "before we go too far in the plan for that area."

Ald. Alan Newberry said that to not involve residents now is to add to opposition to the plan.

"We put the news out we had a light industrial park in mind and now we are not prepared to discuss what we have in mind what a light industrial park is," he said.

"It is not unreasonable that they become suspicious. I'd like to hear the residents' ideas and thoughts. We did this on the animals bylaw and on recreation."

Other aldermen said they didn't know whether they favored an industrial estate or not until they received a plan. They also wanted to know what was proposed before getting into discussions.

Municipal planner Tom Loney said it will be "some weeks" before the plan is ready.

He envisaged a proposal that will offer several alternatives that can be dicussed in principle.

"I am aware of the contention and for this reason we will not tie proposals down too definitely," he said.

MOTION, MOTION BUT NO MOTION

Saanich council couldn't decide Tuesday night whether to stand still or go ahead.

A move to go back—by referring a small water extension to the public works committee—didn't come to a vote.

The issue, involving a recommended council-initiated local improvement water extension on Blue Ridge Road, will come up at the next council meeting.

Public works committee had recommended the initiative proceed to the affected residents after most of them asked for the extension.

But one resident posed the question of which way the work should proceed and other matters.

A motion to go ahead was superseded by a motion to table. But the tabling motion lost when council deadlocked in a 4-to-4 vote.

The original motion was then put, but it also deadlocked meaning it too was lost.

A motion was then made that the issue go back to public works committee, but one alderman said the whole discussion was getting out of order and there should have been no discussion once the tabling motion was put.

"I'm quite sure you're right," said Acting Mayor Leslie Passmore. "Next order of business."

After a slight pause, Ald. Alan Newberry said he was "lost" on the disposition of the item.

"I imagine we await a full council," replied Ald. Passmore.

Comptroller John Tribe suggested engineer Neville Life report on the alternative route. Finally, it was indicated the matter will rest until the next council meeting.

Council Questions Senior Appointment

Saanich council instructed its personnel committee Tuesday night to look into the manner of appointments of senior employees in the municipality.

The issue arose from a recommendation by comptroller John Tribe who said that in order that the new deputy welfare administrator can sign cheques, council should formally appoint Michael Bennett to that position.

No one took issue with the appointment.

Objections were because it was made without council approval.

Two aldermen said it was "embarrassing" to learn he had been hired earlier — one of them said it was three months ago.

"Does it or does it not come to council, an appointment like this," asked Ald. Alan Newberry.

"Apparently not necessarily."

Ald. Edith Gunning said the position is important enough to come to council and Ald. Foster Isherwood said it is "certainly very important" if he signs cheques.

Mr. Tribe said Saanich advertised last year and got no reply. A second effort was made early this year and Mr. Bennett wanted a yes or no answer.

Welfare administrator Mrs. Bunty Marshall "checked him out, he came highly recommended and we were lucky to get him.

"I apologize if the appointment embarrassed anyone. It was not the intention. Mrs. Marshall was getting to the stage of quitting and I don't blame her.

"I felt the authority already existed, to advertise and make an appointment."

He also posed the question "how far down the line does council make appointments and how far up does the administration come."

Earlier, in another matter, it was learned that minutes of the personnel committee, which meets behind closed doors because of the nature of its work, are not circulated among council.

Mr. Tribe said anything that needs council approval is put on the agends as a recommendation from that committee.

Three to Die For Murder

JAKARTA (AP)—The Jakarta military tribunal has sentenced three former soldiers to death and two to life in prison for murdering Indonesia's army commander during the attempted Communist coup in 1965, the official news agency Antara reported today.

Gen. Achmad Yani was dragged out of bed, taken in a truck to Communist headquarters on the outskirts of Jakarta and killed by a firing squad.

MAN AIDS FAMILY, SLIDES TO SAFETY

MISSION CITY (CP) — A 68-year-old grandfather climbed to safety from a second-floor window as fire broke out in two downtown buildings Tuesday, causing damage estimated at $110,000.

Henry Purcell helped members of his family from a suite in one of the frame buildings, then climbed out of a window and slid down a wire to the sidewalk 15 feet below.

Cause of the blaze, which apparently started in a furnace room, was not known. One man was treated for smoke inhalation. The buildings also housed meat, hardware and building supply stores.

Suburbs to Decide Municipal Status

A vote on incorporating Colwood, Langford and Metchosin as a district municipality has been tentatively set for June 22.

Dennis Perry, a member of a study committee on incorporation, said a request for a plebiscite has been made to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

A series of meetings will be held to inform residents of the committee's findings in its study on forming a district municipality, he said.

Already arranged by the Belmont-Elizabeth Fisher School Association is a panel discussion on the subject to be held May 27.

Other meetings will be held at Dunsmuir High School, 8 p.m., June 13; Metchosin Elementary School, 8 p.m., June 18; and Langford Elmentary School, 8 p.m., June 20.

Mr. Perry said information on anticipated revenues and expenditures of a local municipality will be given at the meetings.

John Williams, a member of the committee, said he was satisfied that incorporation was the best thing for residents of the district.

"We have established the fact that we can get all our present services — and more — by becoming a municipal government," he said.

KIERANS WON'T GET CABINET POST

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the few certainties about the makeup of the first cabinet of the Trudeau administration is that Eric Kierans won't be in it.

Informants say the former president of the Quebec Liberal Federation has not been approached by the new Liberal leader. They say no approach is expected.

Mr. Kierans is currently on a Bermuda holiday.

Rites Thursday For Duncan Businessman

DUNCAN — Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from St. John's Church for Ralph Henry Chadwick, 45, who died in hospital here Monday.

Mr. Chadwick came to Duncan as a boy from South Africa, and became proprietor of City Service Garage and president of Anchor Transit Company.

He was a member of Cowichan Golf Club, Duncan Curling Club and a Second World War veteran.

He is survived by his wife, Helen Ruth Ona, two daughters, Mrs. Stanley (Lynn) Homer, Calgary, and Mrs. Lawrence (Cathy) Crowcroft, Shawnigan, and his mother, Mrs. Ivy Chadwick; two brothers, Joseph and Robert, and a sister, Mrs. Betty Baal, all of Duncan.

'Let's Not Rush' Planning Chamber Told by Realtor

GANGES — The Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce doesn't believe this area should be stampeded into planning ahead.

It roundly rejected a proposal to press for community development planning, accepting the view that "planning would bring controls and undesirable supervision in its wake."

"Let's not rush into these things," said realtor Cam Bastedo at a meeting of the chamber.

However, the chamber was not pleased by a report from the Department of Highways which indicated another "take 'er slow" view.

Transportation chairman T. W. Portlock said the department had decided the traffic pattern does not merit reinstatement of a late night ferry between Swartz Bay and Fulford Harbor.

The 11:30 p.m. ferry Fridays and Sundays was removed during recent cutbacks in sailings throughout the ferry system. However, the chamber learned, the 11:30 p.m. Sunday sailing would be allowed during the summer months.

Massive 40-Year-Plan to Export Water From B.C. Into U.S. Areas

BOISE, IDAHO (AP) — The Federation of Rocky Mountain States Tuesday voted to continue looking for ways to solve the fresh water problems of 17 western states.

The federation took the move after hearing details of a multi-million-dollar plan to import western Canadian water into the area.

The plan was outlined by Lewis G. Smith, a former U.S. Bureau of Reclamation engineer who now is associated with a private engineering firm.

●

Gov. Stanley Hathaway of Wyoming said the federation is not trying to promote Smith's plan but said the conference here was used as a forum to present the idea.

Smith's plan calls for $75,000,000 to be spent to develop an extensive network throughout the west, pumping water as far south as the southern Rio Grande Valley in Texas and east into Nebraska and Kansas.

Smith proposes that the water source be the Liard River in northern B.C.

Collecting the water would require reversing the flow of that river and running water down through B.C. into the Columbia river system.

Main storage area would be the Centennial Valley in southwestern Montana. Smith's plan calls for creating a lake out of that valley that would hold some 50,000,000 acre feet of water.

●

The plan, Smith said, would take 40 years to develop—10 years for working out legal and political problems and 30 years for design and construction.

He estimated the completed system would serve water needs until 2078.

In addition to reversing the flow of the Liard, the proposal would call for reversing the flow of the Snake River in Washington State and Idaho between the Columbia and Salmon Rivers, and the San Juan River in Utah and New Mexico. There would be a huge tunnel to carry the water through much of Colorado.

The audience at the federation meeting appeared receptive to the idea. Many in the group are from states that would benefit.

●

Smith said there would be some 50 to 75 large dams along the collection system and he estimated there would be up to 500 dams—diversion and storage—altogether.

"Canada is more and more receptive to the idea of letting some of "her water resources come south," Smith said.

He added some experts believe Canada would find it to her advantage to sell water to the U.S.

The Rocky Mountain Federation is comprised of Utah, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Montana and Nevada.

After discussing the Smith plan, the federation approved a resolution saying the board of directors "approves the continuation of efforts by the federation to explore the possibilities and the practicabilities of a plan for solving the water supply problems of the 17 western states and the western provinces and territories of Canada."

Sale of City Parks Would Bring a Total $100,001

Victoria city council is expected to put two city-owned parks on the auction block this year, one for a dollar, the other for $100,000.

Five members of council unanimously agreed Tuesday to recommend to full council the sale of Mount Douglas Park to Saanich for one dollar and the sale of Thetis Lake Park to the Regional District for $100,000.

Mayor Hugh Stephen said he had engaged in preliminary discussions were held with Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis, who is also chairman of the Regional District.

"The discussions, I must stress, were only of a preliminary nature. Mayor Curtis still has to discuss the matter with his council and with the Regional District Board. And, of course, we have to discuss the matter at full council.

"But I would like your support to take to council the proposal that we sell both parks for the sums mentioned."

Mayor Stephen said that if the sales went through Saanich would take over the maintenance of Mount Douglas Park but that the city would probably have to agree to maintain Thetis Lake Park for the next three years.

"The Regional Board has no authority to go into park maintenance," he said. "But the five-year plan for parks acquisition has only three years to go, so I feel it would be advantageous to complete the sale now and have the city keep up the maintenance for that three-year period, after which it would come under a regional maintenance program."

Capital and maintenance costs estimated for Thetis Park this year total $53,000, of which $34,000 is earmarked for new change rooms, a sewage system and other essential items.

'Don't Sneeze' A Holiday Giggle

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Anyone who has an afternoon to spare before the week ends, be they seven or 70, would be doing themselves a favor by paying a visit to McPherson Playhouse.

For an hour they will find themselves amused, charmed and refreshed by the effervescent holiday offering by Bastion Theatre, Please Don't Sneeze.

Chris Wiggins' musical play for children—the music is by John Sims —is tuneful, peppy, imaginative, ridiculous and a delightful diversion for any human being with a spark of youth and humor.

Its young audiences participate gleefully with cries of "They're under the table" — "She went that way" — "He's up the stairs."

Even as an unescorted "Auntie" type, you sit there and find yourself becoming totally involved in the happy proceedings.

Director Peter Mannering joins his talented cast on stage with a lovably bumbling portrayal of Baron Blunderbuss and Bastion PRO Helen Simpson-Baikie is marvelous — like an eccentric yo-yo, bobbing about the stage as horrid Hortense Anthropy who hates dirt, germs and children with equal venom.

There is a spirited dance sequence lead off by thistle-light Nancy Watt and numerous well engineered trips, collisions and tumbles.

The whole cast acts wih tremendous verve but even so the Royal physicians, Doctors Hausencaller and Garrglestin, played by Bill Hosie and John Heath, top everybody for zest, buoyancy and style.

The pleasing rhythmical score is handled with exactly the right balance and infectious vitality at the piano, by musical director Marge Adelberg.

Altogether a memorable little show that unfortunately ends Saturday.

Freud Lecture Thursday Night Open to Public

Dr. Giovanni Costigan, professor of history at the University of Washington, will give a public lecture Thursday at the University of Victoria on Freud and History.

A specialist in modern European history, he has written a biography or the main subject of his lecture, psychologist Sigmund Freud.

He has also given a number of television courses on English and Irish history and is author of the recently-published Makers of Modern England.

The lecture will be in the Phoenix Theatre at 8 p.m.

Dr. Costigan will also give the keynote address at the second annual humanities and science symposium on campus.

About 80 high school students from across the province, selected by the university on the basis of papers they submitted on a wide variety of subjects in the arts and sciences, will join in the symposium Friday and Saturday.

They will discuss their own material and hear four special lectures.

Youngest Aussie Premier in Post

ADELAIDE (Reuters)—Steele Hall, 39, became the youngest Australian state premier today when he formed a South Australian government to replace the Labor party administration of Donald Dunstan which resigned Tuesday.

Hall is leader of the Liberal Country League, which has 19 seats in the House of Assembly, exactly the same number as the opposition Australian Labor party and he will have to rely on the casting vote of the speaker, an independent.

FAY BAINTER
... Oscar winner

Veteran Film Stage Actress Dies at 74

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fay Bainer, stage and Oscar-winning screen actress long popular in roles as wife, understanding mother or faithful friend, died Tuesday at her home. She was 74.

Her husband of 42 years, Navy Lt.-Cmdr. Reginald Venable, died Sept. 28, 1964. Their actor son, Reginald Jr., survives.

Miss Bainter was a Los Angeles native who in 1938 won an Academy Award as Auntie Belle in Jezebel, whose star, Bette Davis, also received an Oscar.

Miss Bainter was nominated for the prize for two other roles — Claude Rains' housekeeper, who believed in surrendering pride, in White Banners and a grandmother deceived by a child in The Children's Hour.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined in central court Tuesday for careless driving were:

Gordon McLaughlin, of Ladysmith, racing on Government St. April 13, $100; Gordon Surtees, 1810 Newton, speeding on Douglas April 6, $70; Richard Ellis, 1725 Kingsberry, struck pole on Blanshard at Queens, $40; Gordon Bedard, Lazo, B.C., rear-end collision on Douglas at Broughton March 11, $35; Margaret Stubbington, 135 Bushby, backed into hedge at Ross Bay Cemetery March 13, $35; Gordon France, 487 Superior, struck car parked at Toronto and Government March 20, $35; Daniel Fidler, 3700 Raymond, rear-end collision Quadra at Bay March 7, $40.

DIRECTION FALLS SHORT

Dragging Tempo Hurts Bastion's 'Innocents'

By AUDREY JOHNSON

THE INNOCENTS
(By William Archibald)

Flora ..... Kathy Stapleton
Mrs. Gross ..... Kay Howard
Miss Giddens ..... Karen Austin
Miles ..... Martin Screech with Joy Richards and Allan Hughes

In the literary world of the macabre, the weird and the nerve-stretching Henry James' story, The Turn of the Screw, is a classic to rank with D. H. Lawrence's The Rocking Horse Winner and some of Poe's tales.

The Innocents is a dramatized version of The Turn of The Screw which Bastion Theatre is presenting at the McPherson Playhouse all this week.

Effectively set and costumed in late Victorian period, and competently acted by its four principals, it is all the more disappointing to find that the tale translates badly from book to stage.

The series of scenes — five in the first act and three in the second — even though the curtain is down for not more than half a minute — creates an episodic effect and makes it difficult to sustain the suspense atmosphere.

REPETITIVE

There seems too little material for the span of the play which therefore becomes repetitive and the innuendoes and formless shapes of evil which give so much eerie chill to reading the story, create only obscurity and non-conviction on the stage.

The actors work hard to achieve what atmosphere is present. Karen Austin is quite outstanding and is responsible in great part for whatever is effective in the production.

She is the most believable person on the stage. The role gives her the best range and she explores it pretty thoroughly, playing deftly and sensitively.

Any play having only four characters and two of the central ones, children, poses a hefty problem. The children need to be exceptional, not only in their acting talents, but in their vocal trainng and endowment.

Kathy Stapleton has poise and promise but vocally is not yet ready for so major a role. She was quite frequently inaudible and there were many artificial stresses in her speech.

As her brother, Martin Screech is more natural and so more convincing. He shows a considerable development since he appeared in the Bastion musical, Oliver.

GUEST DIRECTOR

This current production is the end result of the Canada Council grant to assist Bastion Theatre by providing a guest director.

Vancouver's Peter Brockington directed The Innocents but I cannot honestly say that I feel the achievement to be worthy of the Council effort.

Essential to a play of this nature is the sort of tension that communicated to the audience brings a collective indrawn breath — not a laugh — at the appearance of a ghostly figure.

And essential to tension is a strategic manipulation of pace and tempo on the part of the director.

DRAGGING TEMPO

Here there was almost no pacing evident and the play, from beginning to end, plods along at a dragging tempo that allows one to be all too aware of the slightness of the material.

Climaxes disappear in the flat landscape. They become anthills when they should at least be foothills.

In sum then, as this is a play of atmosphere, tension, effect, rather than of ideas or character, and as the acting, the design and lighting are potentially good, one can only conclude that the director has failed to make adequate use of his materials.

Brando Quits Starring Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Marlon Brando said Tuesday he is giving up the starring role in the film The Arrangement to devote himself to the civil rights movement.

"There are issues facing us with which I think everyone ought to concern himself first and foremost," Brando said, "and I don't feel that I can do two things successfully at one time."

Spokesmen for Warner Bros.—Seven Arts, where the film will be made, said the actor was "devasted" by the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

STUDENT GROUPS WARNED

'Power Advocates Cynical Saboteurs'

TORONTO (CP) — Claude Bissell, University of Toronto president, says student power advocates are cynical saboteurs whose efforts could produce a reactionary government crackdown on university finances and freedoms.

Dr. Bissell, 52, says in his annual report that student power advocates are a minority group trying to provoke violence on campuses to gain sympathy.

"This group has abandoned political action for sabotage," Dr. Bissell says. He wrote his 387-page report at Harvard University while on a one-year leave of absence from the University of Toronto.

"They count on a violent reaction from authority to win the sympathy of the majority," he says.

"And they know that there will always be self-appointed guardians of order and morality who will urge the violent measures they desire to provoke."

Dr. Bissell says the ability of student power advocates to create chaos on campus is likely to lead to failure for their objective because it will anger the government and the public and result in tighter controls over the university.

But he says he favors peaceful, responsible protest and dissent at universities.

"Of all institutions, the university should be the most tender towards dissent," he says.

"We must be careful to distinguish between the small group of cynical dissidents and a larger group who are deeply concerned about the moral issues of complicity in a war they believe to be cruel and pointless.

"This larger group must be given complete freedom to express their views, provided that in the expression there is no forcible interference with the freedom of others."

PLANET OF THE APES
Horrific Science Fiction
Coronet Theatre

Here is a science-fiction mind bender that envisages great apes in charge of our planet.

Mankind has been reduced to the status of a brainless primitive who threatens civilization and must therefore be prevented from over-breeding.

The message of the film (if there is one) seems to be that, unless human beings learn to behave themselves as regards atomic warfare, they are no longer fit to control the world.

Ludicrous as it sounds, the story takes on a chilling realism through masterly photography and expert make-up.

The ruling apes are played by such accomplished actors as Roddy McDowall, Maurice Evans and Kim Hunter, but you forget this after a while, since only the eyes and the voices identify them as humans.

Their mouths, noses and hairy bodies are most horribly ape-like.

The nightmare begins when four American astronauts, after being asleep in space for the equivalent of 2,000 years, set course for home.

★ ★ ★

Their ship crashes in the watery wastes of what seems to be an unknown planet. The lone female member of the crew dies, but three men—Charlton Heston, Jeff Burton and Robert Gunner—survive.

Tests determine that nothing can grow in the immediate area; so they explore until they find patches of vegetation. At this point they are rounded up by a band of mounted apes with net and rope.

Jeff Burton is badly wounded and finishes up as a stuffed exhibit in a museum. Heston, of course, survives and is thrown into an animal hospital. Soon after, he pits all his wit and strength against the fascistic apes and his manly physique is fully exhibited in many a desperate encounter.

Kim Hunter, a chimpanzee psychiatrist, and her fiance, Roddy McDowall, become interested in Heston and are convinced he is intelligent. They are opposed by Dr. Maurice Evans, a crusty orangutang, who is one of the chiefs of state.

Man, he argues, is too destructive to be intelligent.

Bizarre as it is, this film provides more food for thought than most science fiction today.

Operatic Week

April 27 to May 4 has been declared "Operatic Week" by Mayor Hugh Stephen.

In signing the declaration Mayor Stephen said the special week was to honor the Victoria Operatic Society which has "for the past 22 years been providing musical entertainment of the highest order for the residents of Greater Victoria."

This year's production by the Society, "Brigadoon", will be staged at the McPherson during "Operatic Week."

AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE

Long Guide Effort Reaps Golden Reward

By ELIZABETH FORBES

This afternoon in Government House, the Lieutenant-Governor presented Gold cord certificates to 100 Girl Guides and rangers of the province, seven from this area.

Forbes

Importance of these presentations is well known within the Guide movement. It's leaders are well aware of the study and hard work symbolized by the gold cord.

The average person, on the other, hand, reads of such formalities but knows little or nothing of the years of effort that stretch out behind the awards.

Those receiving the certificates started a climb to the coveted symbol as soon as they stepped into their teens. They have been patrol leaders and perhaps company leaders.

Their work has been reviewed by a court of honor within their particular companies. Their guide captains and the commandants of the camps they attended have set seals of approval on their nominations.

They have accepted challenges that had to be completed three months before their sixteenth birthdays, if they were to remain eligible to stand before the Lieutenant-Governor this afternoon.

Challenges included chosing a country other than their own, making a study of it and then presenting their findings in their own way to a tester. A four-month stint, at least once a week, in some particular work of their own chosing for a church, school or institution. And three projects set by their commissioners in the wider phases of community life.

Decision as to whether the girls have successfully passed all tests and are ready for the final honor is in the hands of a provincial committee. If she does pass, the guide hears the news first from her own captain or commissioner and receives the gold cord itself at a special ceremony before her own guide company.

It's easy to write these words and easier to read them. But it was not so easy for the guides to reach the final round of challenges and projects.

First they had to know and pass an examination on the history and organization of the guide movement. Then they had to pass intelligence, handicraft, health and service tests.

Next they earned a Little House emblem. This includes six home-craft badges, cooking, child nursing, needlewoman, laundress, homemaker and hostess.

The woods lore emblem came next. Here, four outdoor badges were acquired, hiker, woodsman and any two for naturalist, stalker, tracker, bird watcher, astronomer or conservationist.

There was a camper's badge to gain, for which the guide lived under canvas for several weeks, planned a patrol campsite, learned the required equipment for a partol camp, how to pitche and strike tents and care for them in wet weather. She had to make fires, grease pits, camp larders and latrines. She planned, cooked and stored food and she tucked away in her memory the rules for swimming, boating and hiking.

The 100 Girld Guides and Rangers who stood before the Lieutenant-Governor this afternoon have successfully accomplished all these things and in so doing have moved well along the pathway leading to a mature and healthy womanhood.

As they stepped forward to receive their certificates, the badges they earned to qualify for the honor made bright touches of color on the guides' shoulder-to-hip sashes and rangers' sleeves and cuffs.

No other testimony was needed to show that while the road to a Gold Cord and its accompanying certificate is not easy, certainly it is rewarding ... and very worthwhile!

Huckster Operations Will Receive Study

Victoria city council will spend the summer studying huckster operations on the Causeway before making a final decision on tally-hos and bus tours.

The partial withdrawal from the hard line taken a week ago came Tuesday at a meeting of the public works committee.

Ald. Clyde Savage disagreed with further delay.

"We either move now or we let them (the hucksters) sit there till eternity," he said. "We should move now and not leave it until it is too late."

Mayor Hugh Stephen said a letter from one of the tour operators had stressed that many of the tourist attraction promoters using the Causeway were not connected with bus, boat or tally-ho tours.

"He makes the point that many are not involved but are promoting tourist attractions in other parts of the city," he said "Maybe we should aim at them."

PAY NO FEES

Ald. Savage disagreed.

"I don't know, What more right have bus operators than anyone else? They don't pay any fees for operating there."

The committee decided to establish a sub-committee to discuss the problem with tour operators to see if a solution could be found.

If it can the summer of 1969 might see the tour operators back at their old stands. If not they may be banished to alternative sites.

A week ago the committee decided to take a tough line and advocate the removal of all hucksters by the summer of 1969.

Defence Minister At NATO Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Cadieux left for Europe Tuesday and is not scheduled to return until April 25, three days after the target date for handing over of the government by Prime Minister Pearson to Liberal Leader Trudeau.

Indications were that Mr. Cadieux would still be defence minister when he returned to Ottawa.

Mr. Cadieux and Gen. Jean V. Allard, chief of defence staff, left for a meeting of the NATO nuclear planning group Thursday and Friday at the Hague.

The group, which will discuss for a third time tactical nuclear weapons in the alliance, comprises Canada, the United States, Britain, West Germany, Greece, Italy and The Netherlands.

Trudeau Takeover Fixed for Monday

PM IN RETROSPECT; ARTICLES PAGES 5, 16

Next week Lester Bowles Pearson brings to a close his lengthy public career, which includes 20 years in the House of Commons, the last five as prime minister. On Page 16 today is a review of Mr. Pearson's life and times, which create a controversial discussion about his place in Canadian history. On Page 5 is an assessment of his achievements, by special writer George Bain.

Pennell Resigns From Cabinet

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Solicitor-General Larry Pennell has resigned from the cabinet effective today, Prime Minister Pearson announced to reporters.

Mr. Pearson also said after a cabinet meeting that he and Liberal Leader Trudeau have agreed that Mr. Trudeau will take over as prime minister on Monday.

Mr. Trudeau met External Affairs Minister Martin privately in Mr. Martin's office after the cabinet meeting. Neither would say whether Mr. Martin will remain in the administration.

Former trade minister Winters told reporters he would see Mr. Trudeau later today.

Asked whether he will return to the cabinet, Mr. Winters replied: "That's up to him."

Mr. Pennell is expected to be appointed to the Ontario bench, in which case he would also resign his Commons seat—Brant-ldimand in Ontario.

Mr. Pearson said he had hoped Mr. Pennell would remain in the cabinet. But he had received his letter of resignation "the other day."

FOUR VACANCIES

There now are four cabinet vacancies. Besides Mr. Pennell and Mr. Winters, State Secretary LaMarsh and Labor Minister Nicholson have resigned.

Mr. Pearson said he does not expect any other resignations.

Mr. Trudeau said he will announce his cabinet Monday.

Mr. Trudeau was again asked about his age; listed as 46 in the Parliamentary Guide and 48 in Montreal court records.

He said he believes he has never told his age to anyone. He had not supplied the information for the Parliamentary Guide.

Mr. Trudeau added that he does not correct errors in the newspapers unless they are important. His age wasn't important.

"I think I know my age," he said.

LAST FOR PEARSON

Today's cabinet meeting was probably the last presided over by Mr. Pearson, though the prime minister said there might be another with him in the chair.

Mr. Pearson said the cabinet discussed the Ottawa-Paris-Quebec tangle about Canadian representation, if any, at an international education conference in Paris opening Monday.

Jules Leger, Canadian ambassador to France who has been here since Saturday, said he has talked with Mr. Trudeau about the situation.

Mr. Trudeau said the present problem is not an exact parallel with that of Gabon in February.

Canada suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon when that French-speaking nation in Africa bypassed Ottawa and sent a direct invitation to Quebec for the first session of the education conference. Quebec accepted and has been notified by Paris of the second session beginning Monday.

Mr. Trudeau said he is not planning to create the post of deputy prime minister when he forms his cabinet next week.

Did he expect to have one in his cabinet? he was asked prior to the cabinet meeting.

"No," he replied.

The new Liberal leader said he was still in the "juggling process" of cabinet-making and no slots have been filled yet.

He will continue to see ministerial prospects in coming days, including Mr. Winters.

There have been several reports in the past week that Mr. Winters, who came second in the leadership race, was

CANADIAN CHARGED

Attache Acted As 'Spy Tower'

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet government today accused a Canadian and five United States military attaches of overstepping the line between legal activity and "open espionage".

The Canadian, described in the government newspaper Izvestia as a lookout man for three of the Americans, was identified as Wing Commander J. V. Watson, the Canadian air attache here.

The Canadian and U.S. embassies rejected the charges as unfounded, denying that the attaches had done anything wrong.

Charge d'affaires of the two embassies were called separately to the Soviet foreign ministry today and the charges presented to them.

However, there was no immediate indication that the Soviet government would declare the attaches persona non grata—unwanted persons—and expel them from Russia.

The U.S. embassy responded with a charge that the Soviet Union on several occasions violated the diplomatic immunity of American military attaches in Moscow. It said the violations ranged "from minor, such as short detention, to various serious ones involving prolonged detention, forcible search and seizing of personal property."

The charges, as detailed in Izvestia, implied spying at a military base in Soviet White Russia and a shipyard in Leningrad.

The newspaper accused U.S. assistant army attaches Lt.-Col. Hugo M. Watson and Lt.-Col. Gerhard L. Jacobson of slipping into a closed area near Borisov, in Soviet White Russia, and taking notes "of an intelligence character."

Assistant U.S. naval attaches Cmdr. Robert Hamer, Lt.-Cmdr. Ralph N. Channel and marine Lt.-Col. Wayne Richards were accused of photographing a Leningrad shipyard, with the assistance of Wing Commander Watson.

TAKING WALK

Watson told a reporter the group was walking down a street when a Soviet policeman stopped them, asked for identification and detained them in conversation for about an hour.

They were not taking photos at the time, Watson said, and were not considering it. He also said they were unaware they were in a sensitive area.

Izvestia says the Leningrad incident occurred April 8 and

WIRE BRIEFS

4 Slain in Texas

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI) — Four persons were found dead along a two-mile stretch of highway today in what the Texas department of public safety called apparent mass murder. Two children, one shot and one stabbed, were found alive but in critical condition and officers said a seventh person was missing. Officers put road blocks throughout the area.

Poor Law Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Attorney-General Ramsey Clark warned today orders to police to shoot rioters could lead to "a very dangerous escalation" of racial violence in American cities.

"I do not believe that the use of deadly force by law enforcement officers is permissible except in self-defence or when it is necessary to protect the lives of others," Clark said.

Phone Strike Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the Communications Workers of America said today "it is now too late" to avoid a nationwide strike Thursday against the Bell Telephone System in the United States.

"The strike is on," Joseph A. Beirne said. "The point for averting the strike has passed."

5 Killed In Riot At Prison

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Five prisoners were killed and 80 persons injured early today when guards at North Carolina Central Prison fired on a crowd of about 500 demonstrating prisoners.

Five of the injured were guards, the others prisoners.

State Correction Commissioner V. Lee Bounds said the riot erupted shortly after 1:30 a.m. when the prisoners set fire to a small building in a yard of the maximum-security facility and "began throwing lighted torches at unarmed custodial officers."

About 45 state highway patrolmen and 50 Raleigh policemen responded to the prison's emergency call for support for prison guards.

Prisoners had staged a sit-down strike in the yard Tuesday and presented a list of grievances to Commissioner Bounds, who said he refused to negotiate with the prisoners.

"I talk to inmates daily, but I do not yield to inmate demands that I do anything," Bounds said afterward.

He said the demonstrators were confined to an open yard by custodial officers armed with chemical Mace and nightsticks.

WEAPONS HOME MADE

After the building was set fire, Bounds reported, the prisoners—many of them armed with homemade weapons and torches—began to advance on the guards on the grounds.

"They began throwing lighted torches on the unarmed custodial officers, and the armed custodial officers began opening fire," Bounds said.

Armed guards stationed on the walls of the 75-year-old structure in Raleigh fired down on the crowd with shotguns.

Bounds said the five guards injured in the brief battle received minor wounds from rico-

'MISGUIDED FORESIGHT'

Gov't Would Head Off Teachers Politicking

PENTICTON (CP) — Education Minister Leslie Peterson indicated Tuesday the British Columbia government would act if the B.C. Teachers Federation opposes new legislation on a partisan political basis.

He said in an interview at the federation's convention, where delegates passed a resolution backing a $57,000 campaign of opposition to new school financing legislation:

"We could not compel every teacher to join a federation which used part of its dues money for political purposes. We'd have to change that legislation."

The minister indicated he would not object if the federation took action in a broad political sense—by striving for better education. But action could not be on a partisan basis.

The resolution moved by Ray Wunderlich of the Greater Victoria Teachers Association calls for a lobby of the legislature in 1969 to discuss education financing and a public relations campaign before the next general election in the province.

At issue is Bill 86, which revamps school financing program. It was criticized by BCTF delegates as "anti-education," giving the minister too much power and giving teachers no role.

FAULTS CONCEDED

Mr. Peterson conceded faults might show up in the legislation but critical teachers have "misguided foresight."

"What has been overlooked is that in the new formula we're increasing the foundation level to practically full basic costs," the minister told a news conference.

"There has been a $40,000,000 increase in the budget this year. Is that slashing?"

The BCTF resolution also calls for the "right" of the federation to be involved in decisions on school construction.

Mr. Peterson said major responsibility for decisions on schools and their uses must rest with his department and school boards. This policy had not changed since the new legislation.

Mr. Peterson said the new financing formula will result in more equality of educational opportunity throughout B.C.

Trustee Cheers Federation's Stand

The militant attitude of teachers attending the annual convention in Penticton has delighted Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn.

"I wish our association (the B.C. School Trustees) was as militant," he said this morning. "I am delighted with their attitude and action. The government will have to listen to 18,000 of them."

Mr. Bunn said he had sent a telegram of congratulations to the convention.

"This is the only way to go about it," he said. "It is time to get tough. I just wish the trustees would take similar action in support of the teachers' stand."

"The old financial formula couldn't be readily adapted to today's costs and still encourage economy. Some of the school districts were not getting good values for their money under it."

Mr. Peterson held the news conference after attending a delegates dinner at the convention. He was invited to speak at the dinner but declined on grounds of short notice.

The resolution, given overwhelming support, approves a $3-a-head levy on the more than 19,000 members of the BCTF to finance the campaign against the Schools Act amendments.

He said a ceiling on school construction costs—of $15,000 for each elementary school classroom and $22,000 for secondary classrooms—is temporary.

"The $15,000 level is a bit tight," he said, "but we are receiving tenders below that."

Earlier, delegates were told construction of elementary schools in Vancouver costs between $32,000 and $39,000 a room.

THANT ENTERS SITE TALKS

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — UN Secretary General Thant is in contact with Hanoi, presumably to help select a site for preliminary peace talks, his spokesman said today. Thant, widely suggested as a possible third party to seek agreement on a site, discussed the situation at length with U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg Tuesday, the spokesman said.

LONDON (UPI) — Third power intervention is expected to try to break the deadlock over the choice of a site for Vietnam peace talks between Hanoi and Washington, informed sources here said today.

U.S. Blamed For Impasse On Location

HANOI (CP) — The official Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan demands that the United States agree promptly to meet in Warsaw, and protests against intensified raiding of North Vietnam.

If the United States "obstinately refuses to accept" either Phnom Penh, Cambodia, or Warsaw, Poland, as a meeting site, it would "demonstrate its deceitfulness and bear entire responsibility," the party daily says.

Commenting on President Johnson's statement in Honolulu Monday that it had been "two long weeks since I restricted our bombing and urged North Vietnam to come to the conference table," Nhan Dan says this amounted to "intimidation" and betrayed the bombing curtailment as "a manoeuvre."

Ford, Auto Union Resume Negotiations

TORONTO (CP) — Talks aimed at ending a strike by more than 11,000 members of the United Auto Workers against Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. resumed today.

Following the 10:30 a.m. walkout at five Ford plants Tuesday, negotiations resumed at 6 p.m. but were broken off at 2 this morning.

A union spokesman said that despite hopes of an early settlement, no plans have been made to arrange local meetings for ratification of a new contract.

"We're not making any definite plans yet, because we have issues to win and we are going stay here until we do," he said.

Starfighter Toll Hits 40

BONN (Reuters)—The West German Air Force lost its 40th Starfighter pilot in a crash near Munich today, the defence ministry said.

It was the 80th Starfighter to crash since the American-designed supersonic aircraft went into service with the military forces in 1961.

Anti-Springer Riots Renewed

BERLIN (UPI) — Radical left-wing students who have staged violent demonstrations in 11 West German cities today pledged more of the same to tumble the anti-communist publishing empire of press lord Axel Springer.

While Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger held an emergency meeting with his cabinet in Bonn, Frank Wolff and other leaders of the Socialist German Students Federation (SDS) met in Frankfurt to express deep regret over the first fatality of the riots, a press photographer.

Warning To Hanoi

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk today warned Hanoi not to lose its chance for Vietnam peace talks by continuing to indulge in propaganda or miscalculating the American resolve.

Rusk, in a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, cautioned at the same time that the American public should realize when peace talks start, there would be grave consequences if the administration "let anything go by default.

BY PARK IN TALKS WITH JOHNSON

Strong U.S. Commitment Sought

HONOLULU (UPI) — President Johnson today sought to assure President Chung Hee Park of South Korea that the quest for peace in Vietnam will not mean a U.S. retreat from Communism in Asia.

Chief aim of the meeting between the two presidents was for Johnson to explain the recent U.S. peace offensive. But it was obvious that Park was deeply concerned about winning a stronger U.S. commitment to defend, not only South Korea, but also other Asian nations threatened with Communist aggression.

U.S. officials have indicated before the meeting that "Park has his own problems at home." They conceded the Asian leader would need more than casual convincing that the U.S. is not about to weaken its stand against Communist aggression.

More specifically, Park is concerned about a possible renewal of aggression by North Korea this spring and the U.S. reaction to it.

U.S. officialsh ave indicated that the latest incident in Korea pointed to the possibility of a step-up in aggression by North Korea.

Park has made it very clear that if the U.S. dilutes its efforts against Communism in Asia he may be forced to pull South Korea's troops out of Vietnam to protect their homeland.

South Korea, with 50,000 troops, is the largest U.S. ally in Vietnam.

In a statement issued before his arrival Tuesday night, Park warned, "There is a limit to concessions and patience" in the attempts to get North Vietnam to come to the peace table. The South Korean leader said the U.S. actions to attract Hanoi into negotiations were "very useful," but he reminded the U.S. that the allied troops in South Vietnam were there to combat Communist aggression.

Seagull Bigger Than Boat Boy Tells Rescuers

TORONTO (CP) — One of the scary things for a 10-year-old adrift on Lake Ontario is the big seagull who goes along for the ride.

David Blackmore was rescued from a rubber dinghy early Tuesday after drifting away from the Toronto waterfront the night before.

He said today:

'A big seagull rode on the boat with me. . . . Its wings were bigger than the boat and I was afraid it was going to peck me. It flew away and then came back again."

Released from hospital after a rapid recovery from his freezing ordeal in the five-foot rubber dinghy, David told a reporter:

"I was really scared and I prayed. I thought I was gone. I thought of my mother and my father and my bed at home and I wished I was there."

DRIFTED SEVEN MILES

He was carried seven miles from the spot at an east-central beach where he found the abandoned dinghy and set out for a ride. Despite his efforts with an oar, the wind and currents carried him out into the lake.

With dawn he regained hope.

"I could see four big tanks on shore and I felt sure someone would find me.

"I was frozen because water got into the boat every time I switched from one side to the other to paddle."

David's rescue was attributed by harbor police to the detailed knowledge of the lake's currents of Lt.-Cmdr. A. A. F. Hodge, captain of the research vessel Port Dauphine.

The ship set out in darkness from its Belleville base and was close by the boy after dawn Monday. He was picked out of the ice-covered dinghy by the crew.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1968—PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

Eventually, our society is going to be forced into taking a long, critical look at itself, and from this examination, at least one reform will, I hope, result.

This is a ukase which would chase mothers of young children out of industry and commerce, and back home where they belong.

Just how much harm the absentee mother has done to the fabric of our civilization no impartial commission has so far set out to discover.

But when the tale is told, I expect we'll find that she's responsible for a list of crimes that begins with the alienation of children and includes the spiritual if not physical emasculation of the male.

I'm fully aware that mine is a harsh and terribly stuffy viewpoint, but I didn't arrive at it lightly, and will not be persuaded out of it. I've seen too many nine-to-five orphans, and too many husbands who have been conned out of their birthright by a sensible-seeming, 'Just until we've paid for the new furniture, dear'.

We get children around our place who never in their young lives have tasted honest, fresh-baked bread hot from an oven. We've also had those who were excited and happy—for a while—because their mothers had gone to work.

Listen to one of them, a few months after the event:

"We thought that things would be a lot more fun with the extra money coming in. But when she comes home she's too tired to do anything or go anywhere with us."

There are also the hours before the working mother comes home, but after the kids are out of school. Those periods when no mother, and often no adult is in charge, are trouble-breeders . . . and no point in blaming the teacher who can only substitute so far for the absentee parent.

There are mothers who have to work outside the home, and these deserve both help and sympathy. But the others, the keepers up with the Joneses who sell their families short for a few extra dollars, will never get a good word from me.

The rivermen who know and respect the strong, fast Cowichan have issued a plain warning to amateur boatmen, and we can hope these will heed it.

But even though that stream has added four more lives to its lengthy list, I expect that still others will insist on betting their strength and skill against its wicked current.

It is worth noting, however, that several dozen fast-water fans of a different sort challenged the Cowichan last weekend, and emerged from it none the worse for wear.

They were strong swimmers, they knew precisely what they were about, and they were wearing the most effective life preserver man has yet devised for himself.

This is the skin-divers' neoprene wet suit.

"A man in a wet suit floats like a cork," says Scuba Shop proprietor Frank White Sr. "In fact he needs a lead belt before he can make himself sink. The suit gives him a huge safety factor. He never gets water-logged, he's protected from the cold, and he's a lot safer from the snags that may hook into a life-jacket."

If there's anyone who feels he absolutely must try his luck on a spring-high river, I hope he will heed Mr. White's advice. It could save his life.

While lunching on indifferent omelette and slushed potatoes in a cute little restaurant that should do better, we fell into conversation with a mainland couple who asked a plaintive question.

"If Victoria really wants to attract visitors, why are practically all your restaurants closed on holidays?"

The reason, as I understand it, is that a good many proprietors are unwilling to pay their staffs overtime plus time off for holiday work.

The tourists arrived here on Good Friday morning, and prowled hither and yon in the downtown sector in search of a meal. Finally, when they were about ready to decide that food had gone out of style in these parts, a good chap directed them to the Dominion Hotel, where they enjoyed a fine lunch.

EYE-OPENING experience for tiny bear cub was finding himself in Duncan Zoo in care of Mrs. Tosca Oyen instead of with his mother. Cub was one of two huddled by their mother when a logger felled the tree that was their den. Mother fled, killing one cub in her haste. Survivor has never seen another bear—his eyes just opened, which puts his age at about seven weeks. He may reach 600 pounds at maturity in about three years. But he'll have to find someone else to nuzzle then, says Mrs. Oyen. (Photo by Dave Hancock, Island View Wildlife Research Centre.)

NEW WOES STRIKE SCHOOL

Plans for the proposed new Victoria West School have run into a new snag, Trustee Ted Wood reported to Greater Victoria School Board Tuesday.

He said plans had to be redrawn in order to meet the provincial requirement that cost not exceed $15,000 per classroom.

But even then the department of education rejected them.

Latest request is for removal of a hall and storage room for wet weather clothing to make room for another classroom.

In Mr. Wood's opinion the changes are "administratively impossible" and the $15,000 limit is not feasible.

School board representatives hope to meet with provincial officials again within a week to attempt a solution.

New Postings For Teachers

Four appointments were announced today by Greater Victoria school board.

Effective Sept. 1, Elved Davies, now principal at Lampson elementary will become principal of the larger Oaklands elementary.

Robert Tubman, now at Central Junior Secondary School, will take over at Dean Heights Occupational School, the old Richmond School.

Donald Falker, now at Frank Hobbs elementary, will become an administrative assistant at school board headquarters.

And within the next month, H. A. Fraser, administrator for a local car firm, will become the new assistant secretary-treasurer to the school board.

DRUG KITS GO QUICKLY

Parental interest in Greater Victoria school board drug information kits has cleaned out initial supplies.

District superintendent Joseph Chell today said 480 kits have been sent out to inquiring parents so far and 200 more have been requested. They will go out by the end of the week.

Parents may receive the collection on pamphlets by telephoning the board at 385-1411. They deal with marijuana and other aspects of drug use and trafficking.

Patients the Real Winners In Mayors' Blood Battle

Victoria won the Red Cross corpuscle contest Tuesday.

Or it was a tie with Saanich? Nobody's too certain.

Big winners of course were the hospital patients who need blood transfusions. The one-day blood-letting race headed up by Mayor Hugh Stephen and Mayor Hugh Curtis yielded 262 pints.

Red Cross officials said the final tally showed 121 donors gave Victoria addresses while 103 came from Saanich. Oak Bay produced only 21 donors and Esquimalt had a scant representation of 17.

Where the doubt comes in — officials say an undetermined number of visitors to the area were listed as Victoria donors. There was a suggestion that the Saanich mayor might claim a foul and ask for a judicial inquiry, but this could not be confirmed.

Mayor Curtis and Mayor Stephen bled for the cause simultaneously on adjoining beds, complaining that the crowd of interested onlookers were hovering "like a flock of vultures."

The mobile clinic was to visit Colquitz Jail today and a further public clinic will be held at Red Cross House tonight at 6:30.

Conciliator Tackles Coast Dispute

A conciliation officer was appointed today in the contract dispute between 28,000 B.C. coast woodworkers and 126 companies.

Appointment of Jack Sherlock of Victoria involves negotiations between the International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations.

Talks between both sides broke down March 26 and the union applied for a labor department conciliation officer April 1.

Last Wednesday the IWA sent a telegram to the labor department protesting the delay and requesting an immediate appointment.

The IWA is seeking a 50-cent hourly wage increase in a one-year contract on the present basic rate of $2.76 an hour plus other items.

Hospital Staffs To Vote Soon On New Contract

Hospital workers in British Columbia will begin voting shortly on a proposed new contract with their employers.

No details of the agreement are being released by the B.C. Hospitals' Association, representing 58 hospitals, and the 6,500-member Hospital Employees Union.

The proposal was agreed upon by negotiating committees for both sides after they met labor department conciliator Jack Sherlock.

A union spokesman said it will take about three weeks for the proposal to be outlined to all local units and the vote held.

One of the units affected is St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria where 450 employees won a 17.3 per cent raise in a one-year contract last year.

DR. ENDICOTT
. . . Vietnam topic

Endicott Speaks Sunday Afternoon

Rev. Dr. James Endicott, chairman of the left-wing Canadian Peace Congress and an executive member of the World Council of Peace, will visit Victoria Sunday.

He will speak at a meeting in Club Tango, 1037 View Street, at 2 p.m.

Dr. Endicott will report on an international conference on Vietnam which he attended recently in Stockholm.

For the past 20 years he has devoted most of his time to the cause of world peace. He was a United Church missionary in China for many years and is a son of Dr. James Endicott, a former moderator of the United Church of Canada.

Woman Hurt In Crash On Douglas

A woman is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today after a two-car collision at Douglas and Saanich Tuesday afternoon.

Alice Crisp, 530 Normandy, received head injuries when her car collided with a car driven south on Douglas by Leonard Grainger, 961 Lavender.

An electrical fire in the Crisp vehicle was quickly extinguished by Saanich firemen.

CHILDREN HURT

A short time later, two children were injured in an accident at Caledonia and Blanshard.

Diane McKinnon, 10, and Janet McKinnon, 13, of Richmond, were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital and released.

Police said they were passengers in a car driven east on Caledonia by Sadie McKinnon which collided with a car driven north on Blanshard by Lorne McMillan, 3851 Raymond.

Earlier Tuesday, no one was injured when a car slammed into an oak tree in Beacon Hill Park.

Police said the car, driven south through the park by Winifred Bath, 351 Ker Ave., was heavily damaged.

Damage to the tree was negligible.

NEW AUSSIE SHIP HERE ON WEEKEND

A sparkling new Australian destroyer armed for missile fleet defence as well as anti-submarine and gunnery operations will visit here this weekend.

She is the 4,500-ton $45 million Brisbane, built in the United States and commissioned at Boston, Mass. last December 16.

She arrives Friday and will remain until Monday. It is expected there will be "open house" for visitors, but times have not been announced.

Another example of her modernity — her visit here was announced not by navy channels but through a Vancouver public relations firm which also glorifies the Australian Government Trade Commission.

Brisbane's silhouette preserves the sleek lines of pre-war knife-nosed destroyers and is dominated by a superstructure reminiscent of cruisers and battleships. She is 437 feet long with a 47 foot beam and carries a complement of 20 officers and 313 other ranks.

She is one of three guided missile destroyers being provided to Australia by Defoe Shipbuilding Company of Boston.

But although the TARTAR guided missile is a U.S.-designed weapon, she carries a long range anti-sub missile designed, built and fitted in Australia.

Brisbane's speed is in excess of 30 knots, powered by geared steam turbines.

HMAS Brisbane . . . only four months old.

'THEY DIDN'T CARE'

River Residents Hampered Hunt

'Told Us to Get Off Their Land'

By PETE LOUDON

"Heartless" riverbank residents on the Cowichan tried to impede searchers seeking the bodies of two drowning victims Tuesday, it was claimed here today.

Richard Petersen, of Courtenay, brother and uncle of river victims John (42) and Bill (18) Petersen, said: "People kept telling us to get off their property. "Even when we told them what we were doing, they didn't care."

He said he was amazed at the cold-hearted manner of some of the river residents and surprised that they should be able to claim the banks of the popular fish river as a private preserve.

(Mr. Petersen's complaints underlined an historic controversy among sportsmen and residents in an area where campers, fishermen and picnickers have found the best reaches of the Cowichan, Koksilah and Chemainus Rivers privately owned, controlled by logging companies or Indian reserves.)

SEARCHERS PRAISED

Mr. Petersen on the other hand, was fast to praise the generosity of Cowichan and Duncan RCMP and fish and game club members who turned out to aid in the search.

"They were 100 per cent," he said.

The concentrated riverbank search for the body of Bill Petersen was called off today following the finding of the body of his father Tuesday about two miles east of Skutz Falls.

This morning, five divers from Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, headed by Lieut. Don Deane, began an underwater search in various deep pools in the same viccinity for Bill's body.

John and Bill Petersen were attempting to canoe from Skutz Falls to the river mouth at Cowichan Bay Monday when unknown tragedy overtook them.

The accident occurred less than 24 hours after the river drowning of Mrs. Joan Cook, 35, and her three-year-old daughter Helen. Dr. Norman Cook of Victoria and two other daughters survived the tipping of their boat.

Half of the Petersen's canoe was recovered from the river the same day Mr. Petersen's body was found.

John Stewart Petersen was assistant superintendent at Western Lumber Carriers here. The family lives at 3190 Glen Lake Road and is well known in the area.

Born in 1926 at Port Arthur, Mr. Petersen was an RCAF war veteran who settled here in 1945.

FORMER SCOUTMASTER

His brother said he loved hunting and fishing. He was a Mason and formerly was scoutmaster to a troop in Glen Lake. His son Bill was a grade 12 student at Belmont High School and his great ambition was to own and operate a commercial fishing boat.

Surviving are wife and mother Mrs. Elinore Petersen, four sons — John, James, Scott, Russell and one daughter Ravanne. Other family members include brothers James at Port Arthur, Harold at Flinton, Ont., sisters Helen at Red Deer and Joan in Vancouver.

Funeral arrangements or memorial services will be announced by Sands Mortuary Ltd., Colwood.

Carpenters Win 74-Cent Hourly Hike

Biggest on Record Says Council Head

By Roger Stonebanks

A pace-setting wage increase of 74 cents an hour over two years has been set by British Columbia carpenters.

The increase, described by Arnold Smith, president of the Provincial Council of Carpenters as the biggest on record, was announced Tuesday.

Both the 8,000-member United Brotherhood of Carpenters and the 118 contractors represented by the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C. have ratified the new contract.

It was the first major contract settlement in B.C. this year and was expected to be a barometer for other unions, both in and out of the construction industry, in their negotiations.

The journeyman rate of $4.14 an hour will be increased in five steps to $4.88 an hour on Nov. 1, 1969. Hours of work remain unchanged with the 7½-hour day and 37½-hour week.

$27.75 WEEKLY

In weekly terms, the increase amounts to $27.75 on the present $155.25.

Mr. Smith, in discussing the settlement, pointed out however that the average construction worker has employment for only eight months of the year.

The average based on the last two years was about 1,200 hours work compared with 1,960 hours for a person working a 40-hour week every week with three weeks off for holidays.

Spokesmen for both the union and the contractors said it was the first time in memory that agreement was reached before an existing contract ran out. Expiry of the present contract is April 30.

Journeyman wages will be increased to $4.32 on May 1, $4.38 July 1, $4.53 Nov. 1, $4.73 next May 1 and $4.88 on Nov. 1, 1969.

TRAVEL PAY UP

For metropolitan travel in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria the present four cents an hour will go to six cents on May 1 and eight cents on Nov. 1.

Vacation and statutory holiday pay, now 9.6 per cent of gross earnings, will be increased to 10 per cent next year. Apprenticeship pay in the last 18 months of the four-year term will be increased to 80 per cent, 85 per cent and 90 per cent of the journeyman rate, which is an increase of five per cent in each six-month period.

Negotiations for a new contract began last February. The union sought a 10 per cent raise in every year of a new agreement plus the seven-hour work day. Contractors offered a five per cent increase.

Boths ides declined any comment or information on negotiations until agreement was reached at the bargaining table and ratification formally announced Tuesday.

This was in marked contrast to two years ago when there was a two-month lockout over the shorter work day issue and both sides made frequent public statements.

Queen Scout Ceremony On Thursday

The 13th annual Queen Scout ceremonies take place Thursday at Government House.

The Queen Scout rating is the highest achievement in Scouting.

Since the Scouting badge system is being revised, only one more such ceremony is expected. In future the classification will be called "Queen's Venture".

Total of 280 Scouts from all over B.C. will take part in the ceremonies. Forty will be from the Victoria area.

The main body of Scouts will arrive from the mainland at 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

LUNCHEON

There will be a luncheon sponsored by former lieutenant-governor Frank M. Ross in the Empress Hotel at noon followed by the presentations at 2:30 p.m. by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, patron of B.C. Scouting.

Friday morning at 9:30 a.m. the mainland Scouts will leave Esquimalt aboard HMCS St. Croix for Vancouver.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you please tell me the number of kilowatts the average householder would use per month? S.S.

A. The consumption of electricity is measured in kilowatt-hours. B.C. Hydro figures the average consumption of electric power across the province is 6,000 kilowatt-hours per year, which breaks down to 500 kwh per month. But power consumption fluctuates from month to month, depending on the weather, and is usually heavier during the winter months, lighter in the summer.

Q. Could you give me an address of the Royal Albert China company in England? L.C.

A. The makers of the Royal Albert line of fine china are Thomas C. Wild and Sons, Ltd., Stoke-on-Trent, England.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

$800,000 FOR RECREATION

Sept. 21 Asked For Bylaw Vote

NORTH COWICHAN—The municipal recreation commission has already picked a date for the $800,000 recreation bylaw—September 21.

Ald. Dennis Hogan said Tuesday evening: "If you can't put it over in three months, you will not be able to put it over at all."

The date will be recommended to the next joint meeting with Duncan city recreation commission.

Ald. Hogan said: "Caution should be used, but too much caution could dampen people's enthusiasm."

$5,000 CUT

He reported to the municipal commission that the council's provisional recreation budget of $57,000 has been cut by $5,000.

Ald. Hogan said cuts in recreation and other spending were necessary to keep the general mill rate within bounds.

Despite cuts so far made, a six-mill increase in the rate appears likely.

Ald. Gerry Smith said the necessary mill rate for the proposed recreation bylaw will be made public at today's council meeting.

CONTROL DUST

Recreation director Earl O'Neill and municipal clerk A. Vandecasteyen will investigate if enough money is available in the recreation budget to allow the spending of about $7,000 for a terazzo rather than concrete floor at Fullers Lake ice arena.

Mr. O'Neill said terazzo would control the dust problem in summer when the arena is used for roller skating, dances and other activities.

Black Watch May 3

Annual dinner of the Black Watch Veterans Association will be held at Work Point Barracks, May 3, not May 23, as announced earlier.

Tickets may be obtained from Roy Henley, secretary-treasurer, at 652-1796.

Missing Man Praying In Woods

After being missing since March 1, Lashkari Singh Sall, 35, walked out of the woods at Lake Cowichan Tuesday and explained he had been "praying to God".

On hearing the RCMP were searching for him, Lashkari phoned them at midnight and said he had been in the woods all the time.

Lashkar is married but his family is still in India.

A reward of $200 was offered for information leading to his location. Advertisements — with his picture—were placed in British Columbia newspapers.

He was unavailable for comment this morning, having returned to his job at the Hillcrest Lumber Company at Mesachie Lake.

EX-AIRMAN TO 'MINE' OLD CHINESE TOWN

Have Ghosts Bottled Up a Fortune?

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The historic Chinese ghost town near Cumberland is about to fade away.

The 12-acre property with its ramshackle huts has been leased to Harry Lewis, of Parksville, who plans to "mine" the land for its old bottles and oriental artifacts.

The 34-year-old former air force man said today he plans to sell the bottles as collectors' items. They are much sought after, particularly in the U.S., for their shapes and colors.

He said the shacks will be torn down, except two still occupied by elderly Chinese.

●

A log cabin built in 1860 and occupied by Robert Dunsmuir, who amassed a fortune on coal mined at Cumberland, will be preserved.

Owners of the property, Weldwood of Canada, have indicated they may eventually ship the cabin to Vancouver as part of a mining museum.

Mr. Lewis said a Seattle man collected thousands of bottles from the site last year.

The bottles fetched an average price of $1.25 each.

He said the man didn't even dig for the bottles.

Many of them were thrown away by souvenir hunters searching for old china and other artifacts.

●

Some of the old medicine bottles are highly valued in the U.S. he said. One catalogue listed the price at $25 a bottle, another at $15. Other items of value are opium jars, wine jugs and water pipes.

Mr. Lewis said he planned to keep some of the artifacts for a pioneer museum which he plans to establish at Parksville.

"I'm also going to reconstruct one of the Chinese huts and furnish it with the furniture and utensils which I have picked up on the site."

He hopes the owners of the property won't ship the Dunsmuir log cabin to Vancouver.

"I think it should be moved to Parksville."

Mr. Lewis plans to sift the soil mechanically from depths varing from four to seven feet.

●

A large part of the site was once a swamp which was filled with garbage by the former inhabitants and then backfilled.

It's the garbage which is worth something today.

Mr. Lewis agreed the area should have been preserved as an historic site.

"The people around here said something should be done to preserve the ghost town, but they took no action. There were others who laughed at the idea of preserving the place."

The Chinese town blossomed after Dunsmuir discovered rich coal veins in the Cumberland district. Miners poured into the area, many from Cumberland County, England. Additional labor was brought from China and at one point 2,800 Chinese and 300 Japanese were working in the mines.

●

A big Chinatown sprung up near Union Mine. At one time it had five chop suey houses and an imposing building called the Lum Yung Club for off-duty Chinese.

The mine closed in the 1920s following two explosions, believed caused by miners smoking at work.

Chinese inhabitants gradually moved away after the closure.

The village pased into obscurity until U.S. souvenir hunters "re-discovered" it several years ago. Last summer hundreds of visitors, mostly from across the border, dug or scratched the soil's surface for artifacts.

YOUTH JAILED FOR ROBBING LIQUOR STORE

LAKE COWICHAN—William Arthur Francis, 19, of Lake Cowichan, was jailed Tuesday for breaking, entering and theft at the village liquor store March 11.

He had pleaded guilty earlier.

Francis will serve nine months' definite and nine months' indeterminate at Haney Correctional Institute.

Three other youths, who have pleaded not guilty, will face similar charges at preliminary hearings in May.

MILL RATE CUT BY NANAIMO

NANAIMO — City council has cut its mill rate by 3.3 mills to 71.2 mills.

It has also approved a budget of $4,880,000.

"This budget opens up great new fields for Nanaimo," said finance committee chairman Gertrude Hall. "I was here when the city's budget first topped $1,000,000, and it caused great excitement."

"The mill rate cut was made possible by the new hospital district taking over the annual debt payment for the hospital, and the one-mill levy for purchase of hospital equipment in 1967."

Ald. Ken Medland said the council's blacktop road program is cheaper than expected and should be finished in two months.

"Nobody will have to drive more than one or two blocks before driving on one of our new roads," he said.
